LASSETTERS'

GREAT RECORD

WINTER SALE

IS A RECORD BREAKER.

OVERSTOCKS CONDUCE
SHARP REDUCTIONS.

PRICES NEVER SO LOW.

A MASSING OF ECONOMIES.

We will not mince words. We will quickly state the condition, and give the main facts without any frill. We are greatly overstocked with all sorts of Winter things, so we radically underprice.

NEVER HAVE SUCH VAST ASSEMBLAGES OF FINE GOODS PARTICIPATED IN ANY SALE.

Now's the time to clear decks—to effect riddance—to remove obstructions. There is much to move—hence much of price reducing.

PRICES HAVE NEVER BEEN SO DEEPLY CUT—NEVER SUCH SACRIFICES—SUCH STARING SAVINGS—SUCH STARTLING SELLING. Every department, every stock is affected. All Winter Goods must go. ALL WINTER GOODS WILL GO, AND AT A LIVELY RATE.

No reservation, no favourites. Everything Wintry joins the whirl. Selling is proceeding with a rush. Stocks are disappearing as if by magic.

Come early, while assortments are complete.

DURING REBUILDING THE RECORD WINTER SALE CONTINUED AS USUAL.

AT ANTHONY HORDERNS'.

THE SCOTT PICTURES.

A Collection of Photographic Pictures by Mr. Herbert G. Ponting, depicting incidents of the Scott Antarctic Expedition, is now on view in the FINE ART GALLERY.

The pictures are unique, giving truthful vivid insight into the manner in which a great Polar Expedition was conducted; indeed the collection has been described as a liberal contribution to the sum of human knowledge, having great, personal, historic, artistic, and scientific value.

We invite inspection. No one is importuned to purchase.

Children Like It.

"You know it is not an easy matter to get children to take medicine and forcing it on them does no good. Most mothers know this and rather than force their little ones to take an ill-tasting medicine will give them one which, while palatable, contains a drug injurious to the child.

The great popularity of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is explained by the fact that it contains no narcotics and at the same time is so pleasant and agreeable to the taste that children like it. Each bottle of bears the Government analysis, showing that it has been officially declared free from all narcotics. For this reason alone mother's can depend upon it."

CHAMBERLAIN'S

CHAPTER XIV.—Continued.

"He intends foul play, eh?" I remarked with a grim smile, lighting another cigarette.

"He means mischief," she assured me. "He knows, too well, of your success in other cases in which you have interested yourself" she remarked quickly. "And he fears—fears lest you may discover the secret of the young man's death."

"And if I do?" I asked looking straight into her face.

"He does not intend that you shall," she replied very earnestly, adding: "Ah, M'sieur Vidal, do heed my words—I beg you. Be warned by me."

"But why?" I queried. "I am not afraid of Jules Jeanjean. I have never done him an evil turn. Therefore, why should he conspire to take my life? Besides, I already know of this connection with the Cromer mystery, the Benoy affair, and others. Could I not easily have sent a telegram to the Prefecture of Police in Paris when I recognised him in Cromer? But I did not."

"Why?"

"For two reasons. First, I wished to stand aside and watch; and, secondly, I feared to betray him for your sake, Lola."

"Ah," she exclaimed. "But you are always so generous. You know quite well that he already believes that I have told you the truth. Therefore he suspects us both, and is determined to put an end to your inquisitiveness."

"Unless I act swiftly, eh?" I suggested.

"But think—what would then become of me?" she exclaimed, her eyes open in quick alarm.

"I can't see what you really have to fear," I said. "It is true, Lola, that you live, like your friends, by dishonest methods, but have you not been forced into it by your uncle? Even if you were arrested, the law would treat you with the greatest leniency. Indeed, if necessary, I would come forward and tell the Court all I have known and discovered concerning the baneful influence which has been exercised upon you by the man Jeanjean."

She shook her head mournfully.

"Alas, that would be of no avail," she declared, in a low, strained voice.

"Why?"

"Because—because—ah, you do not know the truth," she faltered, her face pale to the lips.

"Cannot you explain it to me?" I asked, bending down to her, and placing my hand tenderly upon her shoulder.

I felt her shudder beneath my touch, while her big blue eyes were downcast—downcast in shame.

"No, I cannot explain," she replied. "If you knew, M'sieur Vidal, how horrible, how terrible, all this is for me, you would not press your question."

"But I do—in your interests," I said with deep earnestness. "I want to help you to escape from these scoundrels—I want to stand your friend."

"My friend," she exclaimed blankly. "My friend—ah, that you can never be."

"Why not?"

"You would not wish to cultivate my acquaintance further, M'sieur Vidal, if—if you were aware of the actual truth. Besides, this friendship which you have shown to me may, in itself, prove fatal to you. If you do not exercise the greatest precaution, your reward for saving me, as you did that night at Balmaclellan, will be death."

"You are apprehensive on my account?" I asked, wondering whether she were really in earnest—or whether beneath her strange warning there lay some subtle motive.

"Yes," was her frank response. "Take great care, or death will come to you at a moment when you least expect it."

For an instant I was silent. Her warning was truly a curious and disconcerting one, for I knew the dangerous character of Jules Jeanjean. That if he threatened, he meant action.

"I do not care for myself, Lola," I said at last. "I am thinking how I can protect you, and rescue you from the hands of these unscrupulous men."

"You cannot," she declared, with a hard, fixed look of desperation. "No; only be careful of yourself, and, at the same time, dismiss me from your thoughts. I—I am unworthy of your regard," she murmured, her voice choked by a sob. "Alas, entirely unworthy."

"No, no," I urged. "I will not allow you to speak like that, Lola. Ever since you entered my room, on that well-remembered night in Scotland, I have wondered how best I could assist you to lead an honest life; how I could ——"

"I can accept no further assistance from you, M'sieur Vidal," she interposed in a quivering voice. I repeat that I am entirely unworthy," she cried, and shivered with despair, as she stood erect before me. "And—and—if you only knew the truth, the terrible truth—of the past—you would at once, I know, turn and discard me—nay, you would probably ring for the waiter and hand me over to the police without either compunction or regret."

And the girl known as "The Nightingale" stood before me, her face white and hard, her eyes with a strange light in them, staring straight before her, her breast heaving and falling with emotion which she was trying in vain to suppress.

CHAPTER XV.

CONFIRMS CERTAIN SUSPICIONS.

For yet another hour we sat together, but Lola would reveal nothing further.

She only repeated that serious warning, urging me to abandon this investigation of the strange affair at Cromer.

She refused to tell me the name under which old Gregory was known in Hatton Garden, and she likewise firmly declined to give me any information concerning the curious code which had been found in Gregory's room. Indeed, she affected ignorance of it, as well as of the mysterious spot in Ealing "where the two C's meet."

"My uncle is in Antwerp," she told me in reply to a question. "I join him to-morrow, and then we go travelling—where, I have no idea. But you know how erratic and sudden our movements necessarily are. The master usually meets my uncle in Antwerp, going there regularly in the guise of a diamond merchant."

"And you will not tell me the master's real name?" I asked persuasively.

"I am not allowed. If you discover it for yourself, then I shall not be to blame," she said, with a meaning smile. "But do, I beg of you, give up the search, M'sieu' Vidal. It can only end fatally if you still persist."

"You have warned me, Lola, and I thank you sincerely for doing so, but I shall continue to act as I have begun."

"At your own peril—a deadly peril!" she ejaculated, with an apprehensive look.

"I must accept the risk," I said quietly. "And I intend to still stand your friend, Lola."

"But you must not, you cannot!" she protested. "Of course, I most deeply appreciate all that you have done for me—and how generous you have been, knowing that I am, alas!—what I am. But I will not allow you to risk your life further on my account."

"That is really my own affair."

"No. It is mine. I am here to-day, in secret, solely to warn you—to ask you—to give up this inquiry, and allow the matter to rest a mystery," she protested. "Will you not do this for my sake?" she pleaded.

For a few seconds I paused, smiling at her. Then I replied—

"No; I cannot promise that. Young Craig was foully murdered, of that I am confident, and I intend to unravel the mystery."

"Even though it costs you your life?" she asked slowly.

Why, I wondered, was she so frantically anxious for me to abandon the inquiry? Was it really because she feared that her uncle might attempt to rid himself of me, or had she some other hidden motive?

The expression upon her sweet face had altered. It was eager and apprehensive—a curious look, such as I had never witnessed there before.

Deeply in earnest, she was persuading me, with all the arts of which she, as a woman, was capable to give up the investigation—why?

My refusal evidently caused her the greatest anxiety—even deadly fear. She would, however, reveal nothing more to me. Therefore, I told her point-blank that I would make her no promise.

"But you will think over my words," she said earnestly. "You will be forewarned of the evil that is intended."

"If there is evil, then I will combat it," I replied briefly. "My first concern is yourself, Lola. Do you remember our confidential talks when we strolled together in the Bois—when you told me all your troubles and your fears?"

"Yes," she replied, in a strange, dreary voice. "But—but, I did not tell you all. You do not know," she added, in a whisper.

"Tell me all," I urged. "I know you are—well, let us say it quite plainly—a thief."

"Ah; if I were only that, I might dare to look you in the face—to crave your sympathy—your interest—your generosity once again. But I cannot. No, I cannot," and she burst into tears.

"Are we not friends?" I queried. "And between friends surely there may be confidences."

"To a certain degree, yes. But there is a limit, even to confidences between friends," was her slow, thoughtful reply, as she dried her eyes, with a little wisp of lace.

I was disappointed. I had fully expected to obtain from her some clue which might lead to a solution of the mystery of Craig's death. But she was obdurate.

"Lola," I said, taking her trembling hand again, "I wish to tell you something."

"Well, what is it?" she asked.

"Simply this. I think I ought to tell you that, near that seat on the cliff at Cromer, where Craig was found, there was discovered a clear print of a lady's shoe," and I watched her countenance narrowly.

Her face went paler in an instant, and in her eyes showed a quick look of terror. But in a second she had recovered herself, and said—

"That is interesting. Do you think that its presence there gives any clue to the assassin?"

"I don't know," was my reply. I stood before her in wonder. Her perfect sangfroid was truly amazing. "But," I went on, "curiously enough, the same lady's shoe was found in Beacon House, after Gregory's property had been carried off. It fitted exactly the imprint in the sand near the seat."

The only sign that her mind was perturbed by my knowledge was a slight twitching at the corners of her pretty mouth. Yes, she preserved an astounding calm.

"That is curious," she remarked with unconcern.

"Very," I declared, still gazing fixedly into her white face. "And can you tell me nothing further regarding this affair?" I asked, bending to her, and speaking in a whisper.

She shook her head.

I did not suspect—nay, I could not bring myself to believe—that Edward Craig had fallen by her hand. Yet the facts were strange—amazingly strange—and her demeanour was stranger still.

HOW OUR GRADMOTHERS MANAGED TO LOOK YOUNG AT SIXTY.

"It is strange," remarked an old chemist the other day, "that so many women nowadays persist in trying all sorts of injurious patent systems and complicated treatments, hoping to restore ruined complexions or improve the appearance of their skins, when they might easily do so by the simple home remedies of their grandmothers. In olden times a woman looked comparatively young at sixty, while now most women have blemished complexions long before they are thirty. Yet nothing new has been invented anything like so effective as the old-time lotion used by famous French Court beauties, such as Recamier and Du Barry, to preserve their youthful appearance. The recipe was so simple: just 2oz rosewater, 1 drahm tincture of benzoin, and 2oz ordinary flowers of oxzoin, which any chemist will supply. Mix the lotion well, then apply with a soft cloth. If you apply it regularly it will not only keep the skin free from wrinkles, but will quickly restore the dullest complexion. My own daughter is nearly fifty years old, and in this way she keeps her face looking so young and fresh that most people think she has not reached the age of thirty-five."

The above advice indicates such a simple, harmless means to rejuvenate the appearance, that it is published for the benefit of lady readers.—Advt.

THE DUFAULT CONCERTS.

THE TENOR IN GREAT VOICE.

Paul Dufault, who remains more French than ever, in spite of his allegiance to Canada, enjoyed a reception of overwhelming enthusiasm on Saturday night at the Town Hall. It is only two years since this distinguished artist first appeared here with Mme. De Cisneros, yet in that brief space he has returned from New York for a second tour with the late Mme. Nordica. Moreover, he is now closing a third tour, during which he has starred on his own account to such good purpose that he gave his 113th concert on Saturday, after travelling continuously throughout the Commonwealth of Australia and New Zealand. During that time M. Dufault has not once failed to appear, and the same remarkable record holds good in the case of his two supporting artists, Miss Pauline Bindley and Mr. Ernest Toy. Miss Bindley is a soprano from Bendigo, gifted with a fresh and youthful voice of lyric charm, whilst Mr. Toy's reappearance reminded concert-goers that the orchestral leader of the original "Madame Butterfly" season is also a brilliant soloist. An unusually large audience, considering the weather, assembled in honour of the Franco-Canadian tenor, and then recognised the quality of the programme as a whole by securing extra numbers.

M. Dufault, besides the mellow quality of a dramatic-tenor voice of large volume, which he always employs with art and significance, is able to draw upon a great repertoire of French and American songs. Many of these are either new, or rarely heard here from anyone but himself. He studied his operatic treasury of arias under Duperon, a famous tenor of the Paris Opera, and he possesses an intimate knowledge of the musical literature of America, of which even the best examples fail to reach this country because they are unknown in England. M. Dufault's opening number was the Prayer from "Le Cid," in which the hero, vanquished in battle, and bereft of his love, bows to the Divine will, and answers the last call without fear in the words, "O Sovereign, O Judge, O Father, I Bless Thee in the Hour of Darkness." Massenet has here been finely inspired by a great subject, and the singer invested the majestically melodious theme with an elevation of style and a breadth of tone which deeply moved the audience. A double encore after many recalls resulted in love-songs in a lighter vein, "In a Garden," and "When Song is Sweet" (Sans-souci).

In his second group of songs, which opened with Cowen's "At the Mid-hour of Night," the most remarkable feature was the light and dainty appeal of Massenet's "Le Sais-tu?" due to the finished art of the singer, and M. Dufault then stirred the audience anew with "How's My Boy?" This intensely dramatic ballad is by Homer, the American composer, who struck the same note of anguish in "The Song of the Shirt" ("Stitch, Stitch, Stitch"), introduced in Australia by David Bispham. "How's My Boy?" is the reiterated question of a mother to a sailor on the quay who has just learned that her son's ship has gone down with every soul on board. The French tenor, whose English diction is so distinct, vividly brings out all the characteristics of the woman—her boisterous joy shaken by the lack of respond in the other, her fear that refuses to recognise the truth, the solemnity of the sailor, and her final cry of despair, "Where's My Boy?" The music, too, with its expressive discords, is fine, and it is good to think that such an art effort has been popularised throughout Australasia by the singer's dramatic talent.

The encores at this point were Harriet Ware's "Boat Song," which the audience recognised so warmly at the first few arpeggio chords struck by the pianist (Mr. Harold Smith) that he had to begin again, and "Mother o' Mine." At the end of the evening M. Dufault prefaced Holmes' regimental descriptive ballad, "Au Pays," with a brief and interesting explanation of the French story; and the audience would have been pleased had he followed the same course with "Le Cid," as the opera is unknown here. The beautiful "Sylvelin" of Sinding, which is quite Grieg-like, and Bruno Huhn's "Invictus," the latter declaimed with fiery animation and power, were followed after five recalls with the tender little love-song, "Dis Non, Mignon."

Miss Pauline Bindley made her Sydney debut in Cho-Cho-San's poetic romance "One Fine Day." This young singer possesses a lyric soprano of beautiful timbre. Although of ample power in the upper register, and fresh in its quality throughout, as frequently happens with this class of voice, it ceases to be so effective elsewhere. Miss Bindley has been well trained, and sings with dramatic feeling for her music, and is, in fact, an immature artist already of charm, who will undoubtedly be heard of in the future. The encore was Leoni's "Dawn." Her second group opened with Mme. Guy d'Hardelot's "I Hid My Love," followed by Arne's "The Lass With the Delicate Air." In the latter the singer unavoidably suffered by comparison with Mlle. Dolores, though a mezza voce high phrase of an ornamental character, skilfully rendered, vastly took the fancy of the audience. Landon Ronald's "Love, I Have Won You," was given with effective warmth, and another emphatically cordial reception led to the addition of "If No One Ever Marries Me" (Lehmann).

It is a long time since Mr. Ernest Toy has appeared as soloist, and many people were delighted to be reminded in Wieniawski's bravura piece, "Souvenir de Moscow," that he is a violinist of genuine executive brilliancy who is further gifted with an excellent tone. The encore was an "Intermezzo" by Noel Johnson. The artist's own "Madrigal," a graceful melody in well-balanced sections, was rendered with a bright, pure tone, and his neat fingering in Bohm's "The Butterfly," a kind of "moto perpetuo," and in other pieces and encores, was also admired.

Mr. Frederick Shipman announces new programmes for the concerts of to-morrow, Thursday, and Saturday evenings, the plans for which are at Paling's.

MOTOR CAR BURNT.

WAGGA, Saturday.

A motor car, owned by Norman V. Devlin, was destroyed on the road near Collingully. Devlin travelled to Collingully, intending to return to Wagga. The car, however, refused to start, and next morning, while the mechanic was working at the engine it backfired and the car caught alight.

AMUSEMENTS.

PALACE THEATRE.

A season of pictures was opened at the Palace Theatre on Saturday night, when the theatre was packed. An excellent programme was presented, the feature film being "Tess of the Storm Country," in which Miss Mary Pickford plays the leading role. The film, which is in five parts, has been produced by the famous Players Company, and is noteworthy for its excellent photography and the trueness of the atmosphere. The scenes in the fishermen's dwellings were delightful, and Miss Pickford charmed the large audience by her delineation of the part of the ragged fisher-girl. The programme also included some good views of the Bavarian frontier, and two comedies, "Andy Plays Cupid" and "Bosun's Mate." Starting with the matinee on Saturday, the management will screen a film illustrating the Life of General Villa.

NALL-FRENCH RECITAL.

The joint recital of Miss Dorothy Nall and Mr. Percy French at St. James's Hall on Saturday night was an unqualified success from every point of view. There was a packed audience, and from the opening number to the last encore the applause was enthusiastic and general. Among many excellent numbers the scene from "Midsummer Night's Dream" may be mentioned as a piece of Shakesperian recital such as Sydney sees all too rarely. Mr. French's "Love Songs of the Desert" were very skilfully and tastefully rendered, his enunciation being charmingly clear. The assisting artists, Miss Alice Harker, Miss Beatrice Holloway, and Mr. Bryce Carter, were also well reicvd, as was only to be expected from the talent of these well-known performers.

BEST COUGH SYRUP EASILY MADE AT HOME.

COSTS LITTLE, DOES GOOD ALWAYS.

By a Qualified Chemist.

Many people now make their own good family cough and cold remedy from Hean's Essence prescription.

It's a wonderful moneysaver, and a remarkably good remedy. A bottle of Hean's Essence, a little sugar, treacle, and a large breakfastcupful of water, give you a pint of the finest family cough remedy. And the money-saving. About twelve shillings' worth for 2s. Think of it. In other words, eight eighteenpeeny bottles for the price of one.

No wonder Hean's Essence has found its way into thousands of homes. No wonder users are delighted, and recommend Hean's Essence to neighbours and friends.

The mixture thus prepared in your own home takes hold of a cough or cold that means business from the first dose. You can feel it doing good all the way down. A few drops may be given to a child, or a spoonful to an adult. It is warming, soothing, stimulating, comforting, and curing. There is no poison of any kind in it. It relieves ordinary coughs instantly. Stops obstinate, chronic, coughs—even whooping cough—in a day or two. As a gargle for sore throats it stands out on its own. It stimulates the appetite and is slightly laxative—both excellent features.

Hean's Essence is sold by most chemists, Anthony Hordern and Sons, Ltd., W. H. Soul and Co., Ltd., Pattinson and Co., Ltd., Lassetters', McIlrath's, Ltd., or post free on receipt of price, 2s, from G. W. Hean, Chemist, 178 Castlereagh-street, Sydney. Wherever you buy, be sure you get Hean's Essence, as no other will do. Look for my signature, G. W. Hean, on every packet.—Advt. 11.

"SWEET LAVENDER."

OPENING AT LITTLE THEATRE.

The opening presentation of "Sweet Lavender" by the Buckler-Paget company at the Little Theatre on Saturday evening was witnessed by a large audience, who signified their enjoyment of the piece by frequent applause, while at its conclusion quite an ovation was given the players. The curtain was raised and lowered at least eight times in succession, and the arms of the lady members of the cast could scarcely contain the baskets of flowers and boxes of chocolates heaped upon them by their enthusiastic admirers. Despite the very cordial reception accorded to the play, however, it must be confessed that the piece, though well acted, is scarcely likely to add to the reputation previously enjoyed by Mr. Hugh Buckler and Miss Violet Paget as entrepreneurs of a type of drama more representative of dramatic art at its best than is usually offered to Sydney audiences. One had fondly dreamed that the "well-made" play had, at least at the Little Theatre, long made its final bow before the footlights. "Sweet Lavender," however, belonging as it does to a period of Pinero's career as a playwright at which he was still dwelling among the tents of Scribe, Sarcey, and the younger Dumas, contains all the old tricks applauded by audiences of 30 years ago. People hide behind curtains, talk aloud to the audience, or disclose their secrets to others without fear of being overheard by persons not three feet off. The unhappy heroine proves to be the daughter of her lover's adopted father, and the confirmed drunkard, entirely reformed, miraculously saves the situation all round at the fall of the curtain. Add to all this the fact that the entire atmosphere is one of a sentimentality only instigated by a thoroughly enjoyable vein of genuine comedy, and you have a play which neither its indubitable popularity in the past, nor even the real excellences of its acting on the present occasion, appear to place on any higher scale than Dick Phenyl's "weak drop whisky an' wa'r af'er the labours ower day." The repertory of the Little Theatre, one feels, should, like ambition, be made of sterner stuff.

Viewed in the light of an anodyne, however, "Sweet Lavender" is excellent in the quality it professes, and should prove as satisfactory to the box-office as anything which the Little Theatre has produced. It is scarcely necessary to recapitulate the plot of a play which has so long been established as a popular favourite. Most playgoers will remember the central character of Dick Phenyl, the briefless and whisky-sodden barrister of the Inner Temple, whose disreputable eccentricities, nevertheless, conceal a nature filled with kindness and affection. Mr. Arthur Cornell, who, by the way, is the producer, has given us nothing better than his presentation of Dick Phenyl, irritable, slovenly, degraded, yet withal entirely lovable and humorous, in which he held the attention of the house so long as he was on the stage. Of Mr. Kenneth Brampton, who played the part of Clement Hale, Dick's friend and vade mecum, it need only be said that he was thoroughly at home in a role which he has already played 300 times with Edward Terry. As Lavender Rolt, the ingenuous maiden beloved of Hale, Miss Eileen Robinson pleasantly made her debut in a leading part whose simplicity is difficult to convey without becoming merely sentimental. Delightful comedy was provided by Miss Violet Paget and Mr. Hugh Buckler in the wooing of the charming coquette by her imperturbable American rescuer, while Mr. J. Congreive pleasantly fulfilled the character of the kindly and fashionable Irish physician, whose "thank heaven, it's no business of mine" never failed to evoke the risibilities of his audience. Miss Lillian Lloyd as Ruth Rolt, the tragedy-stricken mother of Lavender, and Mr. Gerald Kay Souper as Geoffrey Wedderburn, her old lover, sustained their parts with skill, and a clever character study was presented by Mr. Wilson Forbes in the part of an ancient hairdresser and wigmaker. Miss Temple Pigott, who as Mrs. Gilfillian occasionally forgot her lines, and Mr. W. Kingston Hewitt as the solicitor, Mr. Maw, completed a well-placed cast. The distribution of lavender sachets among the feminine section of the audience prior to the beginning of the play, was a touch of graceful appropriateness on the part of the management which appeared to meet with due appreciation from its recipients.

RIFLE SHOOTING.

WET CONDITIONS AT RANDWICK.

Rain fell nearly all the afternoon at the Randwick Range on Saturday, and as a consequence many of the shoots set down for decision were not carried out. Some of the clubs cancelled their engagements early in the day, while those who braved the elements shot through most of the showers, and only sought shelter when the rain was very heavy. A strong blow from the southward also contributed to the unpleasantness of the afternoon, and most of the marksmen were thereby greatly inconvenienced. But, as usual, some high scores were registered. Only two "possibles" were obtained, Q.M.S. Dormer (29th Infantry Club) and W. Mackenzie (Auburn), scoring bull's-eyes with each of seven shots at 200 and 300 yards respectively. From the former distance E. Garnett (Yorkshire Society) dropped but one point in eight shots, while Lieut. Linklater (38th Infantry) scored 34 out of 35 at both the 200 and 300 yards ranges. G. L. Griffiths (Concord) was also one point less than a "possible" in seven shots from 300 yards. The Yorkshire Society carried out its final shoot for the Rawson Cup, the winner for the year being G. W. Kershaw. E. Garnett, who had won the cup on two former occasions, held a lead of 4 points from Kershaw at the start of the day's shoot, to which he added another point at the 200 yards range, but he "went to pieces" in the matches fired under service conditions at 300 yards. FOOTBALL.

RUGBY UNION GAMES POSTPONED.

SOUTH SYDNEY'S NARROW VICTORY IN LEAGUE.

AUSTRALIAN AND SOCCER COMPETITIONS.

Saturday was not an ideal day for football. Rain commenced to fall in torrents at about 2.30 p.m., and continued for an hour, thus making the playing areas veritable quagmires. The Rugby Union games were postponed on account of the test match between Australia and New Zealand being played. In the Rugby League, South Sydney, the leading team, just managed to keep their position, as they only defeated Glebe by 1 point.

In the Australian rules competition, South Sydney still maintains their lead. The features of the British Association were Granville's big score at Clyde, Newtown's wonderful improvement, and Sydney's failure to re-establish themselves. In the State championship, Weston qualified for the third round.

RUGBY UNION.

METROPOLITAN v CITY AND SUBURBAN.

Prior to the big match on the Sports Ground, the Metropolitan Union played against the City and Suburban Union. The game was very one-sided, the Metropolitans winning by 25 points to nil.

Norris, with a clever run, got past four men, and scored near the posts, Aspinall converting. This good start was repeated by Herford and Aspinall. At half-time the score was Metropolitan 16 to nil.

On resuming, Morris got a try, which Aspinall converted, and this was followed by M'Auley scoring a try, to which Aspinall added the extra points. Aspinall's accurate kicking was a feature of the play. He converted four out of six tries. The City and Suburban men played up a bit at the finish, but they failed to score, the final score being 25 to nil against them.

TELEPHONISTS' MATCH.

A match between teams from the Mosman and North Sydney telephonists was played at the Mosman Oval on Saturday afternoon. North Sydney won by 8 points to 3. Greenor and Lett scored tries, and Dillon converted one for the winners. O'Grady crossed the line twice for Mosman.

RUGBY LEAGUE.

SOUTH SYDNEY STILL LEADING.

South Sydney defeated Glebe by 6 points to 5.

Balmain and North Sydney drew—2 points all.

Eastern Suburbs defeated Western Suburbs by 25 points to 10.

Newtown defeated Annandale by 21 points to 5.

With five rounds of the competition still to be played, South Sydney is leading by one point from Eastern Suburbs and Newtown. On Saturday the Glebe men held a lead of five points at the interval. South Sydney played pluckily, and won by one point—two tries by Horder, to one try by Leggo, and a goal by A. B. Burge. The ground at midfield was treacherous, and spectacular football was out of the question. Right through South Sydney were the cleverer side, being more enterprising in attack, and particularly sound in defence. South Sydney were without Cann and Norman, the latter was "dropped" by the selectors, although two weeks ago he played for Australia against England.

The North Sydney-Balmain match at North Sydney Oval was played in a quagmire. Despite the adverse conditions, the game proved fast and open, the forwards of each side putting in great work. The backs tried to open up the game on occasions, but the ball proved very greasy. The match ended in a draw—two points all.

Eastern Suburbs experienced little difficulty in defeating Western Suburbs by 25 points to 10 at the Agricultural Ground. The premiers, however, were behind at half-time, the scores being 10 to 9 against them. Early in the second half Western Suburbs held their advantage, but the premiers settled down and won easily, the Westerners' defence going to pieces.

Newtown outplayed Annandale at Wentworth Park, scoring 21 points to 5. Newtown played with the wind during the first half. However, Annandale attacked hotly from the start, but were gradually worn down, and at the interval Newtown led by 13 points to two. The wind died away somewhat during the second half, in which Newtown scored eight points to their opponents' three.

SOUTH SYDNEY v GLEBE.

Played at the Sydney Cricket Ground, in the presence of 7000 spectators, and won by South Sydney by 6 points to 5.

South Sydney: Full-back, H. Hallett; three-quarter backs, O. Brown, H. Thompson, A. J. M'Cabe, H. Horder; half-backs, G. Reynolds, A. Butler; forwards, C. M'Carthy, R. Almond, E. Hilliard, J. Davies, W. Spence, H. Butler.

Glebe: Full-back, D. M'Gregor; three-quarter backs, R. Aitle, T. Leggo, J. Hickey, M. Scannell; half-backs, A. Bolewski, P. Regan; forwards, F. Burge, J. Bartley, P. Burge, J. Knight, A. B. Burge, R. Gray.

Referee: Mr. T. M'Mahon.

South Sydney had the advantage of the wind, and when Glebe kicked-off steady rain was falling. Glebe had the better of the opening scrummage; but, owing to faulty handling by their backs, South Sydney forwards rushed the ball to M'Gregor, whose clearance was returned over the line by Hallett, and Glebe forced. South Sydney were awarded a penalty right in front of Glebe's goal, but Horder's kick was a weak one. South Sydney endeavoured to open up the game, but the saddened ball was against them. Glebe forwards were playing determinedly, and their good defensive work was well supported by Bolewski and Leggo. Regan brought his side relief by breaking away cleverly with Bolewski and Hickey in attendance; but the movement ended at mid-field, where Davis was conspicuous in some neat footwork. Reynolds missed the goal from a penalty, and a moment later South Sydney had another chance; but Davis missed the goal, though his kick was a good one. South Sydney, by series of short kicks, worked Glebe well into their own territory. There Hallett unsuccessfully snapped at goal. M'Gregor and Leggo were prominent, and the ex-countryman was going strongly when brought down by Almond, who was temporarily knocked out. Then Glebe attacked strongly, and a dash led by F. Burge nearly ended disastrously for South Sydney; but Hallett saved and returned to centre. This setback was only momentary, as immediately afterwards Bolewski burst through and passed to Scannell, who failed to gather the ball cleanly, and thus a good opening was missed. The Glebe forwards were playing splendidly in the loose, and their footwork at times was excellent. Some give-and-take play followed, and then Horder tried unsuccessfully at goal from a penalty. Glebe again became troublesome, and a neat exchange of passes by Regan, Bolewski, Hickey, and Leggo, placed them in a good position. Play hovered in South Sydney territory for a time, and then Leggo put in a magnificent run and scored a splendid try. He evaded four South Sydney tacklers. A. B. Burge goaled from a rather difficult angle. At the interval Glebe led by 5 points to nil.

Glebe commenced the second term vigorously, and rushed play into their opponents' territory. Regan looked like scoring; but he dribbled his way over instead of passing, and Hallett took the ball from his feet and drove Glebe back. P. Burge brought them back by dribbling down-field, but Hallett relieved again. Scannell brought the ball to South Sydney's line, where Regan just failed to score, after racing for the ball, which was kicked over the line. Glebe relaxed momentarily, and Hallett secured and dashed down touch. A little later South Sydney were awarded a penalty on their opponents' 25. They preferred to scrum instead of kicking, and the subsequent play justified the choice. A Butler secured from the scrummage, and set his backs moving goalwards. Each man handled the ball in turn, and the finest movement of the game ended in Horder crossing near the corner. No goal resulted. Dashing and strenuous play followed, which favoured South Sydney. Horder made an unsuccessful attempt to goal from a penalty, and then Bolewski got Glebe out of a dangerous position by breaking through and running well down-field. Soon afterwards M'Cabe managed to block a Glebe kick; but the ball went over the line; Reynolds dashed up; but he missed the ball in falling. Horder again unsuccessfully tried to goal from a penalty. Glebe made a determined effort to keep their opponents out, and gradually worked down-field until they had them hemmed in; but Hallett's kicking repulsed the Glebe vanguard. After A. B. Burge failed to goal from half-way, the South Sydney backs were set in motion, with the result that Horder was forced out near the corner. Glebe relieved; but South Sydney came back with the long kicks, and a series of scrums in Glebe's 25 ensued. From one of these Butler and his men indulged in a neat passing movement, Horder running at top speed over the line. South Sydney now led by 6 points to 5, and although Glebe made desperate efforts, the final whistle left the scores unaltered.

NORTH SYDNEY v BALMAIN.

Played at North Sydney Oval before about 2000 spectators, and resulted in a draw—2 points all.

North Sydney.—Full-back, E. Taplin; three-quarter backs, G. Wheatley, S. Deane, O. Sherritt, J. Scully; half-backs, C. Sherritt, S. M'Farlane; forwards, E. M'Intyre, Nicholson, Green, Woodward, C. Sullivan, Gosper.

Balmain.—Full-back, L. Wall; three-quarter backs, J. Robinson, P. Burns, W. Kelly, S. French; half-backs, W. Green, C. Fraser; forwards, D. Cranston, H. Baulkwell, J. Blinco, G. Cummins, F. Schultz, R. R. Craig.

Referee, Mr. A. Farrow.

The ground was a quagmire at midfield, and it was with great difficulty that the players kept their feet. From North Sydney's kick-off the Balmain vanguard rushed play to their opponents' 25, but M'Farlane and Sullivan stalled off the attack, and with M'Intyre they worked play back to centre. The game became surprisingly fast; and the Northern forwards were showing remarkable pace in the open. A rush, with Woodward and Gosper in the van, looked dangerous; but sound defence by Kelly checked them. North Sydney kept up the pressure; and then C. Sherritt goaled from a penalty. North Sydney, 2 points; Balmain, nil. Balmain responded, and Fraser and Kelly were responsible for a fine burst which carried the attack to well within North Sydney's quarter. Play fluctuated, with both sets of forwards playing very vigorously, and confining the majority of their operations to close ruck work, with occasional dribbling. North Sydney now and again tried to open up the play to suit the passing game, but the wet ball militated against accurate handling. A rush, however, by Wheatley, the two Sherritts, Deane, and Scully looked promising for North Sydney, but the ex-Newcastle man mishandled, and Kelly cleared. North Sydney were still aggressive when the interval was called. North Sydney, 2; Balmain, nil.

In the second half North Sydney had the assistance of a strong breeze. They were not long in working play into their opponents' 25, where Fraser failed from a penalty. Wheatley cleared ably by a strong run, which ended in play being carried to Balmain's line. Taplin saved when Balmain looked dangerous; but a penalty against his side followed, and Wall made the scores equal. A little later Cummins had a fine opportunity, but he failed, although his kick was a good one. Then Wall and Cummins made repeated efforts at goal-kicking, but the heavy, sodden ball was against them. Balmain played finely, and indulged in effective passing bouts. In these movements, Craig, who had dropped out of the forwards, was a great assistance. Considering the deplorable state of the ground the football was really high-class. North Sydney were not behind their opponents in passing, all of their backs handling well. Neither side increased its score, and the game ended in a draw, two points all.

EASTERN SUBURBS v WESTERN SUBURBS.

Played at the Agricultural Ground, and won by Eastern Suburbs by 25 points to 10.

Eastern Suburbs.—Full-back, G. Challis; three-quarter backs, D. Frawley, R. Tidyman, D. Flannery, W. Messenger; half-backs, L. Cubitt, A. Halloway; forwards, R. Williams, S. Pearce, L. O'Malley, Lees, W. Allman, J. Watkins.

Western Suburbs.—Full-back, H. Clarke; three-quarter backs, H. M'Ilmurray, H. G. Naylor, C. Foord, C. Collier; half-backs, G. Gagen, J. Nicholson; forwards, W. Easterbrook, C. Tye, W. Joass, M. E. Anderson, F. Lane, E. Courtney.

Referee, Mr. J. T. Black.

Western Suburbs quickly had the premiers in trouble, but the latter's defence answered the call, and play gradually worked back to mid-field. There Messenger got possession, and made a spirited dash along touch, and then kicked in field, but Western Suburbs were alert, and Cubitt was stopped. From a ruck of opponents, Naylor made a fine opening for Western Suburbs, which was not thrown away, and Courtney scored and Gagen goaled. Western Suburbs, 5 points to nil. Eastern Suburbs now rallied, and a vanguard rush headed by O'Malley and Watkins gained ground. A moment later another burst by three Eastern Suburbs men sent the Western Suburbs further back, and for a time the game was fairly even. Courtney and Easterbrook, following fast on the ball, which Gagen sent down field, found Challis too slow, and Easterbrook scored. Gagen goaled. Western Suburbs were now leading by 10 points to nil. Messenger opened his side's scoring account from a penalty kick, and a little later Frawley was forced out on the corner flag after a pretty passing movement amongst the Eastern Suburbs' backs. A little later Messenger again goaled from a penalty, and then Frawley crossed in the corner and gained Eastern Suburbs' first try. Messenger added the extras. No further score resulted, and at half-time Western Suburbs were leading by 10 points to 9.

Western Suburbs held their own for a time until the Eastern Suburbs' back division began to move smoothly, and then the defence went to pieces. Messenger was the first scorer, and he gave his side a lead of four points by converting the try. Shortly afterwards Courtney was compelled to retire owing to an injury, and his loss was severely felt. Eastern Suburbs were, however, playing the better game, and were irresistible. Tries were secured in quick succession by Flannery, and two by Allman, the last of which Messenger converted. Eastern Suburbs won by 25 points to 10.

NEWTOWN v ANNANDALE.

Played at Wentworth Park before 1500 spectators, and won by Newtown by 21 points to 5.

Newtown.—Full-back, A. H. Reed; three-quarter backs, C. J. Russell, H. T. Bolt, H. G. Brown, J. Leonard; half-backs, P. Cruise, R. Farnsworth; forwards, W. Haddock, P. M'Cue, J. Murray, F. Ryan, R. Townsend, J. M'Cue.

Annandale.—Full-back, W. Doyle; three-quarter backs, J. Brassill, W. Lindsay, Rex Norman, W. Geoghegan; half-backs, S. Parker, A. Wheatley; forwards, John Pye, W. Palmer, J. Ayling, James Pye, R. Lennon, J. Woodward.

Referee, Mr. C. Hedley.

Annandale lost the toss, and had to play against a strong breeze; but they opened well, and had the Newtown defending. Annandale were securing possession in the scrummages, but Newtown's defence was too strong, and their tackling very effective. After some hard work, Newtown cleared their line, and Russell had an unsuccessful kick from a penalty. Annandale came back strongly, mainly through Parker intercepting, but Newtown rallied, and, headed by Haddock, they dashed down into their opponent's twenty-five, where Murray scored. Cruise failed to convert. When Annandale got back into Newtown's territory, Doyle kicked a magnificent goal. Newtown were soon attacking again, Russell and P. M'Cue indulging in neat play; but M'Cue was recalled after crossing over for offside. A little later, however, Farnsworth was over the line like a flash, and Cruise goaled. Then P. M'Cue broke away, and, dribbling well, beat Doyle, and scored. Cruise again converted. Newtown continued to attack until half-time, when they led by 13 points to 2.

When the game was resumed the wind had dropped, and thus Annandale were without the assistance that their opponents made such use of. They played in spirited fashion, and the brothers Pye led a vigorous rush, which was finished by Geoghegan picking up near the line and scoring. No goal followed. This was Annandale's last effort of any note. For the remainder of the game Newtown predominated; their backs and forwards combining nicely. Brown, running over near the corner, was Newtown's next scorer. Then, as the result of a well-combined movement, P. M'Cue scored between the posts, and Cruise goaled. The no-side whistle left Newtown conquerors by 21 points to 5.

All the other league games, where conditions permitted, were played.

FIRST LEAGUE.

BALMAIN v NEWTOWN.

Played at Epping, and won by Balmain by 1 goal to nil.

Balmain.—Hughes, Latta, Ross, Ferguson, Ferrier, Smith, McDonald, Jackson, Charlton, Elliott, O'Hehir.

Newtown.—Mitchell, Muir, Dennis, Coomes, Haigh, Fitzjohn, Thompson, Buchanan, Grumitt, Ramsey, McAinsh.

Referee: W. Lincoln.

McDonald had an early shot at goal, but it went wide, and then Newtown's vanguard kept Hughes busy. Balmain then went forward, and Mitchell cleared a good shot from Charlton; but O'Hehir secured, and beating Muir with a good drive, enabled Jackson to score. Balmain's halves effectively opened play for their vanguard; but Newtown responded, and only solid defence by Ross, Smith, and Ferrier, kept them away. The scores were unaltered at half-time.

Ferrier sent O'Hehir away without result, and Newtown pressed the leaders' defence hard. Jackson and Elliott looked dangerous, but Dennis relieved, and McAinish claimed all Hughes' attention. Later Ross and Latta were kept busy in checking Thompson and Grumitt. Despite several corners, Balmain were unable to add to their score.

GLEBE v NORTHERN SUBURBS.

Played at Sydney Cricket Ground No. II., and won by Northern Suburbs by 3 goals to nil.

Northern Suburbs.—Le Lean, Turnbull, Stanger, Symmonds, Jarvis, Lauder, Williams, Vandendreiche, Tibbs, Duff, Tagart.

Glebe.—Storey, McEwen, McGee, Santry, Drummond, Quill, Sanger, Carroll, Perry, Hill.

Referee: J. Rowsell.

Northern Suburbs won the toss, and Tagart almost immediately went forward. Quill got the ball, but his kick to centre was missed. Stanger cleared, and Vanderdreiche then found Storey alert. Glebe forced a corner, which Turnbull negotiated, allowing his forwards to advance, but off-side frequently spoiled their movements. Vandendreiche received from Jarvis, and, tustling through, beat Storey. Norths led at the interval by 1 goal to nil.

Glebe attacked, but solid defence, in which Jarvis was prominent, kept them back. Tagart and Duff went forward, but Glebe's one back game checked them. Quill was Glebe's most consistent forward, but Stanger cleared all his centres, and, later from a penalty, Jarvis scored the leaders' second goal. Duff, later intercepted a short clearance by Storey making Northern Suburbs' final score 3.

GRANVILLE v CANTERBURY.

Played at Clyde, and won by Granville by eight goals to nil.

Granville: Mobbs, Gill, Doherty, Moore, Hilder, Wheat, Barrell, Hoffmann, Butcher, Watkins, Smith.

Canterbury: Hunter, Lane, Bannister, Stubbs, McBeth, Samms, Smith, W. Forbes, Edge, Taylor, Blake.

Referee: E. Lukemann.

Granville were very keen, Smith and Butcher being prominent, but the former's centres went astray until Hoffmann intercepted and beat Hunter. Canterbury, playing vigorously, could not hold the local men, and, Doherty, placing well to Smith, enabled Watkins to beat Bannister for the in-pass, the second goal resulting. Hoffmann again netted before the interval.

Hunter saved a hard shot from Hoffmann, but Watkins beat him with the rebound, and, after Wheat had been temporarily disabled, Moore, Hilder, Hoffmann, Watkins, and Butcher participated in some fine combined work, which the lastnamed finished. Immediately afterwards Watkins registered the local side's sixth goal; and, although the visitors rallied, Mobbs saved ably, and before full time was taken Hoffmann and Butcher had added to Granville's score.

SYDNEY v ANNANDALE.

Played at University Oval, and won by Annandale by two goals to one.

Annandale: Lowe, Mirtus, Hillyard, Keith, Newson, Nash, Parris, Campbell, Spain, Carroll, Sellars.

Sydney: Duggan, Traynor, Hughes, Burroughs, Rigby, Anderson, Melrose, Gallagher, Doerner, Davies, Fleming.

Referee: E. Ratcliffe.

Lowe checked all Sydney's attempts in the early stages, and Hughes and Traynor kept Annandale well in hand. Fast play followed, and Newson getting Parris away, enabled Spain to score. Doerner responded for Sydney; but Hillyard conceded a corner, and later Lowe ably kept Davies, Doerner, and Fleming back. Before half-time Carroll initiated a movement for the leaders, which Parris successfully finished.

Bad shooting by Annandale opened the resumption of play, and Sydney, with Fleming attacking, gave Hillyard and Lowe chances. The leaders were kept busy defending, Lowe being very prominent. Gallagher, Davies, Doerner, and Fleming all tried hard, and eventually the latter opened for Sydney, but they were unable to increase their score.

Corrimal.—Neil, Maxwell, Kerr, Salisbury, Kilpatrick, Gallagher, Taylor, Kerr, C. Jones, Masters, Christopher.

Referee.—J. Stephenson.

C. Jones opened the game, but Henry and Logan carried play to Corrimal goal, where Maxwell cleared, and his vanguard went away, Marr relieving. Thirroul came again, but off-side saved Corrimal. Neil saved splendidly a fine shot by Logan, and Jones raced away till checked by Marr. Each side strove hard to the interval, but no scores were registered. Thirroul went away with a rush, and from a fine centre by Sampson Harrison goaled. The leaders broke away, and Harrison sent across, Sampson missing an easy one, and Corrimal, profiting by the let-off, became aggressive. From a long dropping shot Salisbury evened the scores, which were not altered when full-time sounded.

AUSTRALIAN.

SATURDAY'S COMPETITION GAMES.

Saturday's matches produced poor contests, and the results leave South Sydney almost certain winners of the minor premiership, which entitles them to the challenge right in the event of defeat in the semi-final games, which will not be entered upon until after the carnival games next month. The chances of Paddington securing a place in the semi-final games have been enhanced by the defeats sustained by Central-Western and Newtown. The final occupancy of third and fourth positions, as between Paddington, Central-Western, and Newtown, is still decidedly interesting. Present appearances point to a play-off between two of the clubs mentioned.

SOUTH SYDNEY v NEWTOWN.

Played at the Australian Football Ground, and won by South Sydney by 57 points to 27. A strong wind, which blew towards the northern goal during the progress of the match, kept the play almost wholly towards that point. As each side were called upon to defend, they made play on the pavilion wing, where a lot of out of bounds work ensued. South Sydney having the wind behind them, attacked from the bounce. From a free Eagle scored a goal, which was supplemented by a brace of behinds. Newtown's defence was good, M'Cormack, Laver, and Munro showing out. A high punt by E. Hughes brought South Sydney's second goal. At quarter time South Sydney had 2 goals 2 behinds to their credit, but Newtown had failed to score. On changing over, Newtown attacked, and from a fine mark, Munro posted a goal. Still attacking, Sheahan added another goal. A rally by South Sydney resulted in a behind being scored. Newtown worked the ball down from the kick-in, and Brookes registered a "sixer." Half-time: Newtown, 3-1; South Sydney, 2-3. The Southerners were in great form during the third quarter, and a rapid succession of goals by Hughes, Eagle, Jarrett, and Barry enabled them to take a grip of the game, which up to half-time had been evenly contested. At the end of the third quarters South Sydney's total was 6-9, to Newtown's 3-1. Drizzling rain fell at the commencement of the final quarter, making the ball difficult to hold. Though Newtown tried hard, they could add but one goal and two behinds for the term. Final scores:—South Sydney, 8-9; Newtown, 4-3. The goalkickers for South Sydney were Eagle (2), Barry (2), Hughes (2), Jarrett, and Davenport. For Newtown: Munro, Sheahan, Brooks, and Ellis.

SYDNEY v CENTRAL WESTERN.

Played at Hampden Oval, and won by Sydney by 82 points to 33. After a few minutes hard play Sydney opened up with a goal by Hoskins. A behind from a poor kick by Webster went to the Central Westerners, and Sydney replied with three singles. As a result of some neat passing, Hoskins secured, and his kick brought the "big" points. Despite some good marking by Webb and others of the Central Western, Sydney continued to monopolise the scoring. O'Grady snapped a goal after the ball had travelled the length of the ground. Quarter-time, Sydney, 3-8; Central Western, 0-1. Early in the second turn O'Brien kicked a goal for Central Western, and Graham also registered a behind—the ball striking the post. Sydney, playing with system, were proving themselves much the better team, and further scoring successes came their way; while Central Western's efforts brought but minor points. Half-time: Sydney, 7-12; Central Western, 1-7.

The third quarter was almost wholly in favour of Sydney, for whom Harris was particularly prominent. Three-quarter time: Sydney, 9-15; Central Western, 1-8. The final quarter was evenly contested. Final scores; Sydney, 11-16; Central Western, 4-9. For Sydney, Harris, Muggivan, Vincent, Mack, Tyson, and O'Grady were prominent in an even side, while for Central Western the best work was done by Webb, Cannon, O'Brien, and M'Farlane.

NORTH SYDNEY v EAST SYDNEY.

Played at Erskineville Oval, and won by North Sydney by 68 points to 27. Both sides had to fill up with second-grade players. The game was a very mediocre one, neither side showing first-class form. Robertson, of North Sydney, was easily the best player on the ground. The final scores were: North Sydney, 8-20; East Sydney, 3-7. Goals were scored for North Sydney for Robilliard (4), Anthones (3), and Poll; for East Sydney by Leighton (2), and Smith.

INTER-INSTITUTE CHAMPIONSHIP.

The finish of the semi-final round of the inter-institute championship, which took place on Thursday, leaves the competition in a most interesting stage, as three of the teams—Glebe, Marrickville, and Rozelle—are within one point of each other. The undefeated players in the competition are Linden, Edwards (Marrickville), Elms and Taylor (Glebe), and Bower (Rozelle). Following are the positions of the teams:

A Division.—Glebe 22, Marrickville 21, Rozelle 21, Manly 18, Woollahra 14, Ashfield 10, Alexandria 10, Leichhardt 9, Drummoyne 5.

B Division.—Glebe 24, Marrickville 22, Roselle 18, Manly 17, Woollahra 16, Ashfield 15, Leichhardt 7, Drummoyne 5, Alexandria 4.

A break of 76 by Edwards (Marrickville) in the B division leads in that section. The final round will start to-morrow night, when the even numbers of the following institutes will meet at the first-named club. Marrickville v Woollahra, Manly v Ashfield, Alexandria v Drummoyne, Roselle v Glebe. Leichhardt has the bye.

STATE AMATEUR CHAMPIONSHIP.

The first heat of the New South Wales State Amateur Championship will commence to-night at Messrs. Heiron and Smith's Hall, Castlereagh-street. The players are Mr. G. B. Shailer (champion and world's record break holder), and Mr. H. A. Rumball, winner of seven New South Wales championships. The heat will be played over two evening sessions of 500 each, commencing at 8 o'clock. Ladies will be admitted free, and are invited to all contests.

TATTERSALL'S CLUB TOURNAMENT.

The heats in the above event for to-night are as follow:—J. Sharpe, rec 130, v J. D. Pattison, rec. 145; W. Forsyth, owes 20, v "Manly," rec. 150.

ON THE LAND.

FARM AND STATION.

SOUTHERN MONARO.

A very mild winter has been experienced in Southern Monaro, and it is many years since the country looked better than at present. This is considered by many to be one of the finest pastoral districts in the State, although so far its resources are practically undeveloped, owing, so the residents claim, to legislative neglect. It comprises a very large area, extending from Nimitybelle (the present railway terminus) on the north, to the Victorian border, and bounded on the east by the coastal mountains, and on the west by the Snowy Alps. The extension of the railway to Bombala should do a great deal towards opening up this part of the country, and when the line is opened, in 1916, mixed farming will undoubtedly become more general. The work of constructing this extension is being pushed along, and, until a few weeks ago, over 600 men were employed on the line. The country in these parts is very wild and mountainous, and some large cuttings and viaducts will be necessary as well as a number of tunnels, but the line should pay well almost from the start. Its completion is eagerly looked forward to by those farmers who took up land around Bombala on the understanding that they would have railway communication with Sydney by 1912. Up to the present they have found it difficult to carry on, and it is authoritatively stated that hundreds of tons of produce have been allowed to rot on account of the cost of getting it to market.

Around Nimitybelle, where the formation of the country is chiefly basaltic, the red soil is found to be particularly suitable for potato-growing. The success of the Government plots on Mr. O. E. Silk's farm, four miles out of town, has apparently been responsible for a revival in the cultivation of this crop, and local growers report some splendid results. The soil around Nimitybelle produces an excellent keeping potato, which is greatly in demand amongst farmers for seeding purposes. In fact, right through Monaro potatoes flourish exceedingly well, and one grower at Delegate is reputed to have on one occasion taken 20 tons of potatoes from a single acre of land. Vegetable growing also seems to be gaining in favour, and cabbages, onions, celery, turnips, and root crops of all descriptions are now being grown extensively. Land suitable for the cultivation of these crops is at present very reasonable in price as compared with other districts, and vegetable growing is bound to become a popular and lucrative industry. Mr. Attwell, who has recently taken up land near Nimitybelle for the purpose of growing cabbages, states that, owing to the summer fogs, these can be raised to excellent size and quality for the midsummer market, when there is a slackness in supplies, and good prices are ruling.

The Monaro district has always been looked upon as being eminently suitable for the raising of fat sheep, lambs, and beef for export, not only because of the natural richness of its pastures, but also on account of the suitability of both soil and climate for growing root crops, such as rape, lucerne, etc., for topping up. Some 18 or 20 years ago, when the New South Wales Government, desirous of encouraging the export trade, offered four prizes of £20 each for pens of ten sheep (merinos and crossbreds) most suitable for export, two of the prizes were carried off by Mr. A. H. Wright, of Tombong, near Delegate, with pens of crossbreds which had been fattened by him, as an experiment, on turnips, at the rate of 50 sheep to the acre. In the following year, and indeed as long as the competitions lasted, the majority of the prizes were taken by sheep from this district, fattened on the natural pastures. An excellent record, this, when it is remembered that they had to be travelled overland from 60 to 100 miles to Cooma, and then entrained to Sydney. A visitor to any of the local shows at Nimitybelle, Bombala, or Delegate cannot fail to be impressed with the possibilities of the district. Although last summer was one of the driest on record, some splendid exhibits were seen, and at Delegate show the first and second prize-winning pens of three fat crossbred wethers, fattened on natural grasses by Mr. Wright's station, would each have dressed over 100lb. Similar pens of ewes, averaging from 85lb to 90lb, and merinos probably well over 90lb, were also exhibited.

Southern Monaro will never be able to compete with the Riverina as a cereal-growing district. The prevalence of summer frosts which do not affect root crops, is one reason, and another is that while the land here is perhaps deeper and richer than in the Riverina, the areas are comparatively small, and are certainly not large enough to warrant the expenditure for up-to-date machinery, etc. These areas, however, though small, are plentiful right throughout the district, and all the rich fertile patches are situated in valleys, with an abundance of water running to waste even the driest season. By conserving this water irrigation could be carried out very cheaply and effectively, and a regular supply of crops for export could be produced the whole year round. Around Nimitybelle oats and wheat do very well when suitable varieties are sown, and with their facilities for marketing there is no reason why farmers should not be able to place produce, in the shape of hay and chaff, on the Sydney market equal to anything coming from other districts.

The question of decentralisation is a burning one with the residents of this district. They claim that in Eden, which is only 60 to 80 miles distant from the best parts of the Monaro, they have a port which is second only to Port Jackson on the whole of the Australian coast. Many thousands of acres are available, which land, with proper development, would be capable of fattening 50 sheep or lambs to the acre. Certainly there should be no difficulty in producing mutton of first-rate quality here. Artificial grasses, such as rye grass, cocksfoot, and clovers, grow exceptionally well. In no part of the State, perhaps, will rye grass do so well as on the heavy soils in this district, when some little attention is given to its proper establishment. Rape also flourishes very well, and some of the smaller holders have put in areas of this crop for lambing ewes with excellent results. With the opening up of Eden as a deep-sea port climatic conditions should be very favourable to the successful exportation of beef and mutton. For eight months in the year, it is claimed, stock could be slaughtered on the tableland, and, if the suggested line were opened, the carcases sent direct to the port without any chilling, instead of having to be travelled and knocked about for a week before being killed as is the case at present.

In other directions—such as dairying, fruit-growing, mineral and metal getting, etc.—the potentialities of Southern Monaro are very great. Only better transport facilities are needed, and when these are given the district should progress very rapidly. Much of the land is still heavily timbered, and later on there will be found an abundance of timber available for export, as well as for use in our own timberless interior.

YANCO IRRIGATION AREA.

"Irrigation Settler" writes:—The Yanko irrigation settlement has been under the public eye very much of late in your columns. I therefore crave your kind indulgence to be allowed to make some suggestions for the betterment of the settlement and others that may come after. It is admitted that our troubles in chief are financial; this condition militates against our progress in a very serious way, as all the settlers, without exception, find that the cost of preparing their lands and the time that must elapse before they can become producers, eats up all their resources, without taking rentals into consideration.

The man who takes up a dry area of any kind can closely calculate to within a small margin what it may cost him to get all going and complete. We Yanco settlers cannot do this, as so many factors step in to upset calculations. A man also has to buy a large plant of special tools, accessories, and horses, which may cost him from £250 upwards, and this makes it obvious that a settler must have up to £750 or over to enable him to prepare a 50-acre block to the productive stage. It will be apparent that settlement will be very slow under present conditions, and the assistance that the States Savings Bank can offer is no more than a palliative, because it makes advances on fixed assets only, and the machinery is so cumbersome that it causes such long delays in a settler producing even what they can allow him, that it will be useless. A settler wants to be able to borrow on all his loose plant; horses, etc.—in fact, he wants to borrow money on al details that have cost him money, and he cannot do so. This makes him despondent and discontented. On the top of this his wages bill and other expenses keep totting up.

An agricultural bank, similar to what Foster Fraser describes in his late book on the Argentine, would serve us well. Similar banks are to be found budding out in most countries to deal with purely farmers' business. A man can procure a short loan with these banks at any time, and on most securities, either on live stock or dead. But all this would take time to mature. We want relief at once, or many will go under.

I would suggest that to help the settler out of the present impasse that he should be granted his titles on a non-residential tenure. This would enable a man to procure a loan in a similar manner to what is done in other branches of industry. The Government can safeguard both themselves and the settler. We must be able to procure our loans on all loose plant, horses, etc., from the Government or other directions; without, few can remain. The above titles would, of course, only be procurable by those who have spent a certain amount on their blocks, and this matter of titles would not apply to those who would have their blocks prepared by the Government until they had paid off a stipulated sum. I cannot well see how the Government can within a reasonable time prepare all these farms, even if they could finance the same, as it would entail such a vast expenditure to keep pace with a reasonable rate of settlement. Unless something is done settlement will stagnate.

Another very urgent matter, and one fruitful of much injustice, is the matter of demanding rentals before the lands are made productive. The Ministers have met this point in a tentative way by carrying over the rentals for a short period, but these rentals will be piled up and hang like a millstone around the necks of the settlers. We maintain that the Government should come in side by side and bear its share of the risks until the settler is firmly on his legs. I mean the deserving ones. All the settlers ask is a fair deal. If the Government say that the capital invested must get a return, then I suggest that the rentals shall be carried over for three years, and then spread over the capital values of the whole settlement. This would be only fair to us pioneers, and to those who would come in after, and who would look over our fences and profit by our experimental work and success. All would be cut and dried for all who come in later, and the small amount that their lands would appreciate a rental value would be infinitesimal in contrast to the advantages that they would be able to take into consideration. In other cases that may come after, the rentals should be tacked on to the capital value for a certain period, if the settler so desire it, but the Commissioner should have discretionary powers on this point.

These unimproved lands are not worth more than was given for them; the settler makes the same of higher value by his intelligence, industry, and expenditure of capital. He has earned the increment on the land, and the Government has earned the increment on the water supply; both participate, and they should carry equal risks.

The idea that a man with a few pounds can come here and be successful is now exploded. The poor man must come in after the man with capital, who must employ labour, and for this reason the smaller blocks, such as 10 acres (this should be the smallest size), should be placed at intervals throughout the settlement, so as to enable these men to work their blocks, at the same time make ends meet by working for their neighbours. Putting so many two-acre and other small areas closely together means slumming as much so or worse than slumming in town-planning, because you have a lot of stock manure heaps, etc., with poor drainage to cope with it, and in time it will bear fruit. This crowding of small areas together around the chief centre, without broad avenues, must be bad for all concerned. It would be better for those who come in with little capital to be near work; as it is, they must travel some miles.

We have a great chance at Yanko, as we are starting from the toe-line to build up a prosperous settlement on right lines, but there are two roads before us, the wrong and the right one. Which shall it be?

THE MOSQUITO PLANT.

Mr. B. Harrison writes:—It is well known that these insects in many places are a great pest to man and beast at certain seasons of the year, and in other countries are the means of spreading several diseases, principally fevers. The plant herein described may prove useful to our people in mitigating the trouble or annoyance. In many of the States of America mosquitos are a great pest, and New Jersey ranks amongst the most badly infested in the world. There immense tracts of land are deserted on this account. Some years ago a scientific commission was appointed to devise a remedy, and after patient research a shrub was found, named Ocimum viridiflorum, which, on account of a peculiar odour it possesses, puts the mosquitos to flight, and frees the locality of them. It is stated that a single branch in a room, and a plant growing near a house, establish immunity from their annoyance. This plant is a native of Western Africa, of shrubby habit, with hairy somewhat four-sided branching stems, having oblong egg-shaped leaves, tapering to the base, with round toothed margins. It should succeed well on the north coast and Queensland.

RECORD LITTER OF PIGS.

Mr. John Simpson, Ravensworth, writes:—I have noticed in your "On the Land" column two letters from correspondents re litters of pigs from one sow. I attended a sale of a dairy herd, the property of Mr. William Ingall, of Ravensworth, in 1899. I think when a sow was sold with a guarantee her last three litters totalled 60—19, 20, and 21 each litter. This should be interesting reading to your correspondents on this subject. Mr. Ingall is at present living in Singleton, and will vouch for the accuracy of my statement. In 1902 I had a sow give birth to 13, 12 of which brought 18s per head in the market at eight weeks old. Both sows were of the Berkshire breed.

MANAGING CATTLE.

(BY J. D. M.)

Many years' experience in controlling the working of a cattle station under the old system teaches it is quite possible to evolve a better and more profitable method, at the present opportune time, when significant indications point to an early increase of value in the price of cattle. Country suitable for breeding and raising cattle, of which there is a large area in the State, should be eagerly sought for and stocked. In order that it may retain its productiveness, avert the continuance of former wasteful abuse, conserve the pasture, and double or treble the carrying capacity of the land, curtail unnecessary expenditure, diminish losses of cattle caused by dearths and other misadventures, secure a better and more uniform grade of cattle that constitute the herd, afford the opportunity to eject, and keep out "wasters," and secure to the owner a regular supply of marketable cattle, a cattle run must be enclosed and subdivided by a strong, substantial fence. The initial expense of its construction will, through the increased profits, be soon reimbursed. In subdividing a run for cattle much depends on the contour of the country, the available area at command, the numerical size of the herd, and water supply. If a permanent stream, or streams, cannot be made available to supply water to each subdivision, then an open surface reservoir can be excavated, or a dam built in a good catchment area. For the methodical working of the herd the subdivisions can be arranged as follows:—Placing the stockyard as centrally as possible. Presuming that the country to be subdivided is of the average grazing character, the breeding paddock area can be large enough to sustain the probable number of females, and allow six acres of pasture per head. The adjoining paddock, well clad with grass and herbage, three acres per head. Two weaning paddocks, one sex in each, three acres per head. A reserve or relieving paddock, five acres per head. Finally, a bull paddock; calculating the number of bulls at the rate of three for every hundred of females not admissable to the breeding herd, until such time as will ensure an almost simultaneous dropping of calves during the early spring months. Another division may be added for culls, to be sold as stores.

Under such an arrangement cattle will not be knocked about by being hunted from their feeding-grounds to the mustering camps for miles at a gallop. Nor will there be the process of drafting by men on horses. All such unnecessary treatment can be obviated by subdividing the run.

FARMERS' PICNICS.

DUBBO.—Farmers and Settlers' Associations' annual picnics are now becoming a general thing in the west. They are largely superseding the carnivals hitherto held, and are a means of clearing up misunderstanding, making friendships, and promoting good fellowship among the men on the land. In the earlier days of the association, the carnival was the thing. But carnivals could only be arranged by the stronger branches. Geurie, Gilgandra, and Trangie carnivals of some years ago were ambitious undertakings, not possible in the smaller rural centres. At Trangie the carnival is now an undertaking. They were shows in embryo, and some partook largely of the nature of district exhibitions of much smaller proportions than in the past. The same thing is likely to take place at Gilgandra, where the show has come to stay. Geurie still believes that the carnival serves all purposes of district advertisement, as well as creating and maintaining a spirit of friendly competition among the primary producers. Dubbo branch has dropped the carnival altogether. Instead, Dubbo initiated the picnic movement, which now promises to become general, as it is possible for the smallest branch to arrange a successful picnic re-union.

EXPERIMENTAL FARMING.

WOLLONGONG.—Government wheat experimental plots sown for green feed on T. A. Bateman's farm at Albion Park, promise satisfactory returns. The plot was one of those drilled in with the department's wheat drill. The inspector for the district visited the plot on Thursday, and, in the presence of many farmers, cut these plots, which were in a nice succulent state. The variety which attracted most attention from the dairy farmers' point of view was Florence. This wheat was about four feet high, and nicely out in ear. It has resisted rust, whilst another variety, John Brown, shows a fair amount of rust. The celebrated Thew wheat is not out in ear yet, though the plots manured and unmanured are growing rapidly. Florence and all other varieties were manured with super, at the rate of half cwt per acre. "King's Early" wheat, new to the coast, caught the farmers' eye, but failed to yield as well as Florence. The following are the returns of green feed from the plots cut on Thursday:—Florence, nine tons per acre; Bunyip, five tons 18cwts per acre; King's Early, five tons 17cwt per acre. The department will shortly put down a plot of potatoes on J. Timb's farm. The inspector exhibited some excellent specimens of potatoes grown by the department on O. E. Silk's farm, at Nimitybelle.

DISTRICT ITEMS.

JERILDERIE.—Prospects for the season are causing anxiety. All classes of crops are very backward in their growth, and even those early sown in March have not properly covered the ground, while those sown in June are not above ground. Some seed has not germinated, owing to the continued dry weather, and the fact that the watercourses are still dry, with little possibility of the Murrumbidgee waters being sufficiently high to send a flow through Yanko off-take to fill the streams. Great anxiety is felt, not only by residents along the frontages of the Yanko, Colombo, and Billabong creeks, but by the townspeople of Jerilderie. A water famine is feared. Residents of Upper Yanko have sent a petition to Mr. R. M'Garry, M.L.A., waiting for signatures, praying that he will use his influence with the Water Commissioners to let them send a sufficient supply from Barrenjack storage to fill their natural water-courses.

RICHMOND.—At a public meeting at Richmond of district growers, the Kurrajong and Hawkesbury Fruitgrowers' Association was formed. The following officers were elected:—Mr. H. E. Peck, president; Mr. A. S. Klein, hon. secretary; Mr. W. B. Douglas, hon. treasurer. A number of growers were enrolled. The question of affiliation with the Fruitgrowers' Association of New South Wales was left over for discussion at the next meeting.

WESTERN AUSTRALIAN FARMERS.

PERTH.—The Farmers and Settlers' Association suspended its special political conference to-day to deal with the practical purposes of the association.

The president's report stated that a large number of members had not paid their subscriptions. The bank overdraft was £454, and £1256 was owing, mostly represented by unpaid subscriptions. The association had 180 branches, and a membership of 6000. There had been considerable difficulty in procuring for the Western Australian Farmers, Ltd., the number of shares required for the registration of the company, which is capitalised at £260,000, of which only £25,000 had been applied for. To be thoroughly effective, the president stated that the full capital authorised should be subscribed. The management had made inquiries with respect to Belgian superphosphates, and had a satisfactory sample at £3 7s 6d per ton, at ship's side, in two thousand lots, cash on delivery from the slings. Not having the necessary capital, a trial shipment of 70 tons had been ordered and paid for by the executive, and the results would be shown in the coming harvest.

WHEAT FOR FODDER.

DAPTO.—In accordance with the decision arrived at at the last meeting of the committee of the Albion Park Agricultural Association, a number of members of the institution paid a visit of inspection to the Government experimental plots of wheat for fodder purposes on Mr. T. A. Bateman's farm, and were very favourably impressed with what they saw. The plots include the following varieties of wheat:—Thew, John Brown, Florence Bunyip, and King's Early, the last mentioned being new to the South Coast. The seed of all the varieties was drilled in with the Government drill, and was manured with superphosphate at the rate of a half cwt. per acre. The variety which attracted most attention was Florence, which was about 4ft high and out in ear. This variety had resisted rust, while the John Brown variety showed a fair amount of rust. Thew is not yet out in ear, but the plots are doing well. Three of the varieties were sufficiently advanced to be cut, namely, Florence, which yielded 9 tons per acre, Bunyip, 5 tons 18cwt per acre, and King's Early, 5 tons 17cwt per acre. Later on, the other plots will be cut and weighed. The farmers were impressed with the advantages to be gained by drilling in seed instead of sowing it broadcast.

HIGH PRICES FOR SHEEP.

RECORD FOR NEW ZEALAND.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.).—Record prices for sheep were obtained at a South Canterbury clearing sale. Breeding ewes reached 31s, averaging 28s, and the whole flock averaged 27s.

FALLING TREE AND TELEGRAPH WIRES.

A case of interest to the farming community, whose homesteads adjoin the highway, recently came before a Victorian court. A man was proceeded against by the Post and Telegraph Department on a complaint of having damaged some telegraph cables and wires, the damage being estimated at £20. It was pleaded in defence that the damage was not due to negligence on the part of defendant, but was due rather to what is known in law as an act of God. The evidence showed that the defendant climbed a tree on his property overhanging the road, and chopped off some of the limbs. While so engaged rain commenced to fall, and the wind, increasing considerably in force, he postponed operations for a little while, and then commenced to cut the tree down, so that it would fall away from the road. A strong gust of wind, however, carried it in the opposite direction, and it fell across the telegraph line. The official representing the department said that defendant ought to have secured the advice of one of the officers before he felled the tree, and possibly an officer would have been sent free of charge to supervise the felling. Finally, the complaint was dismissed, with costs against the postal authorities.

AGRICULTURAL EDUCATION.

The students from the agricultural classes at the Sydney and Granville Technical Colleges, accompanied by the instructor, Mr. Henry Lord, visited Stainsby, at Mosman, on Saturday afternoon last, for a practical lesson in pruning fruit trees.

REMOVAL OF TRAVELLING STOCK.

The first prosecution under the new regulation of the Pastures Protection Act, which was gazetted on April 22, 1914, was instituted before one of the country courts, where the defendant was charged that, being in charge of cattle intending to use a stock route, he did not send the inspector of the district a copy of his travelling statement. The defendant was fined 5s and costs, including £2 2s professional costs, the magistrate intimating that he had made the penalty a nominal one, inasmuch as it was the first case, and also by reason that defendant had confessed to want of knowledge of the existence of the regulation. For the information of others we append a copy of the new regulation: "In any case of intended removal of travelling stock (horses or cattle) from any holding or run on which they are being depastured, where, in the course of the journey, it will be necessary for such stock to use a travelling stock or camp reserve, the drover, upon becoming supplied with a travelling statement in connection with the intended removal of such stock, shall at once, before starting to travel, forward to the inspector for the district a duplicate or copy of the statement under which the stock are about to travel."

THE FARMERS.

HARBOUR PICNIC.

FEDERAL MINISTERS' SPEECHES

On Saturday the members of the Farmers and Settlers' Association were the guests of Shirleys, Ltd., and were entertained at a harbour excursion and a picnic at Clifton Gardens.

The weather was, unfortunately, wet, but it did not prevent some seven or eight hundred farmers and their friends enjoying the hospitality offered them.

At the luncheon, Dr. Elliott, managing director of Shirley's, Ltd., presided, and among those present were the Federal Attorney-General, Sir William Irvine, the Minister for Defence, Senator Millen; the president of the association, Mr. R. Patten, M.P.; Senator Oakes, Messrs. Massey Greene, W. M. Fleming, Ms.P.; Messrs. R. Price, Abbott, R. T. Ball, F. J. Thomas, Ms.L.A.; and Messrs. F. Coen, A. K. Trethowan, and H. E. Pratten, Senate candidates.

The president elect of the association, Mr. A. Hunt, proposed the toast of "The Federal Parliament." After expressing the association's appreciation of the hospitality of Messrs. Shirley, Ltd., he said there was an old saying, "By their fruits ye shall know them." By the fruits of the Labour party they condemned that body, and by the taste that the Liberal party had given them they, as farmers, had decided its fruits acceptable so far as they went, to the primary producers—(cheers)—and as a consequence the primary producers now stood united behind the Federal Liberal Government.

Sir William Irvine, in responding, said that the Prime Minister was unable to be present, and he had asked him (Sir William) to speak for him and the Government. Regarding the double dissolution, he said that all Governors had, as their first duty, to hold the balance of power impartially between two parties. (Cheers.) If a single dissolution had been granted, and the Labour party had been elected to the Treasury benches, they had everything to gain, but if the Liberal party had been re-elected they would be still under the handicap of having a hostile Senate. It was possible this might be the case even now, and his reply to that contention was that they could fairly hope to reduce the great disparity in the numbers. He was extremely gratified with the reception he, a Victorian, had received at their hands. Whatever might have been the animosities and jealousies of the past, they were beginning to realise to-day that they were now one great Commonwealth. (Cheers.) He congratulated the farmers on having decided to adopt a line of political action. It was not his place to say anything about political differences that might exist in this State, but he might presume to express the hope that after the Federal election all those who were working in the ranks of Liberalism throughout the whole of New South Wales would be as united as they were in the Federal sphere. (Cheers.)

Senator Millen said that it had been the boast of the Labour party that on every occasion on which they had appealed to the people they came back stronger and stronger. That was true, so long as the Labour party was living in the realm of promise. That might be true up till 1910, when they gained power. It took them 20 years to get into power, but it only took three for the people to put them out again. (Laughter and cheers.) No one who looked at the simple facts fairly and squarely could deny that the victory which came to the banner of Liberalism a year ago was attained by loyal help and co-operation of the primary producers. After all, the basis of government was finance, and it followed that every action taken by the Government and Parliament, tended in some way to throw some impositions on the taxpapers of the country. The imposition was passed on until it came to the primary producers, and they had no means of passing it on, so that they were paying the bulk of the taxation. It was time they asserted their power. He refused to believe after the victory of 12 months ago that the Liberals were going to lose today. (Cheers.)

Mr. H. E. Pratten, one of the Senate candidates, proposed the toast of "The Visitors and Shirley, Ltd."

The chairman, in responding, said that whatever their political views might be, if Mr. Holman had been present they would have given him a hearty and loyal welcome. (Cheers.)

TRADES AND LABOUR.

RANDWICK WIRELESS STATION.

The officials of the Amalgamated Society of Engineers on Saturday dealt with the employment of non-unionists at the Shaw wireless station, Randwick. It was found that about half of the tradesmen employed there were eligible for membership, and had not joined the union. The district president, Mr. Padgen, stated that it was very probable the unionists would refuse to work any longer with the non-unionists. The position would, however, be reviewed at a general meeting, to be held at the Trades Hall to-night.

TANNERS AND LEATHER DRESSERS.

The Leather Trades Group Wages Board, Mr. E. W. Wickham chairman, will meet on August 4 to hear the application of the New South Wales branch of the Federated Tanners and Leather Dressers' Union, to have the State award brought into conformity with the Federal award. Minimum rates of pay will be suggested, varying from £2 15s to £3 5s for a week of 48 hours.

SADDLERS' BOARD.

Mr. Wickham will hold a sitting of the saddlers' board on 29th inst., the application being to have the wages of saddlers, now £2 14s, raised to £3 10s. Mr. Henwood will represent the saddlers' union.

THEATRICAL EMPLOYEES.

At conferences of theatrical employees, to be held at Hobart and Adelaide next month, proposals will be submitted for the formation of one large union, to exercise authority throughout the Commonwealth.

At the recent meeting of the grand council of theatrical employees, authority was given to advertise houses in Enmore and Newtown which employ unionists, and it was decided to spend £30 in making this "white list" known, so that the families of unionists would know which places to patronise.

INDUSTRIAL UNIONISM.

At a meeting of the executive of the Federated Millers and Mill Employees' Union it was recommended that the union should extend its support to industrial unions that are endeavouring to preserve and maintain the present industrial system of union organisation in preference to the proposed introduction of the craft system.

AERATED WATER EMPLOYEES.

Claims have been drawn up by the New South Wales branch of the Federated Liquor Trades Employees' Union covering aerated water and other non-intoxicating drink manufacturies. The hours asked are 48, to be worked Monday to Friday, between the hours of 7 a.m. and 5 p.m., and on Saturday between the hours of 7 a.m. and 12 noon. The wages suggested for adults are the following:—Taking charge of machinery or gas cylinders, £3 15s; cordial maker, £3 15s; bottling aerated or carbonated waters, £3 5s; motor drivers, £3 10s; two-horse drivers, £3 5s; one-horse drivers, £3; grooms, £3; and all other adult employees, £3. Casual work is put down at one-fifth more. Double rates are asked for overtime. Boy labour is quoted at from £1 to £2 5s. The area is within the county of Cumberland.

PROFESSIONAL MUSICIANS.

The proposal which was placed before last week's meeting of the Professional Musicians' Union to insist on a residential qualification for membership for those who come from oversea was further discussed at a meeting of the union held yesterday at the headquarters, Rowe-street.

It was decided that the qualification should be six months' residence, but that it would not be enforced against players from other parts of Australia and New Zealand.

The object aimed at is to check the growing invasion of American musicians who have by cable been made acquainted with the conditions existing here.

DRIED FRUIT INDUSTRY.

ADELAIDE, Friday.

A conference of the Australian Dried Fruits Association was opened on Tuesday.

A report was submitted by the secretary relative to the fruit produced by members of the association, and showed the output for 1914 as having been:—Apricots (dried), 467 tons; peaches (dried), 175; lexias (equal to), 228; currants, 4228; sultanas, 4952. The sales this year have been in advance of those in previous years, and it is hoped with the lower scale of prices which has been adopted that the advance will be even more marked as the season progresses. It is pleasing to note that the season's fruits were harvested without any differences between employers and employees, and so far as can be seen all persons employed in the industry are now working most harmoniously together.

D. MITCHELL AND CO., 153 CLARENCE STREET, SYDNEY.

A Happy Baby means a Happy Home and a Happy Mother.

There is no misery, worry, or anxiety to equal a mother's when she sees her poor wee mite gradually fading away—no trouble, time, care, or attention is spared.

If the loving care of a mother could win back the roses to baby's cheeks, he would soon be a romping little mite; but love alone, even a mother's love, will not restore his shattered health. Baby must have a food that will nourish him—a food from which his weakened little digestive organs can extract nutriment—a food that will satisfy his hunger and build up his little body so that he can grow bigger, stronger, and healthier day by day.

Such a food is a healthy mother's breast-milk—provided it is plentiful enough and rich enough to satisfy baby. But if it is deficient in quantity or poor in quality, these deficiencies can generally be overcome by the mother herself taking a pint of Glaxo, made hot and strong, every day.

Or she can give baby Glaxo in turn with the breast; and only a mother who has fed her baby in this way can appreciate what a comfort it is. Should she have to go away suddenly, should she become sick, or from any cause be delayed and prevented from getting home at baby's regular feeding time—she does not have to hurry, get excited, overheated and tired (bad things for a nursing mother)—she leisurely takes her time, because she knows baby can have his bottle of Glaxo; will be satisfied and contented, and that his next feed can be breast-milk. And, in these cold winter nights, it can be arranged that the early morning feed shall be breast-milk.

GLAXO

Awarded Gold Medal, International Medical Congress Exhibition, London, 1913.

"Builds Bonnie Babies."

GLAXO is obtainable from all Chemists and Stores at 1/6 per tin; medium size, 2/6; large size, 6/- per tin.

Glaxo can be given in turn with the breast with every advantage and without fear of digestive disturbance, because Glaxo is not an artificial food. There is nothing artificial or secret about it—Glaxo is simply pure cow's milk with extra cream and milk sugar added; and the Glaxo process causes the nourishing curd of the milk to form into tiny particles, easily and quickly digested even by a very young or delicate baby.

The extra cream causes Glaxo to have the same proportion of fat as normal breast-milk, and this is very important, because a baby fed on a food which does not contain sufficient fat is extremely likely to develop rickets.

For these reasons, if baby cannot have breast-milk at all, he should have Glaxo from birth. Thousands of babies, many of them very weak at birth, have been steadily, day by day, built up by Glaxo into strong, healthy kiddies, and a joy and comfort to their happy mothers.

Glaxo is a complete food in itself, and is prepared by simply adding hot water—no milk or cream has to be added, only hot water. That is why Glaxo is not only the easiest food to prepare, but so inexpensive; in fact, there is only one thing cheaper than the 2/6 tin of Glaxo, and that is the 6/ tin, which contains three times the quantity.

The characteristic cry of the non-thriving baby ceases when he is put on Glaxo; the wrinkles on the little forehead disappear, the frightened, pained look in the eyes is replaced by a look of bright intelligence and contentment—and Happiness for both Mother and Baby reigns supreme in that Happy Home.

HISTORICAL RECORD.

CENTENARY CELEBRATIONS.

Penrith was early astir on Saturday, to celebrate the centenary of the turning of the first sod of the Old Western-road. A blue sky, flecked with fleecy clouds, and bright genial sunshine auspiciously ushered in the day's proceedings. Numbers of visitors arrived by early trains from Sydney and the surrounding centres. In the streets the display of flags and bunting made a pleasing colour contrast with the deep green foliage of the triumphal arches. High-street formed a picturesque setting for the day's function, an avenue of gum bushes stretching the full length, spanned by arches at intervals. Festoons of flags fluttered in the morning breeze. The decorations were a tribute to the "mighty dead," as the Prime Minister said at the official luncheon, and Penrith did full justice to the occasion. The procession and historic pageant which parded High-street to the Nepean River was an imposing spectacle. It was led by the mounted police and the Royal Australian Artillery Band. The Glebe Cadet Band was present, followed by a detachment of the N.S.W. Lancers, and the Windsor and Penrith troop of the Mounted Rifles, with the Penrith cadets following. Then came the friendly societies, with their banners, and the local branch of the N.S.W. Locomotive Engine-drivers, Firemen, and Cleaners' Association. Most interesting of all was the historic pageant with representations in character of Governor Macquarie (Mr. Geoffrey Baker), Governor Bligh (Mr. F. Earp), Sir Joseph Banks (Mr. C. Hollier), Captain Cox (Mr. T. Dukes), Captain King (Mr. W. Nagell), Surveyor-General Evans (Mr. C. Thomson), the Rev. Henry Fulton (Mr. C. E. Clarke), the Rev. Sam Leigh (Mr. M. S. Mills), the Rev. Father Brennan (Mr. Les. Keary). They were dressed in the picturesque costumes of the period represented. Bringing up the rear was the Penrith Fire Brigade and several comic turnouts were included in the long procession, King Billy, representing an aboriginal chief driving a grey horse whose harness was largely made of stringy bark, while on the vehicle was a "mia mia" on wheels. The children of the local Public school took part, the girls carrying garlands of flowers, and making a striking effect in the colour scheme. Another feature was an historic coach driven by Mr. Thos. Hobby, a grandson of Lieutenant Hobby, who was Cox's right-hand man in the building of the road. With its leather springs and substantial under-carriage, it showed how our grandfathers travelled. In this coach King George travelled to Windsor when in Australia many years ago with his brother, the late Duke of Clarence. The Duke of Edinburgh also travelled in it on the occasion of his visit.

A GREAT WORK.

The procession on arrival at the Centenary Park, Riverside, formed up in order close to the spot where Captain William Cox commence operations on the Western-road 100 years before. A large number of people assembled here. It must have been in vivid contrast to the inauspicious manner in which Cox started his work on that memorable July morning. Below was the river, near by the road bridge, and the railway bridge erected a few years ago. On the other side were the foothills of the Blue Mountains. The railway viaduct could be plainly seen in the distance, and a train puffing up the mountains, followed much the same course as the old road.

The Mayor (Alderman Jones) presided, and, after a brief reference to the importance of the occasion, introduced Mr. Frank Walker, who delivered an historical address.

HISTORIC REVIEW.

Mr. Walker was received with applause. He recounted the incidents leading up to the discovery of the track over the Blue Mountains by Blaxland, Lawson, and Wentworth, mentioning that no less than 13 attempts had been previously made. Then another brave and energetic pioneer in the person of George William Evans—whose grandson and great-grandson were now present to celebrate the occasion—(cheers)—had penetrated 98 miles beyond Blaxland's furthest point. Flood and famine had threatened the settlement. Governor Macquarie was overjoyed when he heard of the discovery. Then came the question of building a road. There was no money, but Captain William Cox, with an absolute forgetfulness of self, which did him infinite credit, volunteered his services. He left behind him the comforts of civilisation to sojourn in the mountains for months to build the road. This road was in use for 28 years, until Major Mitchell made a new road. Concluding, Mr. Walker paid a tribute to the men who had made possible the benefits now enjoyed.

The R.A.A. Band played the National Anthem, and cheers were given for the King.

Afterwards, at the Show Ground, a reception was held, when the visitors and townspeople met many of the descendants of the old pioneers. Among them was Mr. Harley Cox, shire engineer of the Blue Mountain Shire, grandson of Captain Cox; Mr. William Evans, grandson of Surveyor-General Evans; Mr. E. J Fulton, grandson of the Rev. Henry Fulton; and Mr. F. H. Woodriffe, whose family first pioneered the Penrith district.

THE LUNCHEON.

The centenary luncheon was held in the pavilion. The Mayor, Alderman Jones, presided; those present, including the Prime Minister, Mr. J. Cook, and Mrs. Cook, the State Premier, Mr. W. A. Holman, and Mrs. Holman; the Minister for Railways, Mr. H. C. Hoyle, and Mrs. Hoyle; Mr. E. S. Carr, M.P., and Mrs. Carr; Mr. J. T. Wall, president Blue Mountains Shire Council, and Miss Wall; Aldermen F. Brelt, Mayor of St. Marys; and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Walker.

After the loyal toast had been honoured, the chairman said that they were celebrating the turning of the first sod of the Old Western-road, and it was intended to erect a memorial at the riverside to the memory of William Cox and his men. (Applause.)

The Prime Minister, who was received enthusiastically, said that a nation was virtually dead that neglected the mighty heroes of the past. The people of to-day should cultivate the memory of the past. He was afraid that they were inclined to forget this in the present materialistic age. After all, it was the great personality of the nation that counted. They were to-day enjoying the fruits of the labour of these men, and the people of Australia had entered into a rich heritage. They were the trustees of the grit and pluck and perseverance that had made their ancestors great, and would continue to make Australia a great nation.

RECORDS OF THE PAST.

Mr. Holman, who on rising was received with cheers, said that he shared in that spirit of congratulation that had inspired the remarks of the Prime Minister. (Cheers.) There was a feeling of heartfelt pride which the great achievement of to-day called to their minds. The Prime Minister had referred to the achievements of the past, of the men who had blazed the track, but he could not help referring to the progress they had made since. The Government of which he was the head was the direct successors to the Government that had ordered the first sod of the Western-road to be turned. In the Lands Department they had an uninterrupted succession of records from that day to this. (Cheers.) There was a certain added weight of duty to preserve these records, and to stimulate the memory of these deeds. Cox and his men made 101 miles of road over the mountains in the face of engineering difficulties of an indescribable character, and in record time that had not since been equalled. It was surprising to find that the Governor who did this work had a body of critics, who wrote to the home authorities, besmirching the name of the Government, just as he found was done to-day. (Laughter.)

Mr. Frank Walker said that Cox completed the road in 6½ months, it being 101½ miles in length.

Mr. E. S. Carr, who was well received, said as a westerner he could fully appreciate the significance of the function. Those who belonged to the west could best understand the work that had been opened to them by their forefathers.

The toast of "The Visitors" was proposed by Mr. E. K. Bowden, and responded to by Mr. T. W. K. Waldron. The Prime Minister gave the toast of the chairman.

In the afternoon a sports programme was carried out, and at night a patriotic concert was held. Yesterday special sermons were preached in the churches, and at St. Stephen's Church of England a memorial tablet was unveiled to the memory of the Rev. Henry Fulton.

VALUE OF INDIVIDUAL EFFORT.

LESSON FROM THE PAST.

SPEECH BY MR. COOK.

The Prime Minister (Mr. Cook) and Mr. Wade occupied the same platform at Chatswood on Saturday, and gave brief addresses upon Federal and State politics.

"I appear before you," said Mr. Cook, in opening his address, "with a large amount of Penrith mud on my boots. I have been spending the day up there attending the centenary celebrations in connection with the Great Western-road, and doing honour to those pioneers who worked so strenuously one hundred years ago.

"Those were our pre-socialistic days," he proceeded, amid cheers, "and I want to tell you that this country was never, and could never have been, pioneered on socialistic lines, and it can never be developed on those lines. No country was ever pioneered on the Government stroke, and what is true of our early days applies with equal force to-day. This, however, is not a lesson which we could bring home to-day at the Penrith gathering. What I want to say while I am on this question, and to say it emphatically, is that we are coddling people, and we must see that we do not coddle all the grit out of them, and so lose that spirit of enterprise and individual effort that marked our pioneers. (Cheers.) The Government can do a great deal for the people of any country, but I believe in a combination of Government and individual effort. The State can get behind the individual and make his enterprise more successful, but it should never take the place of the individual.

"Nowadays we have our roads to make, just like the pioneers of a hundred years ago. We have 1600 miles of railway projected in the Northern Territory alone, to say nothing of the great east-west railway. Our roads are roads for the iron horse, and we have the steam shovel instead of the shovel which was wielded by our sturdy pioneers."

Referring to political matters, Mr. Cook dealt with the position created by the Senate. "We are supposed to be a democratic community," he said, "but you have no democracy operating in this country at all. You have a system of block voting, and democracy is not being given a chance. Let the majority rule certainly, but why should not the minority be given a chance also. This evil we propose to wipe out by the introduction of a system of proportional voting. The Senate was never intended to take up the position which it has taken up. It was intended as a House of review, and nothing more. Therefore, the time is ripe for a change in the electoral machinery."

"I confess," said Mr. Cook, "that I do not like this double dissolution. I am not going to cant and say I do not like power and place, and, if you like, pay. What is the use of making bones about it? I am as human as anyone else, but I would rather leave office a thousand times than allow my office to be degraded and myself to be degraded with it. (Cheers.)

"Now let us look at the Senate's record. On forty different occasions in twelve months it suspended the standing orders, and took the business of the House out of the hands of the Government. On another occasion it went on strike for two days." (Laughter.)

A voice: Quite right.

Mr. Cook: "No doubt, because the Senate was doing less mischief while it was on strike than while sitting. (Cheers.) To use an agricultural expression, the Labour people cannot stand corn."

A voice: What about next election?

Mr. Cook: "There will be no corn then for them, for we will turn them out to grass."

In conclusion, Mr. Cook appealed to the Liberal supporters to stand closely together, and to spare no effort to make victory assured.

A short address was also delivered by Mr. Wade.

MR. FISHER AT WOLLONGONG.

WOLLONGONG, Sunday.

The weather on Saturday night was cold, with heavy showers at intervals, but this did not prevent a very large gathering at the Star Theatre to hear Mr. Fisher.

Mr. Kirkwood presided, and Mr. Burns, the Labour candidate, briefly addressed the meeting.

Mr. Fisher, who on rising was accorded an ovation, said Mr. Cook was now saying he was not opposed to preference, while Sir William Irvine said he was. He inferred that if the Government were returned to power with a majority of one Sir William Irvine's opinions would prevail on the question of preference to unionists. He admired Sir William Irvine for his honest outspokenness, and honestly believed that gentleman was genuine in his belief that old-age pensions and maternity allowances were subservient to the welfare of Australia.

Mr. Fisher also claimed that the Government spoke with two voices on the financial question. Mr. Cook claimed there was a surplus, but Sir John Forrest and Sir William Irvine admitted there was a deficit, the latter stating it would be a million and a half. He declared that the Liberal Government had done the best they could do in the way of finance, and that best was now before the country. On it they were telling the people to condemn the Fisher Government because Labour had left a surplus, and were asking the electors to support them because the Liberals had expended all that surplus.

He maintained that the Cook Government had stopped the clock of progress; they had done nothing, and did not want to do anything. Their policy was to leave things as they were, and leave injustice as it was. His party stood for justice, equality, and good government, and if returned to power would bring in a progressive policy, vigorous in prosecution and clean in administration.

A number of questions were asked and answered by Mr. Fisher, after which Mr. J. Grant, Labour Senate candidate, briefly addressed the meeting.

CHIEF ELECTORAL OFFICERS.

The chief electoral officer, Mr. Oldham, arrived in Sydney on Saturday from Melbourne. He will spend several days here dealing with official matters, and supervising details in connection with the election. On Saturday he spent the whole of the day in consultation with Mr. M'Laren, the officer in charge here.

WEEK'S ENROLMENT.

During the week applications for enrolment have been coming in steadily, and up to Saturday morning 35,258 cards had been sent in from different parts of the State.

PARKES.

Mr. Bruce Smith, M.P., will deliver an address at the Ashfield Town Hall this evening.

ROBERTSON.

MUDGEE, Saturday.

Mr. J. A. Fraser, Labour candidate for Robertson, opened his campaign at Mudgee last night, when he addressed a large crowd at the Town Hall. The Mayor (Ald. Cohen) presided. Referring to preference to unionists, the candidate criticised the Government occupying the time of Parliament with this matter, which had already been dealt with by proclamation. He believed in preference, but did not think there was an Australian who thoroughly understood the question, and whose sense of fair play was so warped that he did not agree with Labour's position. It took much of the union's money, time, and intelligence, to win awards. For instance, it had cost the A.W.U. £8000 to get an award. He spoke in favour of the rural workers being granted an award to make for peace with the Farmers and Settlers' Association. Messrs. Bagnall and Dunn, Ms.L.A., spoke in support.

NEPEAN.

LIVERPOOL, Saturday.

The Liberal candidate for Nepean, Mr. R. B. Orchard, anticipates opening his campaign in the Liverpool portion of the division, on July 28, when he will be assisted by Senator Millen.

EDEN-MONARO.

MORUYA, Saturday.

Mr. Chapman, M.P., Liberal candidate, delivered an address last night. He opposed preference to unionists, and said every worker should have the same opportunity for work. Referring to old-age pensions, he said that owing to the increased cost of living, efforts should be made to raise them to 12s 6d a week.

ILLAWARRA.

WOLLONGONG, Sunday.

At a conference of the Illawarra Liberal Association, held at Wollongong yesterday, Mr. G. W. Fuller, the selected Liberal candidate for Illawarra, addressed the conference on the advantages of organisation and other matters. Delegates were present from various centres, and the areas were divided, and representatives appointed to revise the rolls. The general rolls for Illawarra show 40,561 names, and it is estimated that there will be fully 2000 more on the supplementary rolls.

THE SENATE.

QUEENSLAND LIBERAL CANDIDATES.

BRISBANE, Sunday.

A joint committee of the Queensland Women's Electoral League and the Liberal Association met on Saturday night, Mr. Denham presiding. Twelve nominations of Senate candidates were received, and the following six were selected:—Messrs. William Aitcheson, Thomas William Crawford, Frederic Johnson, Adolphus Percy Jones, Michael William O'Donnell, and Edward Eldridge Smith.

Mr. Aitcheson is an engine-driver, employed at the Railway Department, and resides at Esk. Mr. Crawford is a resident of Mossman, and is president of the Australian Sugar Producers' Association. Mr. Johnson is the present Mayor of Charters Towers. Mr. Jones is connected with the Queensland Farmers' Union, Mr. O'Donnell is a farmer at Toowoomba, and one time of Cambooya, and Mr. Smith was for some time sub-collector of Customs at Mackay.

COUNTRY PARTY CONFERENCE.

PERTH, Sunday.

The Country party continued its conference, and adopted the following resolutions:—(1) That local option become one of the planks of the platform; (2) Parliamentary salaries to be altered by referendum only; (3) preferential voting for the House of Representatives and proportional representation for the Senate.

A motion that clause 10 of the political platform, opposing legislation to bring rural workers under the Arbitration Court, be removed from the constitution in its entirety, was rejected, as was also a proposal to the effect that where a retiring likely member is standing for an electorate and has the confidence of the electors it is unwise that a Country party candidate should be put up against him.

A motion favouring a honourable understanding with the Liberal party in guarding each others' interests was withdrawn.

CAUCUS v FUSION.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—On my return on Saturday from a tour of the Hume and Riverina electorates my attention was drawn to your report of a meeting at Crow's Nest addressed by the Prime Minister and Minister for Defence, in which my name was mentioned. I would like a few words in reply. Referring to the statement of Mr. Cook that I said the caucus would overbalance the fusion, I do not remember making that assertion. If I did the overbalancing act has yet to be performed. We will see how the trick is to be done on September 5. Till then, enough said. The Minister for Defence complains that I gave the Labour senators the credit of the double dissolution. Quite correct. That little test bill could have found shelter in the Senate during the sweet will of the senators. No standing orders to curtail speeches, and early adjournments would have worked the business to the end of the session. An amendment could have been moved that would have been acceptable to a number of Government supporters in the House of Representatives. (This course was strongly advised by some of them on many occasions.)

The intention of our party has always been to destroy the bill on the first opportunity. That course was adopted. As soon as the little stranger appeared it was given a sudden death, and the undertaker immediately sent for. Mr. Cook was given his chance. He appealed to the umpire, whose decision was "All out; double dissolution." What brought it about? The defeat of the bill. Who defeated it? The Labour majority in the Senate. Otherwise the game would still be going along merrily, and for a long time to come. The Navigation Bill was before the Senate for seven years. The Preference Bill could have received the same nursing. Then we may have had an interpretation of what "fail to pass" means, if it means anything. Or was it only put in the Constitution as a get-out from a difficult problem that faced the Constitution framers? Senator Millen wants to know why I assisted in presenting a petition to the Governor-General to prevent a double dissolution. The Minister for Defence is a little out of the firing line here. The petition was merely asking his Excellency for what his private secretary had previously stated through the public press were not secret documents, the correspondence and reasons given by his advisers for a double dissolution, a fair request to make. The double dissolution had then been granted beyond recall. I have never questioned the correctness of the decision. The Minister says that I should see that my fellows tell the same story. I am not responsible for what others may say, nor do I hold the Prime Minister responsible for the wild words of some of his henchmen, notably Mr. Palmer at Echuca the other night. Our policy always appeared in plain language, and does to-day. "Trust the people." I am, etc.,

THE HYDRO-ELECTRIC CONTRACT.

HOBART, Saturday.

Last night the Legislative Council concluded the consideration of the Assembly's resolution approving of the Government's contract to purchase the hydro-electric works. The contract was considered in committee, and the price—about £190,000—was agreed to, but provision for contract for power of 3500-horse-power was struck out, the speakers saying that the Government should be free to make a contract with the company. It was further decided to pay over £29,000 and £49,000 shareholders' money at once, the balance being retained, pending settlement of the dispute with the Westinghouse Company regarding the £12,000 claim, part of which the Hydro-Electric Company disputes. The decision of the Council has to be considered by the Assembly on Thursday, and there is likely to be a conference between the two Houses, as the Premier insists upon including the provision for power for the company in the contract.

LOCAL OPTION POINT.

REDISTRIBUTION OF ELECTORATES.

WAGGA, Saturday.

At Wagga Court, the Deputy Clerk of Peace announced that he had received Judge Rogers' decision in the Quarter Sessions appeal by Sub.-Inspector Draper, against the Licensing Court decision, granting a license to Jas. Dennis for premises at Lower Tarcutta. His Honor said he gathered from the records that, on January 1, 1906, there were 49 licenses existing in the electorate. Of these, three had ceased to exist by virtue of the determination of the Local Option Special Court. That left 46 hotels in the electorate. At the time of respondent's application, he counted in those 46, one license in Wagga, which had lapsed, but re-application for which was pending. It was clear, therefore, that an application for license could only succeed after a petition had been made under the License Act to the Governor. It was unnecessary to consider any further questions. The present appeal must, therefore, be upheld, and his Honor granted £5 5s costs against the respondent.

The effect of this decision is that the redistribution of electorates is held not to affect the determination of the Local Option Special Court. The premises were formerly situated in Wynyard electorate, where a reduction was carried, and the hotel in question was closed. Upon the redistribution of Parliamentary electorates, the premises were included in an electorate where continuance was carried, but as there is no ordinary vacancy in this electorate for a hotel, it is held that the application for license cannot succeed. The decision supports the minority judgment of Mr. Helm, P.M., who dissented from the Licensing Court decision to grant the license.

THEFT OF JEWELLERY.

The residence of Mr. Ambrose Walker, of Dowling-street, Kensington, was entered on Saturday evening between 7 and 11 o'clock, and jewellery and clothing valued at £16 stolen. Entrance was effected through an open window.

INSTITUTE OF JOURNALISTS

A NEW EDITOR.

MR. BRAHAM WELCOMED.

The Institute of Journalists had dinner at the Cafe Francis on Saturday night, the threefold object being to welcome Mr. D. D. Braham, who has succeeded Dr. Ward as editor of the "Daily Telegraph;" to bid farewell to Mrs. Harrison, of the "Sydney Morning Herald," who is going to England; and to hold the annual meeting. The president of the institute, Mr. T. W. Heney, occupied the chair.

In proposing Mr. Braham's health, the president paid a tribute to the great work of his predecessor. "He has been for so many years a leading figure in the journalism of these three eastern States, and his immense energy has been so freely spent in public controversy during all that time, that the sense of immediate loss is heavy upon us; but to me, and others of the older brigade, men growing old in newspaper work, his retirement, bent by weight of service—not of years—is a reminder that ours is a strenuous calling, that taxes every man according to his strength, and wears him out at the last, and that the hands of the young generation are even now knocking at the doors, portending that inevitable day when we, too, in our turn, shall be emeriti." The president went on to say that Mr. Braham had many claims to the hospitality they so gladly offered him. He was of their own calling, he came from the home of their people, and the hearth of all those fine traditions which they in their own place endeavoured to uphold. He came here to be an Australian among Australians, an Australian journalist among Australian journalists. "That man who, of mature age, having given hostages to fortune, having made distinct progress in his chosen profession, and holding honourable prospects in a great office, elects to close that chapter of his life, and make a hazard of new fortunes at the end of the earth, must be both a brave and self-confident man, and he must rely upon the stable institutions, the sense of justice, and the racial compatibility that would assure him a career in the new land. They respected Mr. Braham for trusting himself and trusting them in that way. They hoped his career would be long and prosperous, so that even in those first months of semi-isolation, neither wholly of the old land nor of the new, he would never regret his decision. No journalist, however loyal to his own paper and immersed in the drudgery of his own office, lives to himself. By as much as he makes or helps to make his journal great and strong, and respected and feared, by so much he enhances all journalism, braces up every other journalist, and makes for the success of every other paper." He welcomed the newest of the Australian editors, and, in the name of the institute, wished him long life and honour and entire success. (Applause.)

Mr. J. D. Fitzgerald supported the toast, and claimed to be the oldest employee of the newspaper which Mr. Braham directed. He joined in 1879 as a compositor. He recounted some interesting experiences of earlier days, and joined in welcoming Mr. Braham. He said that among journalists there was a saying, "Ink is thicker than water." He was treading on delicate ground when he told them that there was a feeling of resentment among Australian journalists when they heard that Mr. Braham had been appointed. That feeling, however, had all gone since they had met the man. Australia was making history for the rest of the world, and Mr. Braham had come to identify himself with the great problems that were being undertaken for the building up of a great country and a great race. He hoped that their guest would have a good and successful life here, and ally himself with the Bohemianism which was, after all, the outstanding characteristic of the institute. (Applause.)

Mr. Charlton, editor of the "Sydney Mail," also joined in the welcome, and said that he had the highest opinion of English journalists. They knew the reputation Mr. Braham built up on the English press, and hoped he would build another such reputation here.

In replying, Mr. Braham said competition was a good thing for newspapers, and the better one journalist was the better for journalism as a whole. But the tie among journalists should always be greater than the rivalry among newspapers. In this connection he was pleased to see present Messrs. Gilbert and J. C. Watson, whose paper, "The World," was soon to be started. In regard to what Mr. Fitzgerald had said, when he accepted the position, he quite realised that there would be some feeling of resentment. However, he was advised by some Australians, and decided to 'chance it.' He felt sure, from what he had heard, that the feeling would quickly vanish, and came prepared for it. "I have seen the 'Sun' and the 'Bulletin,'" continued Mr. Braham amid laughter. "I know that an editor is a public man, and has to stand up and be shot at. All that is taken in good part and as good sport. I knew I was coming to a country of big problems, and it was because of the interest I have taken in that country, and in those problems that I decided to come to Australia." Mr. Braham went on to thank Dr. Ward and Mr. Gullett for all they had done for him, and paid a tribute to the staff he had under him. They had received him cordially and splendidly.

Mrs. W. A. Holman proposed the health of Mrs. Harrison, who goes shortly on an extended trip to England. She said that Mrs. Harrison's departure would mean a distinct loss to Sydney. However, she had an open and receptive mind, and would gain information if it were to be gained. She was also very unselfish, and would not keep that information to herself; so that in that respect Australia would be the better for her going.

Mrs. Harrison briefly and wittily returned thanks.

The following officers were elected:—President, Mr. T. W. Heney; vice-presidents, Messrs. D. D. Braham, J. C. Watson, M. Grover, J. D. Fitzgerald; committee, Messrs. H. Gullett, M.L.C., H. M. Somer, W. F. L. Bailey, G. H. Varley; hon. treasurer, Mr. J. R. Wallace; hon. secretary, Mr. H. K. Williams.

A committee was appointed to revise the rules. The advisability of establishing a press fund was discussed, and the matter was referred to the revision of rules' committee.

ORANGEMEN AT ROCKDALE.

The 12th of July celebrations were continued yesterday afternoon in the Rockdale Town Hall. Bro. James Robinson, Grand Master of the Loyal Orange Lodge in New South Wales, presided.

The Rev. J. J. Willings, of Newtown, said that Orangemen were always being twitted for their loyalty, but that was better than being condemned for disloyalty, and as long as the Empire remained Protestant they would be loyal to the end.

The chairman (Bro. Robinson) condemned politicians who got into power by touting for "the green vote." He said that they were going to make Protestantism a power in the land. He urged his hearers to fight strongly for the cause they had espoused.

MAN ATTACKED.

A DAYLIGHT ROBBERY.

An assault and robbery was committed on a man in broad daylight at Glebe on Saturday afternoon. Joseph Wilcher, of East Helensburgh, who is visiting Sydney and staying with friends in Bridge-road, Glebe, was walking along Bridge-road in the afternoon, when he was set upon by two men. They knocked him down, and kicked him into a state of semi-consciousness. Wilcher was robbed of a silver watch and £16. The matter has been reported to the police.

A HOUSE ROBBED.

A daring thief made his appearance at the residence of Mr. Arthur Augustus Butt, 23 Cardigan-street, Camperdown, about 3 o'clock on Friday afternoon. The man was seen by Albert Edward Hannan, of 13 Bridge-road, to enter the house by forcing the kitchen window during the absence of the inmates. Hannan sent a boy to call the nearest policeman, but the boy did not return. Hannan then went to a telephone, and notified the Newtown police, who hurried to the house. By this time the man had decamped with a quantity of jewellery and clothing.

A CHINESE DISPUTE.

Early on Saturday morning a disturbance occurred on the vessel Strathardle, lying off Longnose Point, among a number of the Chinese crew. During the dispute, it is stated, one of the Chinese picked up a marlinespike and struck Si Ching, another Chinese, on the head, rendering him unconscious. The Water Police were telephoned for, and Senior-Constable Tinsley went to the vessel in the police launch. Si Ching was conveyed to the Sydney Hospital, where he was admitted. An arrest was made.

LABOUR FINANCE.

The leader of the Federal Opposition is quite right when he asserts that "government is finance, and finance is government." What Mr. Fisher wished to emphasise was the paramount importance to the community of having a Government in power that keeps an ever-watchful eye upon the public accounts. It is impossible to construct warships, to equip and train field forces, to care for the old and invalid, to make the burden of motherhood easier to bear, to construct transcontinental railways, or to settle empty territories without money. Millions are required for these things, many millions. So the first thing that any prudent Minister must do, before he can propose any great reform or any national work, is to call upon the Treasurer to inquire into the subject of ways and means. Whether a Liberal or a Labour Government be in power it must face a permanent stone-wall that limits its actions on a thousand sides, and that stone-wall is a certain inelasticity of finance. It is much the same with a Government as with an individual. The Government has a revenue provided for it, and it cannot unduly expand that revenue without bringing other evils in its train. No matter how many beneficent ways suggest themselves for spending money, it cannot with wisdom spend more than it has got. The individual has an income which he cannot readily increase, and no matter what good he could do with it, if he spends more than he receives, he is inevitably heading towards disaster. As far as these general principles go, there can be no difference between Liberal and Labour finance.

But there are some essential differences between the point of view from which Liberalism and Labour regard the public accounts, both of Commonwealth and State. The analogy between the Government in its relation to finance and the individual in regard to his monetary affairs should not be pushed too far. The Government can swell receipts; the individual cannot as a rule do so without supreme effort, and may not be able to do so at all. The Government can impose heavier taxation, and unless the country is in a totally impoverished condition can be sure of this being effective. It is just here that there is a basic difference between the attitude of the Liberal and the Labour Treasurer towards finance. A Liberal Treasurer assumes that primarily all taxation is bad, and should not be imposed except in the last resort. He thinks that every additional burden imposed upon the people makes them less able to meet an emergency should such arise. The Labour Treasurer quite ignores these principles. He says, in effect, that it would be a good thing to do this and that and the other thing, all involving the expenditure of money. Having so decided he looks to what money he has in the chest, as well as to prospective supplies in existing circumstances. Then, if there be not enough to enable him to carry out his desires he immediately searches round to see how it will be possible for him to clap on some more taxation. And as the taxes are mostly borne, directly, at least, by a class that is for the most part opposed to his party in politics, he rather likes the task. It enables him to punish those who vote against him at election time, and give rewards out of the spoils to those who are his obedient henchmen at the polls. Such is Labour finance as we conceive it.

The weakness of this scheme is that things are not always what they seem. Labour Governments impose additional taxation upon the wealthier classes in the community, a large section of whom are able to pass them on to Mr. Fisher's own supporters. Mr. Fisher imposed the land tax, and in order that no one except the wealthiest should be hit by it, he made an exemption of £5000. He imposed it upon country lands with the ostensible object of breaking up the big estates, but had to impose it upon city lands as well when there was no such object. The value of city lands is due to their capacity to produce rent. The landlord whose gross outlay has been increased by the amount of the tax, puts up rents; the shopkeeper who is thus penalised adds something on to the price of his goods; the goods are bought by Mr. Fisher's supporters among others. So Labour really pays its share of the tax which was ostensibly put upon quite other shoulders. So those who are finding the cost of living increase are grumbling.

Mr. Fisher, too, is very proud of his surplus, the two and a half millions that he had regretfully to leave for his successor at the Exchequer. Now, as we have more than once pointed out, there is only one thing which is nearly as bad as a deficit in the public accounts, and that is a surplus, and if such surplus be a large one it is very bad indeed. What does it mean? Merely that the Government of the day extracted two and a half millions more out of the pockets of the people than was actually needed at the time for the purposes of the legitimate government of the country. As with individuals, so with Governments, when they have a full pocket there is an almost irresistible temptation to spend lavishly. Before Mr. Fisher went out of office, having the money to burn, he set about burning it as quickly as he could. He ordered this and that for delivery many months ahead, and had he made out a balance-sheet showing his commitments as well as his assets, his vaunted surplus would have been a small one indeed. When Sir John Forrest went to the Treasury, vacated by Mr. Fisher, he soon saw how things stood. Perhaps he thought they were really a little worse than they were. At all events, he cast up his figures, he estimated how much he would require to settle all the unpaid bills that Mr. Fisher had left behind him, and he could see no way out of it but to expend the whole of the so-called surplus that was lying untouched in the Treasury chest. Certainly he might have been much worse off. He might easily have inherited all those commitments without also inheriting the wherewithal to liquidate them. That Mr. Fisher made this provision before he spent the money is something in his favour. Possibly he would have thought twice before so doing had he thought for one moment that Sir John Forrest and not he would, on that occasion, have gained the favour of the electors. As things turned out, the Treasurer's estimates were bettered. Not only were the commitments that matured during the last financial year not quite as heavy as he had anticipated, but the revenue came in much more freely than he had counted upon. So, instead of his closing the year on June 30 with an empty Treasury, as he had expected, he managed to retain one and a half million sterling as an accumulated surplus to lighten the strain upon the financial year recently entered upon. Liberalism stands for prudence in finance, Labour for recklessness; Liberalism for the lightest possible taxation consonant with effective government, Labour for a policy of tax the other fellow and spoils to the victors.

MORE LIGHT.

We cannot permit to pass unnoticed a suggestion which was made on Wednesday last in the British House of Commons. A Unionist member, Mr. Rowland Hunt, put a question to the First Lord of the Admiralty in such terms as to suggest that Australia was so aggrieved over the breach of the 1909 agreement by the Admiralty that, if similar breaches continued to occur, she might be driven to seek the protection of the United States. In view of other similar statements which have been made from time to time in England, it is as well that it should be stated definitely and emphatically that nothing whatever that has happened in connection with the agreement of 1909, or the building of the Australian Navy, gives the remotest justification for any such suggestion. Australia has not the faintest idea of leaving the mother country and flinging herself on the charity of the United States. Even if she did, the United States has never appeared in the remotest degree likely to encourage any such embarrassing overtures. Moreover, there is no evidence that her protection would be even comparably as valuable as that of the British Navy. There are three or four navies in the world to-day, any one of which would give the United States Navy all the trouble that it could wish for without any needless embarrassment in the south-eastern corner of the Pacific to hamper it. In the case of trouble with Germany, the navy of the United States would be no guarantee whatever of the safety of this continent. If the United States undertook the defence of Australia she would have to maintain a fleet far more powerful than she has ever yet possessed. She has never given the least reason for suspecting that she would dream of undertaking any such responsibilities out of pure benevolence towards Australia or Great Britain.

If Australians have been represented in the old country as indignant with Great Britain because she found it necessary to depart from the terms of the 1909 agreement, then they have been greatly misrepresented. Whilst it is difficult to understand how Mr. Churchill can seriously argue that the 1909 agreement has not been broken, for it clearly has been broken both in the letter and in the intention, Australians do not blame the mother country for breaking it. The latest amendment of the German navy law was not foreseen at the time when the 1909 agreement was drawn up; and if the Admiralty found it necessary to keep its battle-cruisers close enough to the North Sea to render Britain safe against this enormous foreign concentration, Australians would not think of denying the Admiralty's right to do so. We have not the least intention of demanding that the taxpayers of the old country should send their battle-cruisers out here if safety requires them to be kept elsewhere. Any such demand would put this country in an utterly false position. The Admiralty has carried out its part of the agreement to this extent, that it has given and is giving Australia the most ample and loyal help in the building up of the Australian fleet; and we recognise that under the circumstances this is all that the Admiralty can be expected to do. The one complaint which we have made, and rightly made, against the Admiralty is not that it broke the 1909 agreement, but that it was not at the time, or until long afterwards, considered worth while to consult the Australian Government, or even to inform it respecting the departure from the agreement. In the light of that agreement Australia was spending many millions of pounds. The light was taken away; we have been working in the dark. Since that time the only request that Australia has made and made consistently is for more light.

STRIKE ECHOES.

The possibility of a very interesting controversy is suggested by the publication of Mr. Kavanagh's half-yearly report to the Trades and Labour Council, and by the discussion which has followed it. Mr. Kavanagh, being an experienced legislator, has looked before and after when compiling his report—backward to the butchers' strike, and forward to the new Arbitration Bill soon to be presented to Parliament. The bill will in many respects embody the suggestions made by Mr. Piddington after his prolonged inquiries as a Royal Commissioner. It will certainly increase the number of Judges, it will in all probability increase the jurisdiction of the industrial tribunal, and it may provide that the initiation of a prosecution shall follow automatically on the commission of an offence. If Mr. Kavanagh and his friends have their way, it may attempt to settle another question which Mr. Piddington very wisely preferred to leave to the Courts. Mr. Holman will be urged by a number of his nearest supporters to give the control of disputes before the new Court to the so-called craft unions. Of the other two types of union, the enterprise union and the industrial union, the former will have nothing to say, since there is no one to speak for it in the caucus. But the industrial unions will protest with a degree of vigour which will place even so skilful a tactician as Mr. Holman in a position of some difficulty. On the one hand he will have his allies of the Political Labour League, led by Mr. Meagher, and advised by Mr. Kavanagh; on the other he will have such powerful unionists as the railwaymen, who view with some alarm the proposal to segregate the crafts into which they are divided ostensibly for the sake of fair play and guild feeling, but really for the sake of subordinating industrial to political considerations. It is, no doubt, the imminence of this political discussion that has given an air of sorrowful resignation to Mr. Kavanagh's references to the failure of the meat strike. He points out that the Australasian Meat Industry Employees' Union is an industrial union, that it was the first industrial union to strike, and that although there were no blacklegs the strike was a failure. The statement that there were no blacklegs has evoked a discussion between Mr. Connington and Mr. M'Namara, which involves a knowledge of historical detail possessed by few laymen. But the statement that the strike was a failure is accepted without demur, and not the least interesting feature of the controversy is the criterion by which Mr. Kavanagh judges the blackness of the union's defeat. No union, he says, has ever given up the right to strike when acting under the advice of the Labour Council. This industrial union, on the other hand, has sunk so low as to pledge itself not again to strike without first applying to the Court in accordance with the law.

Without passing judgment on a domestic quarrel, we may point out that the essential causes of the failure of the strike were neither the character of the employees' union nor the existence or non-existence of blacklegs. The proximate cause was the decision of the employers to be loyal to each other, and to make some present sacrifice for an ultimate and permanent gain. Of the factors which inspired them to carry through a policy so unusual in this State there were three more important than the rest. The first was the disinterested sympathy of the public, who could find no grievance to be redressed. The second was the conviction instilled by experience that there was no way to put an end to the men's demands except through the respect inspired by defeat. One employer after another had made agreements with his men, only to find them broken as soon as an opportunity offered. The whole body of employers had at last found that agreements of this sort are not considered as subject to the rules which ordinarily bind honourable men, and that it was time for them to take a lesson from the loyalty and discipline which the union leaders have practised with so much success. The third and the most powerful factor was the conviction that the time had come for the consumer to be considered. The vicious circle has few terrors for the employer who can pass on extra cost, or for the employee who gets higher wages. Its terrors are felt only by the consumer until his purchasing power is diminished, and he begins to find a substitute for what was thought to be a necessity. That point had been reached in the meat industry among a body of citizens for whom the cost of living had gone up twenty per cent. within the last two years. Mr. Kavanagh will find that their sympathies will tend more against unions who try to control a commodity in general use and refuse to submit their claims to an impartial tribunal.

M. GUILLAUX'S EXPLOIT.

A few years ago if anyone had ventured to prophecy that in 1914 mails would be carried from Melbourne to Sydney by aeroplane he would have been regarded as the most visionary of dreamers. Yet the impracticable has been accomplished. On Saturday afternoon M. Guillaux swooped down out of the wind and rain upon Moore Park, his flight from Melbourne at an end, and his achievement a landmark in the history of Australian aviation. It was a noteworthy performance in every way. We must remember that M. Guillaux was unfamiliar with the region he had to traverse. For the most part his only guide was the railway line. He had to pass over many miles of inhospitable and broken country, where, if for any reason he had been compelled to descend, his situation would have been extremely awkward. He had to cross mountain ranges where the navigation of the air is liable to be beset with unforseen and unavoidable perils. And finally the latter stages of his journey were performed amidst boisterous atmospheric conditions. M. Guillaux bears his laurels modestly, but although he may belittle his exploit, everyone knows that it was a remarkable one. He was not out to break records, indeed, there was none to break, but his actual flying time was only six hours for a journey of almost six hundred miles. He came to earth on several occasions for rest and relaxation, and for the entertainment of the townships en route, and on Friday he was weather-bound. But these halts, save the last, were dictated by convenience rather than necessity, and M. Guillaux has shown us that given reasonably favourable conditions an aviator could fly from Melbourne to Sydney, descending here and there to renew his petrol, in half the time that the train takes to cover the distance.

Thus M. Guillaux's flight is not merely a sensational achievement without much practical value. It teaches us a useful lesson, for it brings home to us all as nothing else could have done the practical possibilities of the aeroplane. In Australia we have been somewhat slow to recognise these. We are apt still to regard aeroplanes as ingenious toys, which have not yet passed the experimental stage. We read of their successful employment in military operations for reconnaissance and other purposes, of "aerial Derbys" and reliability tests, where it has been proved that man is surely and steadily realising his immemorial ambition of conquering the air. But these accounts, and even the exhibitions we have recently witnessed, have left us, perhaps, not wholly convinced. M. Guillaux's feat has dispelled any lurking doubts that may have remained with regard to the practical possibilities of aviation on a serious scale in Australia. For one thing, we have been told that the uncertainty of our climate, with its prevailing winds, was unfavourable to any prolonged flights. M. Guillaux has shown that to an experienced pilot a journey of six hundred miles over the most varied types of country, and in weather which for half the flight at least was very far from ideal, presents no insuperable difficulties, and the difficulties are likely to grow less every year as mechanical appliances are perfected. The great handicap to aerial navigation used to be lack of stability, which placed the aeroplane at the mercy of puffs of wind, and air pockets, and cross currents. Thanks to the stabilisater, this state of affairs has been to a great extent remedied. Pilots nowadays mount their aeroplanes with as much equanimity as they would mount a bicycle in conditions which a year or so ago would have spelled disaster. No doubt, much remains to be done before the navigation of the air is made entirely safe, but when one considers the extraordinary progress in this direction that the recent past has shown, one is inspired with fresh confidence for the future.

Picture Films in the Islands.—The natives of the South Sea Islands are very susceptible to the influence of moving pictures, and the dramas illustrative of life in the "Wild West" of America are said to be unsettling them. The captain of the German schooner Samoa told a New Zealand interviewer last week that the native mind was as impressionable as a child's, and that the numerous melodramatic films that were being exhibited in Samoa and in other groups were, in his opinion, responsible for breeding a rather dangerous temper among the less civilised inhabitants. The average Samoan, for instance, though a peace-loving man, was easily incited to riotous behaviour, and the more sensational variety of the cinematograph drama seemed to act as the necessary stimulus. Some time ago three native ex-policemen, who had evidently taken the bloodthirsty films too seriously, had, he said, stolen a brace of revolvers from the gaol arsenal and started off on a bushranging expedition of their own. They went to a plantation in a lonely part of the island, and held up the manager and his assistant. When the latter resisted the ex-policemen shot them dead, and then made for the bush, where two of the outlaws were shot down. The third was captured, and subsequently executed.

More Immigrants.—The steamer Demosthenes, which is to arrive to-day from London, is bringing 13 domestic, 38 Dreadnought Farm lads, and 29 agriculturists. The last are all skilled farm workers.

THE TORCH-BEARERS.

MARCH OF SCIENCE.

MODERN DISCOVERIES AND INVENTIONS.

Some of the advance party are already here; some reach Fremantle to-day; from all parts of the British Empire our greatest scientists—some of them the greatest authorities in the world on their own specific subjects—are hurrying to Australia, to take part in the British Association Congress, which begins in Adelaide on August 8. From Adelaide they go on to Melbourne, from Melbourne, to Sydney, from Sydney to Brisbane. The scientific thought of the world has never been represented in Australia in this way before.

"Science moves, but slowly, slowly, creeping on from point to point," wrote Tennyson; but since the poet penned that line science has changed her pace—she has moved exceeding fast. In the last quarter of a century she has shown us wonders undreamt of by our fathers—staggering marvels. And not in one department of life alone is this so, but in all departments. Especially is it so in the world of invention. Who, living in Australia in 1890—not to go any further back—would have believed that a quarter of a century later an aerial mail service would be established between Melbourne and Sydney, and that arrangements would be in progress for a transcontinental air service to carry our mails to Darwin? Who, living at that time, imagined that there would, in less than 25 years, be a chain of wireless telegraphy stations around this island-continent? Which of us 10 years ago, even five, expected such a marvel of shipbuilding as the gigantic Vaterland, now launched upon the sea? In these days of many inventions we are surprised at nothing. And when we think how electricity has been harnessed to our use, of the discovery of radium, of a thousand other marvels, the difficulty is to survey a position that is changing with such bewildering rapidity that we scarcely know where we stand?

THE EARTH WE LIVE ON.

What of the earth itself on which we live? The great so-called planetesimal hypothesis of Professor Chamberlain, of Chicago University, has, perhaps, more profoundly modified our modern geological views than any other theory—that the earth is formed of vast swarms of meteorites similar in chemical composition to those which at the present day, from time to time, reach the earth's surface, whether in the form of fine dust or in masses up to 20 tons in weight. This infall of meteorites, he explains, is now adding annually many thousands of tons to the bulk of the earth; and he shows that the earth's surface may never have been in a molten state, as assumed by the older hypothesis of Laplace. The why and the wherefore of it all there is not space to set down here; but that our ideas as to the nature of the earth, and the manner in which the seas and even the atmosphere have been produced are undergoing a profound change as a result of modern scientific research there can be no doubt.

A very interesting discovery relating to the movements of the atmosphere and rainfall in the Southern Hemisphere is that made by Mossman, formerly of Dr. Bruce's Antarctic expedition of 1902, and now Director of the Meteorological Bureau of the Argentine Republic. He has shown that there is direct relation between the volume of ice in the Weddell Sea, on that side of the Antarctic nearest to South America, and the rainfall in the sub-tropical Chili and Argentina. In seasons of much ice in Antarctica, there is also an excess there of atmospheric pressure, with a corresponding diminution in the southern tropics of South America. These conditions favour, later, an outrush of the cold air from the Antarctic towards the tropics, and these in turn, acting as condensers, bring about a heavy rainfall in the River Parana and its tributaries. Much ice in Antarctica means, a little later, much water in the Parana. It is hoped that the Macquarie Island wireless meteorological station established by Sir Douglas Mawson may help Australian meteorologists to correlate high atmospheric pressures with much ice in Antarctica and sub-Antarctica, with subsequent good rainfalls over Southern Australasia.

An interesting recent discovery in the way of arriving at an absolute geological date has been made by Professor De Geer, of Sweden, who is able to establish within a comparatively few years the time that lapsed from the commencement of the recession of the last great ice sheet of the Ice Age from the western shores of the Baltic until it disappeared even on the mountains of Norway. He has shown that it took the ice sheet almost exactly 5000 years to retreat within the limits mentioned. From various sources it has been established that, approximately, 7000 years have passed away since the waning of this latest Scandinavian ice-sheet. There is conclusive evidence that some of the earliest men in Europe lived at a period antecedent to the formation of this ice-sheet, and it is computed that they were living there some 17,000 years ago.

MANUFACTURE OF GEMS.

We have seen many wonders performed through the agency of the electric furnace during the last 25 years. It has increased the power of men to produce new compounds of scientific and economic interest. Moissan, in Paris, has shown how artificial gems, such as the sapphire and the ruby, can be manufactured in the electric furnace. Such large numbers of these have now been put upon the market that those who sell them are required by law in France to state whether they have been produced artificially or not. Diamonds can also be manufactured, but the expense of making them at present is too great for commercial success. The electric furnace has enormously facilitated and cheapened the manufacture of the metal aluminium, which can now be readily produced from the treatment of such a common material as [illegible] earthy substance, of which there are considerable deposits in the New England district of this State. Then there is the manufacture of what is called lime nitrogen, by means of which the lime in the heat of the electric furnace is united to some of the atmospheric nitrogen. This artificial lime nitrogen is proving to be a valuable fertiliser, and will go far to take the place of the great guano deposits of the world, which are now rapidly becoming exhausted.

POINCARE AND THOMSON.

Among the great names that stand out in modern scientific accomplishment is that of Jules Henri Poincare, who died in 1912. He was only 58 when he died, but there are no fewer than 400 publications in his name dealing with great scientific subjects that he studied—and he never wasted words, or wrote on trifles. To the man in the street Poincare's theorem that "the co-ordinates of any point on an algebraic curve can be expressed as one-valued Fuchsian functions of a parameter" may mean nothing; to the scientist it means much. This great son of France not only opened new fields, but pointed the way to discovery by those who follow him. Mathematics, physics, astronomy, philosophy, and other domains of intellectual activity have all been extended and illuminated by his genius. His contributions to celestial mechanics not only brought new life to a subject which showed signs of becoming stale, but opened up a fresh line of investigation, which must ultimately lead to the final goal—the demonstration of the stability or instability of the solar system—a problem which has so far baffled the ingenuity of mathematicians.

One thinks also of the new and striking trend assumed by the science of physics in recent years, as a result of the genius brought to bear by Sir J. J. Thomson, O.M., F.R.S., the celebrated physicist of the University of Cambridge. One circumstance in that movement is particularly striking—the unforeseen opening out of new and vast horizons to the physicist precisely at the moment when the electro-magnetic theory of light had been victoriously acclaimed—a theory which not only gathered into one marvellously harmonious synthesis all the phenomena of the physical world, but at the same time satisfied that natural scientific instinct which seeks for the greatest simplicity in its explanation of natural phenomena, by attributing to a single medium, the ether, the double office of transmitting electrical and magnetic forces as well as the waves of light.

THE BIOLOGICAL FIELD.

If we consider biological science, we shall find that it has been completely transformed during the last quarter of a century. The great unifying factor which has revolutionised it has been Darwin's idea of evolution. This has served to link all together, and has completely changed the outlook of workers in the different fields. There were years of struggle over it, but the main principle of evolution has been as definitely admitted for the past 25 years as that of Newton's theory of the law of gravitation.

Of the advances made in the study of heredity, experimental and comparative psychology, and many other sciences, [illegible] Sir Oliver Lodge [illegible] concerning psychic phenomena, [illegible] space to speak; but if the results [illegible] things have been tremendous advances in [illegible] things, and the approaching [illegible] make us acquainted with the [illegible]

Men, my brothers, men the workers, ever reaping something new;
That which they have done but earnest of the things that they shall do.

HOME RULE.

CABINET'S DECISION.

A TENTATIVE PROPOSAL.

COUNTY OPTION.

LONDON, July 18.

Two Cabinet meetings were held yesterday, making the fourth this week. The chief matter discussed was the Irish question.

After the second Cabinet meeting the views of the Government on the question of Ulster's exclusion were submitted to the Unionists occupying the front benches in the form of counter proposals.

The reply of the Unionist leaders showed that an agreement had not been reached, and that the situation was unchanged.

The Cabinet has decided tentatively to move towards the abandonment of the time limit for the exclusion of the Province of Ulster, and has resolved to allow the counties of Antrim, Down, Londonderry, and Armagh to vote as a whole for or against exclusion.

The Cabinet is prepared to consider grouping in this area certain Protestant portions of Tyrone and Fermanagh, but the Nationalists are insistent upon the retention of the whole of Tyrone.

ABANDONMENT OF TIME LIMIT.

The "Daily News" confirms the offer of the Government to abandon the time limit if the Unionists will abandon their demand for a clean cut between Protestant Ulster and the rest of Ireland. A deadlock has been reached over County Tyrone.

The "Morning Post" states that a minority of the Cabinet, consisting of Mr. Winston Churchill, Sir Edward Grey, Mr. L. Harcourt, the Marquis of Crewe, and one or two influential members, favour a clean cut as regards six counties. The majority, including Mr. Asquith (Premier) and Mr. Lloyd George (Chancellor of the Exchequer), refuse to consider concessions to which Mr. Redmond (the Nationalist leader) does not agree.

Mr. Redmond refuses to consider any terms that do not include each county having the option of coming under Home Rule.

The Unionist leaders are as determined as ever insisting on a clean cut.

Sir Henry Lucy, in the "Observer," says the Government decline to agree to a clean cut, and will seek to restore the Amending Home Rule Bill to something like its original shape. He predicts the possibility of a conference between both Houses over the amendments.

NATIONALIST VOLUNTEERS.

TRAINED BY U.S.A. OFFICERS.

The "Daily Mail" states that some United States Army officers are training the Nationalist volunteers, in co-operation with several ex-British Army officers.

In reply to the offer of Irish-Americans to send 1500 well-drilled and equipped ex-soldiers to Dublin, the Nationalist Committee has stated that these are not wanted at the present stage, and has suggested that each should contribute a dollar to the arms fund.

Other accounts state that the Nationalist volunteers are organising on a war basis, with Colonel Moore as commander-in-chief of a systematic staff engaged in the work of organisation.

HELP FROM UNITED STATES.

The Irish League in the United States has sent a cable to Mr. John Redmond, M.P., stating that £20,000 had been subscribed towards the Nationalist cause.

FEELING IN LOBBIES.

There was an optimistic feeling in the lobbies yesterday owing to important conferences having been held regarding the Amending Bill.

AUDIENCE WITH THE KING.

The Premier had an audience with the King yesterday evening lasting half an hour.

Many despatches were exchanged between the Palace and Downing-street to-day.

The King delayed his departure for Portsmouth till late in the afternoon, when Mr. Asquith accompanied him.

INDUSTRIAL ASPECT.

A SOLEMN WARNING.

Referring to the imminent menace of industrial trouble arising from problems connected with the reorganisation of Conciliation Boards, and the unparalleled combination of 2,250,000 transport workers and miners, Mr. Lloyd George, at a dinner at the Mansion House, uttered a solemn warning that the prospect of an equitable settlement of these disputes was darkened by the situation in Ireland. He remarked that in the event of civil strife in Ireland when industrial trouble in Britain was maturing the situation would be the gravest with which any Government had had to deal for centuries.

"That," he added, "is why responsible men of all parties should strive, and are striving, for a reasonable accommodation, and why all having the country's well-being at heart hope such efforts will be crowned with success."

HOME RULE ASSURED.

MR. RUNCIMAN'S VIEW.

July 19.

Mr. W. Runciman (President of the Board of Agriculture), speaking at Batley last night, declared that Home Rule was assured, it being impossible for either a Liberal or Conservative Government to withhold it. The Government, he added, would not surrender under any pressure. Some of those who participated in the debate in the House of Lords spoke as though they were still cocks of the midden, whereas they ought to have realised that their supremacy was over.

DR. KELLY'S VIEW.

"I expect you would like me to say something about Home Rule," said Archbishop Kelly, speaking at Hurstville yesterday. "I might not be much of a prophet, but I never believed in the trouble now existing coming to anything. It is mere braggadocio. It is like a little child making a small fire. It springs up and is soon out. It might do a little damage, but that is all."

STUBBORN HINDUS.

RESIST DEPORTATION.

POLICE BEATEN OFF.

VANCOUVER, July 19.

The Immigration Department ordered Captain Yamamoto, of the Japanese steamer Komagata Maru, which has on board a shipload of Hindus who were refused admission to Canada, to leave the harbour with his passengers.

An order of deportation was duly made out, but when the captain tried to raise steam the Hindus attacked him with clubs, and obliged him to leave the vessel.

The owners' agents then warned the Hindus that they would bring police aboard, conduct the would-be immigrants outside the three-mile limit, and leave them to starve or find their way home as they thought fit.

The Hindus defied the authorities, stating that they refuse to leave until their passages back to India are paid, and a full supply of provisions granted them.

Later yesterday 200 police and immigration officials endeavoured to tow the Komagata Maru seaward, but were beaten off by the Hindus.

Several of the police were wounded, and a number of Hindus shot, but it is unknown if the latters' injuries were fatal.

STRIKERS ATTACK MINE.

A PITCHED BATTLE.

IMMENSE DAMAGE DONE.

FORT SMITH (Arkansas), July 17.

Several hundred miners, who are on strike, attacked the mine guards at the Prairie Creek mines, and a pitched battle followed, during which the workings in three mines were destroyed by fire and dynamite.

Several men on both sides were injured as the result of rifle fusillades.

The rioters held the mines for several hours, doing immense damage.

Additional guards have been despatched to the scene of hostilities.

INVENTOR ELOPES.

WITH ADMIRAL'S DAUGHTER.

ROME, July 18.

Signor Ulivi, inventor of the ultra-violet (F) rays, by means of which he claimed to explode bombs from a distance, was to have been betrothed to the daughter of Admiral Fornari, who promised his consent provided Ulivi proved the value of his invention.

Ulivi, however, evaded real tests, and has suddenly disappeared with Signora Fornari.

Experiments conducted by Ulivi in May were at the time described as being successful, the inventor exploding metal-cased bombs submerged in the River Arno, at a distance of 10 miles.

AUSTRALIAN CHEESE.

SOLD AS SCOTTISH PRODUCT.

LONDON, July 17.

Mathew Eming, of the English Dairies, Ltd., Crewkerne, Somerset, was fined £10 with 10 guineas costs at the Tower Bridge Police Court for describing Australian cheddar cheese as made by the Scottish Dairies, Limited.

The defendant was fined a similar sum for selling the falsely described cheese.

COTTON IN THE SOUDAN.

LONDON, July 17.

A bill was read the third time in the House of Commons to-day, embodying a resolution passed by the House in April, 1913, to guarantee from the Imperial Exchequer 3½ per cent. interest on a loan of £3,000,000, to be raised by the Government of the Soudan for ensuring the prosperity of that territory and the development therein of the industry of cotton-growing.

GENERAL CABLE NEWS.

LONDON, July 18.

The petition in divorce brought by John Hissey, barrister, in which Albert Whelan, an Australian music-hall artist, was joined as co-respondent, has been dismissed.

The Wesleyan Foreign Mission Centenary Fund has been completed, the amount subscribed being £282,490.

Nineteen London plumbers have accepted the terms offered by the master builders with a view to settling the existing dispute.

CAPETOWN, July 18.

It is probable that part of the 'tween decks cargo of the steamer Ayrshire, which vessel caught fire on the way to South Africa, can be reshipped. Fire and water have seriously damaged No. 2 hold. Portion of the cases and bales were burnt, and the contents were adrift. The surveyors report that the discharged cargo is totally unfit for reshipment. There was 12 feet of water in No. 2 hold.

TROUBLED MEXICO.

CARRANZA'S INTENTIONS.

PRISONERS RELEASED.

MEXICO CITY, July 17.

The new President, Senor Carbajal, has ordered the release of all political prisoners.

General Carranza, leader of the Constitutionalists, announces that he does not wish to secure the Presidency, and is quite willing, after peace has been restored, to return to his own estate and continue as a private citizen.

General Carranza, however, intends to exercise military authority until a President has been regularly elected.

HUERTA'S FUTURE.

PUERTO MEXICO, July 18.

Ex-President Huerta has arrived at Puerto Mexico. The British Consul offered the use of a British warship to enable him to escape, but General Huerta stated that he had not yet made his plans.

FEDERALS CONCENTRATING.

WASHINGTON, July 18.

Although no formal agreement has been entered into, the armistice is practically effective throughout Mexico.

The Federals (Ex-President Huerta's supporters) are evacuating all points where fighting is likely to be met with, and are concentrating southward, to maintain order immediately around the capital.

The Zapatistas are now near enough to the capital to occupy it if they think fit.

THE SUFFRAGISTS.

MOB STORMS MEETING.

BUILDING BESIEGED.

LONDON, July 17.

A mob armed with sticks and stones stormed a meeting of suffragists which was held in the Holland Park Rink. The crowd smashed the windows, but the men friends of the suffragists inside the building barricaded the doors, and used dozens of poles, in bayonet fashion, against the mob.

The siege was sustained until the police relieved the defenders.

Annie Hunt, the woman who damaged Sir John Millais' portrait of Carlyle, in the National Portrait Gallery, had a butcher's cleaver concealed in her dress. She viciously slashed the picture several times, damaging the face seriously.

An attendant who arrested her had great difficulty in preventing her doing further damage.

Hunt was brought before the police court and committed for trial.

DEATHS FROM HEAT.

NEW YORK, July 18.

Six people have died at Philadelphia, and scores are prostrated as the result of the prevailing heat wave, the excessive humidity intensifying the general suffering.

Two deaths have occurred in New York and several at Boston.

BRITAIN'S TRADE.

LONDON, July 18.

GRUESOME FIND.

AN OLD MAN'S DEATH.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

A shocking discovery was made by the police at Fitzroy this morning.

In one apartment of a two-storied tenement the body of an old man, Timothy Monahan, was found lying on a stretcher covered with rags. Nearly the whole of the skin and flesh on the man's head had been eaten away, and swarms of rats were running about the comfortless room.

The man was alive at 11 o'clock last night, and did not then appear to be in any worse condition than usual. At 8 o'clock this morning a friend entered his room with a cup of tea for the old man and found him dead.

MISSING SCHOONER TILIKUM.

POSSIBLY BLOWN TO SEA.

TOWNSVILLE, Saturday.

The three-masted schooner Tilikum II., recently sold by Capt. Voss to two Townsville men, disappeared from her moorings in the inner harbour during Wednesday night. In the early hours of Thursday morning the launch Townsville, returning from Alligator Creek, saw the Tilikum being pulled down Ross Creek. The schooner has not been seen since.

The Tilikum was the vessel in which Captain Voss intended making a long sea voyage, but abandoned the intention, selling the vessel and leaving for Brisbane last Saturday.

WIDOWED MOTHERS.

"A SHOCKING COMMENTARY."

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

In a report which will be submitted to Ballarat City Council to-morrow night, the Mayor (Councillor Brokenshire) makes the following comments:—"As your representative I attended the meeting of the trustees of the Victorian Mining Accident Relief Fund on July 17. A distressing feature of the evidence before the committee was the apparent want of recognition of common filial duty towards widowed mothers. Case after case was reported in which the applicant was in very necessitous circumstances, yet, although there were a large number of sons and daughters of mature age who should have been in positions to subscribe in some degree towards the support of their mothers, in no single case was there any account of the sons or daughters contributing. This is surely a shocking commentary upon the principles of the persons concerned, and indicates that some legislation is required to compel dutifulness in support of aged parents where filial regard and common humanity fail to do so."

BATHURST HOSPITAL.

RESULT OF INQUIRY.

BATHURST, Sunday.

Recently certain assertions relating to the management of Bathurst District Hospital were made, and Dr. Milliard was appointed by the Minister for Health to make a full inquiry. The result of the inquiry is a declaration that the charges are unfounded, and no blame is attached to the hospital staff in connection with the death of a certain alien.

Dr. Milliard recommends that the matron should have full control of the hospital, and keep the books relating to affairs under her jurisdiction. Improvements in the nurses' quarters and the erection of a fever ward are also recommended.

GREAT FLIGHT.

CAPITAL TO CAPITAL.

9 HOURS 15 MIN.

M. GUILLAUX CARRIES THE MAIL.

There was a shadow high up among the storm-clouds of the southern sky—a blur in the mists like the passing of some phantom bird. It hovered for a moment over Moore Park, unobserved by the great crowds hurrying to see the Saturday afternoon football games at the Sports Ground, and then it was lost to view in the breaking storm. The time was 2.40.

But the coming of the thing had been seen by an anxious group of watchers by the lake.

"C'est Guillaux!" they cried, "Il est arrive! Vive Guillaux! Vive la France!"

It was indeed Guillaux, at the end of his epoch-making flight from Melbourne with the mail. Instantly a match was thrown into a bonfire, and a dense volume of smoke arose, to guide the airman to his landing-place. From all directions the crowd—football for the moment forgotten—came splashing across the green, despite the efforts of the police to keep them back. The storm passed, and there was Guillaux, a thousand feet above the cheering masses in the Sports Ground. Nearer he came to earth; twice circled around Moore Park, and then, with the people scattering for their lives, made a graceful dive and stopped a few yards from the marking bonfire.

He had covered the 582 miles between the capitals in a little over 9 hours, flying at an average speed of about 64 miles per hour. He had made only seven intermediate stops, half of which, according to the airman, were not necessary.

M. Guillaux was besieged. The lifting of the mailbag was the signal for another outburst of cheering, and a moment later the Governor-General, Sir Ronald Munro Ferguson, at the heels of a stalwart aide-de-camp, forced his way through the crowd to shake the airman by the hand.

Shoulder high, M. Guillaux was carried into the Sports Ground, where he was introduced to the State Governor (Sir Gerald Strickland), and as the band played the "Marseillaise" he delivered the special despatch from the Governor of Victoria.

At the invitation of Mr. E. Wagstaff, of the British Imperial Oil Company, the party retired to the basement of the grandstand, where the Governor-General, over a glass of champagne, wished the airman good health after his gallant flight.

FIGHTING THE STORMS.

M. GUILLAUX'S NARRATIVE.

"When I left Melbourne at 9.15 on Thursday morning the weather was beautiful," M. Guillaux said to a "Herald" reporter, as he divested himself of his dripping wet tricoloured scarf (which had already been claimed by a lady en route), his white woollen helmet, and thick leather jacket. "But soon," he continued, "I encountered tempest after tempest, and before I arrived in Sydney I had experienced the roughest journey of my career. Any dangers? Once, beyond Harden, I was tossed about until I was air-sick, and on another occasion I was forced to descend to rest my aching wrists from the tugging of the controls. I was beset with perils, but at times the winds were in my favour, and then I raced northward at speeds well over one hundred miles per hour.

"At my departure from Melbourne I rose to 1000ft, and set my course across the mountains. I was soon lost in fog. The mountains were high, and I flew higher and higher. My compass directed me. But there was no calm in those high altitudes, as I had expected. I feared, also, I would not find my first stop. After flying for half an hour I knew I must be near Seymour. Then I saw a blue rift beneath me in the clouds, through which I dived to earth. I alighted alongside the railway station. The first 61 miles had been covered in 45 minutes.

"It was a long stage of 84 miles to Wangaratta. I followed the railway all the way, and saw every station. There were 6000 people awaiting my arrival at Wangaratta, where I stayed for 40 minutes while my mechanic overhauled my Bleriot. The stage had occupied 1h 25m.

CROSSING THE BORDER.

"I did not wish to hurry. It was a long journey, and there were no records to be broken. I rose high from Wangaratta—15,000ft—and the cold was intense. Just as I was approaching Albury the machine rocked and fell into innumerable air pockets. I alighted 35 minutes after leaving Wangaratta. It was not necessary for me to stop, but I had promised to lunch with friends, and I rested for nearly an hour and a half. Then I flew to Wagga in 70 minutes, and arrived at 3.30 o'clock, two hours ahead of schedule time. This was why there was no one to meet me. I saw two racecourses and a showground, then I saw a knot of people on a cricket enclosure, and I came to earth. But there were no familiar faces, nor was there any petrol. Somebody started my engine, and I flew to a racecourse. Then M. Repusseux, my manager, arrived in a hurry in a cab.

"So I lost an hour. When I left Wagga the wind was strong and right astern, and I covered the 84 miles to Harden in 60 minutes, which was, I think, my record speed from place to place for the journey. Three miles beyond Harden I encountered a strong contrary wind, and, fearing that I would not reach Goulburn before dark, I returned to Harden for the night.

"On Friday morning it was raining heavily, yet the people came in crowds to see me start, and I gave them a short exhibition flight.

"My manager telegraphed from Goulburn that I would be foolish to start, as there were no signs of the storm abating. However, at 2 o'clock, I set out in the pelting rain. After flying an hour I had only covered 20 miles, and was above Galong. I was being tossed like a cork by the storm, and was violently sick. It was impossible to make any headway, so I turned the machine with the wind, and in a few moments was back at Harden. The people could not understand my return, as there was a dead calm on the course, but high above the clouds were scudding before the wind.

A PERILOUS JOURNEY.

"I left Harden at 7.15 o'clock on Saturday morning, and again I faced the head winds and those Mountains. Never have I experienced such a journey. A hundred times I was nearly capsized. The railroad was so tortuous that it was impracticable to follow it and keep the Bleriot steady against the wind, and I steered across country by compass. I passed over two big lakes (Lakes George and Bathurst), but throughout the whole distance of 94 miles to Goulburn there was not an inch of clear ground, and had the engine failed my flight would have been at an end. As it was the journey occupied two hours.

"M. Maistre was waiting for me at Goulburn. A big fire had been lit on the racecourse—which I saw from a great distance—and I was glad to warm my frozen limbs. I gave a short exhibition flight, but just as I was leaving the ground a spark plug blew out, and I returned to have it replaced. I finally left Goulburn at 11.5.

"Someone told me that I was done with mountains and gullies, but approaching Yass I found them piled up higher than ever it seemed, and I was forced to ascend to an altitude of 10,000 feet. It was impossible for me to land at Moss Vale. The people had lit a fire on the golf links, but there was not enough room. The ground appeared to be fringed with trees and a river, and I had to disappoint them by passing overhead at 100 miles per hour. Soon again I was in the clouds, steering by compass. I rarely saw the railway, but the mountain peaks were always in view. I had been forewarned not to arrive in Sydney before 3 o'clock, and I decided to descend. My map did not carry me any nearer to Sydney than 50 miles; but I saw a township in my path and alighted on some open ground. I found the place was Liverpool, and was very warmly received by Mr. and Mrs. A. Cloke; with them I had lunch. I had covered the 113 miles from Goulburn in 90 minutes, reaching Liverpool at 12.35 o'clock. After telephoning to my private secretary (Mr. Fitch) in Sydney I started on the last 22 miles of my journey at five minutes past 2. The wind was squally, and I was carried at a tremendous pace. I was soon over the Sydney suburbs, but I had a lot of time to waste before making my official landing, and this I employed cruising around above the city."

RIOT AT STADIUM.

INFURIATED MOB.

ATTEMPTS TO BURN THE BUILDING.

A disgraceful episode marked the conclusion of the Holland-Darcy boxing contest at the Rushcutter Bay Stadium on Saturday night. Several attempts were made to set the building on fire, stones and bottles were thrown at the attendants when they were attempting to put out the flames, and an angry mob tried to rush the building from the street. It was only through the splendid work of the police and the Stadium officials that the riot ended without serious damage.

The building was packed; indeed, the management gave it out that the crowd constituted a record one. A very large contingent came down from Maitland and Newcastle, all confident that their boxer, Darcy, would win. From the outset, every time the Maitland lad managed to score he was lustily cheered, and Holland was hooted without reason. At the conclusion of the contest the referee, Mr. Harald Baker, gave the decision to the American.

This infuriated the large, rowdy element in the crowd. They did not care that the decision was the right one; all they recognised was that their idol had not got the verdict. They yelled and hooted; they stamped on the seats, and banged the iron walls of the building.

The trouble all came from the crowd in the cheaper seats. Gradually, those in the centre of the Stadium left the building, but a large number of "back benchers" remained.

The lights were lowered with a view to making the men depart; but this was the signal for a desperate attempt to set the place on fire. Suddenly, a stack of papers flared up, and a voice rang out "Burn the place." It was taken up, and half a dozen fires were lighted in various portions of the building.

The officials of the Stadium, fearing such a move, were in readiness, and dashed to the outbreaks. They were met, first with a storm of abuse, then a fusilade of bottles. The building is equipped with a number of fire hoses, and the assistants quickly brought these into play, just when it seemed as though the structure would catch fairly on fire.

Then, when the flames had been extinguished, the hoses were directed on to the crowd that had refused to leave the building. This had the desired effect, however, the mob scampering in all directions away from the cold deluge.

At this time the lights were low, and the place was practically in darkness. Suddenly two loud reports were heard, and some claim that they were revolver shots; but this statement is discountenanced by the police.

In the meantime, outside at the main entrane, an angry mob had gathered, despite the rain and mud, and attempts were made to rush the building. The police and the assistants, however, repelled the attack, and in the scramble a few people fared pretty badly.

Then a veritable shower of road metal crashed against the office, every window of which was smashed.

The police, in the end, prevailed on the crowd to disperse, and shortly after 11 o'clock quiet prevailed.

DOCK STRIKE.

SITUATION AT MELBOURNE.

MEN TO PICKET YARDS.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

When the State shipbuilding yards are reopened to-morrow no union engineers, shipwrights, boilermakers, moulders, or ironworkers' assistants will put in an appearance. They will not give the assurance required by the Minister for Public Works, Mr. Hagelthorn, that they will do whatever is ordered them without question.

Were the Ironworkers' Union to agree to the conditions of employment laid down by the Minister, it would mean the revocation, to some extent, of the embargo against the Harbour Trust work. With private docks shut against the Trust for fear of the effects of the union boycott, the Government dock must be availed of for repairs.

Arrangements have been made for the men to watch the yards to-morrow for the purpose of intercepting any person who may be considered a likely applicant for employment.

The Minister for Public Works, on learning the intentions of the strikers, said:—"The followers of Mr. Hampson, secretary of the ironworkers, have displayed quite enough folly in refusing to work themselves, and they will display a quite inexcusable folly if they attempt to persuade or prevent, by force, other men from working for the State. The Government will take every precaution to protect every man engaged in the yards from annoyance by pickets, and, moreover, will have no room in its employ for men who engage in tactics of that kind."

SCIENCE CONGRESS.

STATE PROGRAMMES.

ARRANGEMENTS IN SYDNEY.

As the visit of members of the British Association for the Advancement of Science comes nearer, interest in the event increases.

Mr. O. J. R. Howarth, M.A., assistant secretary of the association, who arrived in Sydney from London on Thursday, left yesterday for Brisbane, accompanied by Dr. Rivett, the organising secretary.

Mr. Howarth stated that the programme for the Adelaide, Melbourne, and Sydney sessions was now complete, anh in the hands of the printers. The Adelaide session would open on August 8, and the principal public addresses there would be delivered by Sir Oliver Lodge, the retiring president, on "The Ether of Space;" Professor Sollas, professor of geology at the University of Oxford, on "Ancient Hunters;" and by Sir Charles Lucas, formerly head of the Dominions Department of the Colonial Office, and Mr. A. D. Hall, president of the agricultural section of the delegation. The Melbourne programme, comprising the week from August 13 till August 20, will open with a reception by the Governor-General, followed by a civic reception. The installation of the president-elect, Professor William Bateson, F.R.S., will then take place, and the first part of the presidential address will be delivered, the other principal public addresses being by Dr. W. Rosenhain, F.R.S., on "The Making of a Big Gun;" Professor Poulton, F.R.S. (Oxford), on "Mimicry;" Professor H. B. Dixon, (Manchester) on "Explosions;" and by Dr. Dyson, the Astronomer Royal.

The chief features of the Sydney programme are the second portion of the presidential address by Professor Bateson, and discourses on "Atoms and Electrons" by Sir Ernest Rutherford; "Primitive Man," by Professor Elliot Smith; "Comets," by Professor H. H. Turner (Oxford); and "Brown Earth and Bright Sunshine," by Professor Benjamin Moore (Liverpool). The entertainments include a ball at the Town Hall on August 24, given by the Lord Mayor, a conversazione at the University, and numerous excursions.

The delegates will take their departure from Sydney on August 26, about 200 proceeding to Queensland and the remainder to New Zealand.

NEWCASTLE, Sunday.

At a meeting of the Newcastle Chamber of Commerce on Friday it was resolved to co-operate with the Northern Engineering Institute to welcome members of the forthcoming science congress to Newcastle, and arrange for their inspection of the port.

BOY IMMIGRANTS.

NEW POLICY.

DECISION OF THE CABINET.

FUTURE SUPPLY.

The system of paid passages for boys from England is to be the mainstay of the Government's policy of immigration. The Premier on Saturday made this announcement in connection with the determination of the Government to take over from Victoria the shipload of 377 boys now on their way by the steamer Hawkes Bay.

"It marks," said Mr. Holman, "an important new departure in immigration policy." He added that the Government intended to lay upon the table of the House, after the present censure debate was concluded ("that is," he said, "should it have an ending satisfactory to the Government") the papers relating to the exchange of the Hawkes Bay contingent, and dealing with the general policy of immigration. "We have," he stated, "taken the shipload as a Government matter, and not as a Dreadnough farm matter."

The Premier was asked what was the distinction, and he replied:—"We have taken no responsibility for the Dreadnought farm boys at all, and have not spent any money to assist them to come out, but they are all chosen by the same process, by our officers in England. The money to bring Dreadnought farm boys out is raised from a special fund, under the control of trustees. Our officers here at the Immigration Bureau help them to get positions, just as they do any incoming immigrant, whether assisted or not. If a man out here likes to bring his brother or friend out and pay his passage, the new arrival has still a claim upon the services of the bureau when he lands.

"The boys on the Hawkes Bay," the Premier said, "are actually having their passage paid by our Government, and we have decided that this policy shall be the mainstay of immigration in the future."

Asked what this boy immigration would amount to approximately in a year, Mr. Holman said:—"I have not got the figures handy, but they will appear in the papers to be tabled. But the principle of boy immigration has been decided upon in Cabinet. We are going to take steps to perfect the system of selection. In dealing with boys—which, I must emphasise we have not hitherto done—greater precautions are necessary than in dealing with adults. Youngsters are more easily misled, more easily lured by tales of an adventurous life, and, therefore, special precautions are necessary. We have made the fullest possible inquiries, and find that the method of selecting the Hawkes Bay shipment in England has been quite satisfactory, though not quite on the lines that we ourselves would adopt. The selection has been carried out by our own officers, that is, officers jointly serving the two Governments. We will take somewhat slightly different steps in the future, but we have ample guarantee of the medical fitness and the fitness from the point of view of the character of the boys."

Asked as to the circumstances under which the contingent had been transferred from the Victorian Government to this, Mr. Holman said: "There has been a slight misunderstanding as to why they were not suitable in Victoria. The Premier, Sir Alexander Peacock, explained to me that it was a dry season, and there was a consequent falling-off of applications for boy labour by the farmers. He now explains in a later letter that the dry season was not general throughout Victoria, but has affected more particularly the wheat-growing district, in which they expected to place this shipload of boys."

The Hawkes Bay left Capetown just over a week ago, and she is expected to berth in Sydney about three weeks hence, after calling at Melbourne.

FOOTBALLERS FIGHT.

UNEDIFYING SPECTACLE.

ON SYDNEY SPORTS GROUND.

Although the weather was extremely cold, and the ground saturated with rain on Saturday at the Sports Ground, the players in two football matches were inclined to "run hot." During the first half of the New Zealand-Australia game, fists were flying, and on several occasions encountered obstructions in the shape of jaws and noses.

One of the New Zealand forwards was unpleasantly conspicuous; in fact, the whereabouts of the ball was only a secondary consideration with him. On one occasion the Australian captain—F. Wood—was observed retaliating on an opponent in no uncertain manner. During the interval the little half-back remarked that it was the first occasion during his football career that he lost control of himself. But the provocation was too great.

However, the most disgraceful scene of all was that which took place in the final of the seven-a-side game between Balmain and Eastern Suburbs. A Balmain player, Grimsley, was knocked out by an opponent, who was ordered off the field by referee Cohen. The force of the blow displaced several of Grimsley's teeth. Then two more players came to blows, and, grappling each other, they fell to the ground, and there continued their pummelling. Both were ordered off the field. The Balmain player was disinclined to go, but the referee pushed him away, and he joined his recent opponent. The pair walked some distance towards the entrance to the enclosure together. Then, to the astonishment of the spectators, both adopted a pugilistic attitude, made a few feints, and clinched. Once more they fell, and continued the fight on the grass.

Some of the spectators who were seated on the reserve chairs in the enclosure rushed out, and, separating the belligerents, escorted them outside the enclosure. Here, among the crowd, one of the spectators set upon another who had attacked one of the players, and he was promptly expelled from the ground by the police.

The whole episode was the worst that has occurred on a principal Sydney ground in the history of the Rugby Union game. The players concerned in the unseemly affair will appear before a committee on Wednesday evening, at the rooms of the New South Wales Rugby Union, Bligh-street.

COST OF LIVING.

TWENTY PER CENT. INCREASE

IN TWO YEARS.

According to the quarterly bulletin of the Commonwealth Statistician (Mr. G. H. Knibbs), the cost of living in New South Wales has increased since 1910 by exactly 20 per cent., as against 12 per cent. in Victoria.

Mr. M. Henwood, who represents the Labour Council's arbitration department, explained on Saturday night that he had worked out figures for the purpose of advocating claims before wages boards, and had found that the difference to-day in the cost of living was 12½ per cent., as between New South Wales and Victoria. New South Wales being the higher. The purchasing power of a sovereign had so much depleted in New South Wales that what could be bought for 19s 11d in 1910 now cost £1 4s, as against £1 1s 4d in Victoria.

ACCIDENTALLY SHOT.

KURRI KURRI, Saturday.

Harold Goodwin, a wheeler, was accidentally shot through the body by his brother on Friday while out shooting with pea rifles. The brother explained that he did not know the rifle was loaded. Dr. Heupt extracted the bullet, which had lodged in the abdominal wall. Goodwin is in a critical condition.

WEE JASPER MURDER

THE INQUEST.

NORMAN M'BEAN'S CONFESSION

"I DID THIS THING."

YASS, Sunday.

The inquests regarding the deaths of Gertrude McAllister and Norman McBean, in connection with what is known as the Wee Jasper tragedy, were held by the Deputy Coroner, Mr. O'Brien, at Wee Jasper to-day.

Regarding the death of Gertrude McAllister, Constable William Boardman, stationed at Wee Jasper, stated that on the night of June 1 Norman McBean and Charles Faulder came over and reported that the girl had been shot. In reply to questions, McBean said the girl was dead, and that she could not have shot herself. He thought a shot-gun had been used. He said he was sitting in the dining-room, reading, when he heard the shots fired.

Leslie McBean, brother of deceased, a grazier, residing at Good Hope, said on Friday he discussed the murder with his brother, Norman, who said that the man who committed the crime and had it on his mind ought to throw himself into the river. They met again later, and Leslie intimated his intention of going back to Yass that afternoon. Norman then said he would have a couple of letters to post. Looking for him later, witness could not find him, and inquired of Constable McCarthy. The latter said he thought he was in the office, opened the door, and found he was not there. He saw some letters on the table, looked at the letters, and saw that two were addressed to him. Constable McCarthy said: "You had better open them." He opened them; he did not read them, but immediately handed them over to Constable McCarthy.

One of the letters read as follows:—

> "Leslie,—I did this thing, and then tried to hide it. I want no innocent person blamed. The girl paid a terrible death. I will pay mine. We sinned once in this house. The girl said something was wrong. I offered her private marriage in Goulburn, so that father would never know that this sin was committed in his house. She consented, and I meant to keep my word. But lately she wanted it open, and then I knew that father would know the sin was committed in this house, and it would nearly kill him, and he would have to leave Wee Jasper. I brooded for weeks, and made up my mind the other night. Everything was black, and I was mad. Gert was good in all but this. The first shot killed her. I am sorry for everything. I always led a clean life before. I considered father from the start, or I should have gone out into the open with her, and married her. I knew it would nearly kill him, and now I have done so. May God forgive me. It was all a ghastly mistake. I sinned and then brooded, and then this. Poor father, poor Tom and Mary. Tell Tom (the girl's father) it was all a mistake, and we have both paid for our sin, and God forgive me. Our sin is causing misery and suffering to others. There is no other way, however."

There was no signature to the confession, but witness identified it as his brother's handwriting.

In answer to Mr. Bucknell, who appeared for the relatives of deceased, M'Bean said that his brother latterly had appeared to be very absent-minded, and his manner had been very peculiar.

The Rev. Mr. Doig said he had noticed deceased's manner was peculiar of late. He was very reticent and absent-minded.

Rupert Stanley Lindeman, grazier, Coodravale, and a neighbour, gave similar evidence.

The Coroner found that deceased, Gertie M'Alister, was murdered by Norman Waverley M'Bean, but that the evidence proved Norman M'Bean was not in his normal state of mind of late.

The inquest on Norman M'Bean was then proceeded with.

Mounted Constable MacCarthy said that on reading the confession he went in the direction of the river, followed its course for about half a mile, and discovered a waterproof overcoat and hat on the bank. He then saw someone in the river, about 50 yards away, in about 8ft or 6ft of water. Witness got the body out, recognised it as Norman M'Bean, and found he was dead. The body was cold. There was a small hole in the centre of the forehead, and blood was oozing out. He found a pea rifle on Saturday morning in about 4ft or 5ft of water about 25ft away from where the body was discovered.

Further evidence was given identifying the rifle as deceased's property. Dr. English certified that death was caused through a bullet wound which lodged on the brain.

A verdict of suicide was returned. The Coroner said there was ample evidence to show that deceased was, at the time of the offence, suffering from mental aberration.

STRIKE ECHOES.

TRADES HALL AMENITIES.

"BLACK-LEGGING INNUENDO."

"The meat strike was about the most unfortunate affair I have witnessed for many a day," said Mr. M. J. Connington, the secretary of the Trolly, Draymen, and Carters' Union, on Saturday, when referring to the published remarks of Mr. H. M'Namara, the president of the New South Wales branch of the Australasian Meat Industry Employees' Union.

"One does not like to criticise other organisations, but," Mr. Connington said, "I am forced to say something by the inference of 'black-legging' contained in Mr. M'Namara's remarks. When the slaughtermen sent along their ultimatum to the employers they very soon found themselves locked out, and the carters were in the same plight. We, however, took the position philosophically for the time being, knowing that our turn would come later. For a number of weeks we remained out of work, saying nothing, while the meat employees almost daily made requests to their employers for a conference. Meanwhile, we were firmly determined that we would not return to work—unless under conditions that we ourselves would lay down. When the meat employees finally determined to return to work, 'on conditions laid down by the employers,' we refused to resume work unless the employers conceded to us certain conditions which the Meat Employees' Union had unsuccessfully endeavoured to get. And we got the conditions we wanted.

"Mr. M'Namara's use of the word 'black-legging' is not directed pointedly at any particular union, but," added Mr. Connington, "if he is making the innuendo against my union I would simply call his attention to the fact that in previous strikes our members refused to work with free labourers who had been put in the slaughtermen's places.

"The reference that only one union outside of the meat industry came out, can be met by my saying that my union will be glad to pay any of those members who are alleged to have come out half a guinea each if they can prove that they gave up their employment because of their refusal to handle 'black' hides. The strike cost my union several hundreds of pounds in strike pay, and I doubt if it cost the Meat Industry Union—or any other organisation—one penny. My union, in fact, has spent thousands of pounds owing to other people's troubles. It is a union that, by the very nature of the work involved, is hardly ever entirely free of industrial strife of some kind; this, too, being caused by organisations which have no connection whatever with us."

MYSTERY OF MAN.

STORIES IN SKULLS.

EGYPT AND AUSTRALIA.

PROFESSOR ELLIOT SMITH AMAZED.

"My investigations in Sydney have resulted in some interesting discoveries, confirming certain theories I have long held," said Professor Grafton Elliot Smith, the gifted Australian, who is to-day Professor of Anatomy at the Manchester University, to a "Herald" reporter on Saturday. "The wealth of the material lying to the hand of the anthropologist in Australia has amazed me," he added.

Professor Elliot Smith will take up a skull and tell you the history of the man to whom it once belonged—what manner of man he was, and what influence went to the making of him. Just as we can distinguish an Englishman from a Hindu, or a Frenchman from a Chinaman in the flesh, so he can detect racial differences in the skull.

"There is an embarrassing amount of material waiting to be worked up here," he said. "Officially, nothing has been done for anthropology at the University. What has been done here has been done in their spare time by those who are teaching other subjects. At a good many universities at home there are people whose business it is to do anthropological research work, and in course of time that will, presumably, have to be done here. The question is not only one of studying the material which has already been collected in the museums, but also of studying the aboriginals themselves and the various island people. A good deal has been done in Melbourne by Professor Baldwin Spencer, but there is much more to be done. As some of these races are dying out, it is work that has to be done at once, if at all.

"In Australia there are a great number of people who have come into close contact with the blacks, and have a great deal of information about them, the full value of which they do not realise. That information is waiting to be collected. This question of the study of native races is of very great practical importance. It is of importance politically, and that is one of the matters that is going to be discussed by the anthropological section of the British Association Congress—the need for studying ethnology, because of its vital political importance. A great many of the native wars which the British Empire has been involved in during the last century—such as the Indian mutiny—have been largely due to the misunderstanding of native customs, the European officer quite unwittingly offending against some ideas which to the natives are of vital importance.

AUSTRALIA'S OBLIGATIONS.

"Now that Australia has taken over the administration of Papua, and is also in close contact with the other Pacific islands, it will become more and more important for Australia to take up this anthropological work, so that the officers who go to responsible positions among these native races may have some accurate knowledge of their customs and beliefs. This is a matter which is being very seriously considered in England at the present time, and strong pressure is being brought to bear upon the Government to insist that all officers who go out in the colonial service shall have some training in anthropology to fit them for their positions. It is hoped that as an outcome of the discussion something will be done to stimulate the study of anthropology in the universities—that someone will be appointed in each university who will be responsible for the anthropological work, and be competent to instruct students or advise people who desire to go out to such places as I refer to. The difficulty is that this subject does not come into the curriculum, but some means should be found to carry on research work. It is quite likely that during the next couple of years someone will be appointed in connection with each university to be the head of the anthropological department. This is largely due to the influence and recommendation of last year's British Association meeting at Birmingham. It has been difficult to make the politicians realise the importance of the matter, but I think that before long the universities will be turning out trained men for the Indian and colonial service. Some elementary training, at all events, will be required of those who go out to this work—more especially in the Crown colonies.

"Of course we cannot expect to train a man to be familiar with the customs of all the people of the world, but we can stimulate an interest in those things and bring people to see that these native races do not think in the same way that Europeans do. One frequently meets Civil servants who have returned from abroad expressing regret that before they went out they did not acquire some knowledge of this kind. It is the business of the universities to see that such knowledge can be supplied if there is a demand for it.

EGYPTIAN CUSTOMS IN AUSTRALIA.

"Since I have come here I have found an immense quantity of material available for study. I have been especially interested in the fact that the Australian aboriginals and the neighbouring people, especially those of Torres Straits, have customs of mummification which are very similar to the ancient Egyptian method. There is no doubt at all that these customs have been derived by some devious means from the Egyptians. I did not know until now that the evidence was so definite and positive as it is—especially in the Torres Straits region. I have been looking at mummies from Darnley Island, in the Macleay Museum at the University, and the specimens in the Australian Museum. It is remarkable how curiously they have retained a lot of the old Egyptian customs.

"I have also been examining a series of Australian aboriginal skulls, chiefly for the purpose of finding out if there were any trace of admixture with alien people, for the characters of the skull are as distinctive of race as the characters of the face of the living man. There, again, I have been surprised at the distinctness of the alien traces which are to be found in the collections of Australian skulls which were supposed to be those of pure aboriginals. There is very positive evidence of admixture with several other races; and this is particularly interesting at the present moment, because it fits in with a statement which Dr. Rivers is going to make at the meeting of the British Association in Melbourne in reference to the culture of the Australian aboriginal. According to him, their customs and practices show very definite evidence of this racial admixture. Hitherto most people who have studied the skulls have maintained that the race was comparatively pure, but there is sufficient evidence of admixture with other people to justify Dr. Rivers's inference from the study of the culture.

EGYPT AND CIVILISATION.

"I had hoped to be able to devote more time to this interesting study," added Professor Elliot Smith, "but my plans have been somewhat upset, because I have committed myself to a course of lectures at the University, under the auspices of the Extension Board. I had prepared slides for individual lectures, but to make them into a connected course has meant a considerable rearrangement of my material. Although my lectures will deal with Egypt, I shall deal with it, not so much for the intrinsic interest of Egypt itself, but because of the light it sheds upon civilisation in general, not only because Egypt has preserved more ancient records than other countries, which throw this light on civilisation, but because I believe Egypt has also contributed much more largely than most people are willing to believe to the development of the earliest civilisation. That is the case I hope to make out in the course of lectures I begin at the University on Tuesday night."

BOXING.

CARPENTIER-SMITH MATCH.

VARIOUS EXPLANATIONS.

LONDON, July 17.

There is a lively controversy over the sensational ending of the fight between Carpentier and Gunboat Smith last night.

Most boxing experts agree that the force of the foul blow delivered by Smith was slight.

The cinematograph film indicates that Smith realised his mistake while in the act of delivering the blow, his pose being that of a man drawing back at the last moment.

Another point raised is the length of time Smith was down in the fourth round. Several people declare that he was down 14 seconds. The task of counting was given to the referee (Mr. Corri) instead of being left to the timekeeper.

Mr. Corri, when interviewed, said: "There was no knock-out in the fourth round. Smith was waiting for me to count 'nine,' and he then rose."

It is pointed out by others that the same thing happened to Carpentier in his match with Bombardier Wells, at Ghent, in June, 1913. Wells' supporters claimed that a long "ten seconds" count saved Carpentier, but there, again, the man who was down was waiting to hear "nine" counted before rising.

Mr. Corri stated that he did not see M. Descamps enter the ring, otherwise he would have disqualified Carpentier.

Mr. Corri added that he was perfectly certain that Smith did not mean to commit a deliberate foul. The punch was not a very hard one.

BOXERS INTERVIEWED.

Smith when interviewed said his view was that when the gallery began to shout "Foul" Carpentier decided to remain down, thinking that as the fight was won for him there was no reason why he should get up.

Smith added that he accepted the referee's decision, but the fight ought to have gone on.

Carpentier, in the course of an interview, emphatically declared that Smith had not knocked him down. He was getting ready to rise, when Smith struck him on the back of the neck, the blow dazing him.

ANOTHER MATCH PROBABLE.

Dick Burge, manager of The Ring, has offered a similar purse for another contest between Carpentier and Smith.

M. Descamps (Carpentier's manager) says he is prepared to accept a challenge after Carpentier has met Bombardier Wells, if Carpentier is successful.

CARPENTIER V WELLS.

Carpentier and Bombardier Wells have been matched for the white heavyweight championship of the world, the contest to take place in London.

PUGILISM CONDEMNED.

The conference also condemned the presence of women at such contests.

LONDON, July 17.

The Sandown Park Races opened to-day, when the principal event resulted:—

The Twenty-seventh Renewal of the Eclipse Stakes, of 10,000 sovs., the owner of the second horse to receive 900 sovs., and the third 150 sovs.; the nominator of the winner to receive 500 sovs., of the second 100 sovs. out of the stakes; for three and four year-olds; three-year-olds to carry 8st 6lb, and four-year-olds 9st 4lb; mares and geldings 3lb; penalties for weight-for-age winners—Eclipse Stakes course, 1¼ mile.

Mr. Sol. Joel's br c Honeywood, by Polymelus—Honey Bird, 3yrs, 8st 6lb 2
Sir John Thursby's b c Kennymore, by John o' Gaunt—Croceum, 3yrs, 8st 6lb 3

[The first Eclipse Stakes was run in 1886. About the year 1884 it occurred to the managers of Sandown Park to inaugurate a race that should be the richest in England, and in a way that would not be likely to cost them anything. Thus £10,000 was decided upon as the amount of the prize, but owners were asked to subscribe that sum out of their own pockets, the club, of course, to make up any deficiency owing to an insufficient number of entries being received. The conditions were: 265 subscribers, 103 of whom pay 10 sovs. each, and 66 of whom pay 30 sovs. each. By subscription of 10 sovs. each, the only forfeit, if declared by the first Tuesday in October, 1884, if left in after the first Tuesday in October, 1884, a further subscription of 20 sovs.; if left in after the first Tuesday in January, 1885, a further subscription of 20 sovs.; if left in after the first Tuesday in January, 1886, a further subscription of 50 sovs. In the event of the forfeits exceeding the expenses of the stake, the surplus to be devoted either to a consolation stakes for unplaced starters, or to be divided between the second and third horses, at the discretion of the executive. It thus cost £110 to run, that is to say, owners received the liberal odds of £10,000 to £110 about their horses winning.]

QUESTION OF JOINT LIABILITY.

WAGGA, Saturday.

An interesting issue as to the joint liability of a wife for storekeeping accounts contracted in the name of the husband, was discussed before the police magistrate in the Small Debts Court. J. F. Hannan, formerly storekeeper in Wagga, sued Mrs. Amelia Rafferty and her husband, John Rafferty, formerly of North Wagga, and now of Narrandera, for the amount of an account which was contracted in 1910. Plaintiff claimed that Mrs. Rafferty had asked for the account to be opened in her name, and said she would settle it. Goods were, however, charged in plaintiff's book in the name of the husband. Later, a small debts verdict was obtained against him and execution issued, but it was returned with the endorsement that he had left the district. Mrs. Rafferty denied having accepted any liability for her husband's account, and said she had settled her own separate account.

The police magistrate held that the husband could not now be sued, as a verdict for the amount had previously been obtained against him. Further, he decided there was no liability on the part of the wife. He, therefore, found for both defendants.

MINERS' THREAT.

WORKMEN'S RAILWAY TICKETS.

WOLLONGONG, Sunday.

A well-attended meeting was held at the council chambers to consider the travelling facilities granted to workmen on the local railways. At present workmen's tickets are only issued for the train leaving in the morning and returning in the afternoon, and should miners find, when they reach their pits that the mines are not working for that day, they have to wait for the workmen's train returning in the afternoon, or pay the ordinary fare. Repeated application to the Commissioners for similar privileges to those granted in Sydney and Newcastle have met with refusals, and the meeting was convened by the Mayor, at the request of the Labour Council, supported by the Citizens' Association, and other public bodies.

Mr. H. P. Melville, president of the Labour Council, proposed that steps be taken to urge the Commissioner to grant the right to return by any ordinary train on workmen's tickets. This was seconded by Mr. W. Davies, secretary of the Labour Council, and agreed to.

In supporting the resolution, Mr. A. C. Willis, miners' general secretary, said the present state of affairs in regard to workers travelling on the local railway would have to be remedied, if not, then the miners would "take a holiday" until they were. It was a difficulty at present to keep the men at work.

BORDER LINES.

NEW MELBOURNE ROUTE.

Mr. G. T. C. Miller, M.L.A. (chairman of the Public Works Committee) has been informed by the secretary to the Victorian Premier that the Orbost railway line will be opened in about 12 months' time. It is the intention of the Victorian Minister for Railways and the Minister for Lands to visit the district between Orbost and the New South Wales border during August or September next, with a view to making recommendations as to the proposed line beyond Orbost.

"I am urging the construction of the line to the border," said Mr. Miller on Saturday, "and I am also endeavouring to induce the New South Wales Government to push the line from Bombala to the border of New South Wales. When these lines have been finished, they will complete the alternative route between both capitals—an interstate work which should be of incalculable value to both States."

Norelade, caught fire whilst running through Centennial Park, through back-firing. The Paddington fire brigade were called by the park ranger, but the car was practically destroyed before they could put out the flames.

EACH GRADE DISTINCT.

There are four grades of "Robur," and each packet or tin is distinctly marked with the grade of tea it contains; also with the month in which the tea left our warehouse. The various grades are determined by the fineness of the quality of the extract that comes from the leaves—the younger the leaves the finer the grade.

SPECIAL GRADE is very fine quality. There is no better Tea to be had anywhere, no matter what price you pay.

No. 1 GRADE is good, strong Tea—of very fine quality and excellent flavour; it is very saving tea to use.

No. 2 GRADE.—For general household use is one of the most economical Teas we know. We highly recommend this line. Of course, it is not as good as the two grades mentioned above, but still it is strong, good Tea, with a nice flavour.

No. 3 GRADE is a good sound Tea. Many of our customers say it is good enough for anybody to buy for everyday family use. We have sent out tons of it during the past year.

HEALTH, NOT DEFENCE.

MR. FLOWERS ON THE BIRTH-RATE.

PORT MACQUARIE, Sunday.

Mr. F. Flowers, M.L.C., vice-president of the Executive Council; Mr. Joynton Smith, M.L.C.; Mr. H. D. Morton, M.L.A.; and Dr. Maitland arrived at Port Macquarie on Friday night. They were met by the Mayor, Alderman Stewart, and representative citizens and entertained at dinner at Macdonough's Hotel.

Mr. Flowers, in the course of a speech, said no country was before New South Wales in the standard of living; but our birthrate was, unfortunately, a blot, and represented a serious question for the community. It was difficult for the Government to get good immigrants; we wanted the best British stock to raise a greater Britain and help Australia to hold the country. We did not want gunboats and soldiers, but an increased birthrate and population. The solution lay in saving the lives of those born. The question had to be faced. Every penny spent on bush-nursing was pounds saved. It was a national matter.

On Saturday the party visited the old Church, Lovers' Walk, and the lighthouse. In the afternoon Mr. Flowers opened an operating theatre at Hastings District Hospital and laid the foundation-stone of the nurses' quarters.

A social entertainment was accorded Mr. Flowers and party in the evening at the School of Arts, and a collection in aid of the hospital realised £26 10s.

AUSTRALIA HOUSE.

THE DECORATIONS.

COMPETITION FOR ARTISTS.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

Preparations for the decoration and furnishing of Australia's new house in London are already considerably advanced.

Australian artists are invited by the Minister for External Affairs, Mr. Glynn, to submit sketches for the mural decorations, and tenders are now open for furnishing Australia House. The terms of the competition to select artists to paint the mural decorations are that it will be open to all artists born in Australia, and who have lived in Australia for five years and upwards, and who are now resident in Australia. Twelve paintings in all are required, and they are to depict incidents in Australian history, features of Australian scenery, and of Australian productive activity. Sketches, which must be in oil and tempera on canvas, must be forwarded to the High Commissioner's office, London, not later than January 15, 1915, to be judged by a council consisting of an artist of repute, to be nominated by the president of the Royal Academy, who will act as chairman.

After the selection by the committee of the designs, the architects are to be consulted by the committee, and will certify as to which, if any, of the selected designs would not be suitable for incorporation in the building. Painters of the selected designs, other than the artist who will receive the commission for the finished works, will receive prizes of £50, £60, £50, and £25, for each of the four respective groups. For the pictures themselves the following prices will be paid—two pictures, £1100 each, four pictures £1200 each, one picture £600, two pictures £400 each, two pictures £225 each, and one picture £900, making a total of £9750 for 12 pictures.

It has been decided that none but Australian wood is to be used for the furniture for the supply of which tenders are now being invited simultaneously in Australia and London. The wood is to be of the mahogany class, and the designs provide for furniture in the style of the Georgian period, and adapted to modern office requirements.

The total cost of the furniture will probably reach several thousands of pounds.

CASUALTIES.

A BOY'S DEATH.

Clarence James Cattell, 12, residing with his parents at 59 Kellick-street, Waterloo, met his death in a peculiar manner on Saturday. On the previous day, in company with another boy, he was riding down Hanover-street, which is rather steep, in a go-cart. The cart capsized, and Cattell was thrown out on to his head. At the time nothing appeared to be wrong with the boy, who, with his companion, sat on the kerbstone for a quarter of an hour. The other boy then went home, and later Cattell was found lying in the go-cart unconscious. He was taken to the South Sydney Hospital, where he died some hours after admission, the cause of death being a fractured skull.

The motion was strongly opposed as letting in Liberals, but was carried by 143 votes to 100. As, however, a two-thirds majority is necessary for an alteration of the constitution the resolution was virtually lost.

RELEASED.

WESTERN AUSTRALIAN INDIGNATION

PERTH, Sunday.

The action of the Attorney-General, Mr. Walker, in releasing Robert Bennett after serving only three years of a life sentence for a criminal offence on a 10-year-old girl has aroused great indignation at Midland Junction, where the crime was committed.

As the result of a ratepayers' petition, the Mayor has called a public meeting of protest, at the Town Hall, for July 27, when the matter will be referred to.

In Parliament on Thursday night, the Attorney-General said Bennett was the first man to be brought up under the new Act, and he received the full penalty with remarks from the judicial Bench which exhibited the common state of hysteria then prevailing in the public mind as the result of an epidemic of similar offences. He also stated it was Bennett's first offence, but this is now denied.

At Dubbo District Court the Municipal Council of Dubbo proceeded against G. D. Ison, one of the trustees of the Methodist Church properties, in respect of rates on the properties amounting to £170 7s 11d.

Mr. W. F. McManamey appeared for defendant, and explained that the amount claimed had been accumulating for many years. None of the present trustees could speak with authority as to what had been the position previous to the year 1907. A former town clerk, who had also been secretary to the Methodist trustees, had always put matters right for them, and the trustees had not bothered to make themselves acquainted with their liabilities as to rating. After an adjournment it was announced by Mr. Pilcher that the parties had agreed upon a verdict of £131 14s 3d, subject to adjustments, to be made by Mr. McManamey and the Mayor, relative to certain payments alleged not to be credited, and subject to a rebate paid for water rates under section 159 of the Local Government Act of 1906; adjustment to be made within a month.

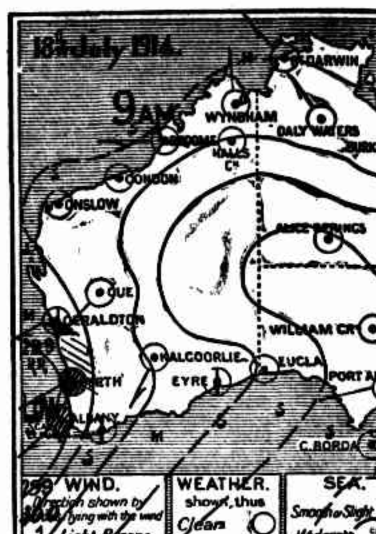
AUSTRALIAN WEATHER.

THE "HERALD" MAP.



The cyclonic disturbance which has become a marked feature in the weather in the south-eastern districts of New South Wales has, since 9 a.m. Friday, expanded northward and assumed control over the greater part of the Tasman Sea. Due to this movement, the unsettled, rainy, squally weather has also extended northward on our coast.

The disturbance has intensified its centre, being now 29.6 inches over the South Island of New Zealand. Its main body occupies that area of the South Pacific Ocean between New Caledonia and Macquarie Island, and its western limits lie a few hundred miles off the south-eastern coast of Australia.

The influence it is at present exerting is indicated in the isobars of the "high" to the westward of it, which show a series of kinks between the east coast of Tasmania and Clarence Heads.

The "high" over the mainland has worked about 300 miles eastward since 9 a.m. Friday, but still has its centre a little to the south-west of Tasmania, which is an indication of further rains on the coast and tablelands of New South Wales.

Another disturbance is now showing between Perth and the Leeuwin, which, judging by the depressions in the isobars, should bring unsettled weather with it to southern portions of the respective States.

Ocean Forecast.—Squally to gales between Sydney and Brisbane, becoming stormy around the Leeuwin, extending to the Bight. Fogs in the Straits.

PORT STEPHENS.

EQUAL TO SYDNEY HARBOUR.

A VISITING PARTY.

NEWCASTLE, Sunday.

Dr. Arthur, M.L.A., organised a party in Sydney last week for the purpose of visiting Port Stephens to inquire further into the advisableness of opening up that port, as recommended by the Decentralisation Committee.

Although 22 members of the Farmers and Settlers' Association were invited to be present, only two put in an appearance. The main party included members of both Houses of Parliament, four members of the Tamworth Decentralisation League, and representatives from the Millions Club and other bodies. They left Newcastle early this morning for Salt Ash, travelled by launch along Tilligerry Creek to Nelson's Bay, outside the Heads, made an inspection of Salamander Bay, and returned to Newcastle this evening.

Dr. Arthur was so much impressed with the possibilities of the port that next week he intends to move the adjournment of the House to discuss the question.

"I went with much anticipation to Port Stephens," he said, "as I had heard so much of its potentialities as a decentralisation port. I must say that the reality altogether surpasses my expectations. This magnificent harbour must have a great future before it. It would be criminal to leave it undeveloped when Nature offers such facilities for the bringing into being of the most up-to-date and efficient seaport in Australia. The entrance, in my judgment, seems quite as good as that of Port Jackson, and the channel up to the proposed site for the wharf is of a depth which will admit any ships that are likely to come to Australia for the next 30 years. Salamander Bay is perfectly landlocked, and behind it lies the virgin bush, nearly all of which is still in possession of the Crown. The land is flat, and therefore admirably adapted for railways, warehouses, and public buildings, while the residential part could be situated on the higher ground. It is simply ludicrous, in my opinion, to compare this great natural harbour with Newcastle.

"It is well known that at present £[illegible] a year is being spent on dredging Newcastle, while the expenditure at Port Stephens, after, perhaps, some slight initial expense in dredging, would be nil. Although the plans of the decentralisation commission show only [illegible] wharfs in Salamander Bay, there is ample space for three times that number along the foreshores, and all are within protected water. The mail steamers could come alongside the wharfs and coal without the slightest difficulty.

"The whole of the northern and western districts of New South Wales would receive immediate and enormous benefit by the establishment of modern shipping facilities at Port Stephens. By these I mean railway communication alongside the warehouses, where the produce is stored, and on to the wharfs alongside the ships. The condition of affairs in Sydney in this regard is deplorable. Thousands of tons of wool or hides and other produce are weekly dragged through the streets of Sydney from Darling Harbour to the wharfs at Miller's Point and Circular Quay and Woolloomooloo, and there seems little or no hope for any early remedy for this exceedingly wasteful and costly method of handling produce. All this could be obviated so far as Port Stephens is concerned by laying out the port in a thoroughly scientific manner, with all the latest mechanical appliances for handling goods.

"It is to be hoped that the example of the pioneer visiting party to Port Stephens may be followed by many of our citizens in the course of the next few months, who, if they go to Port Stephens, will be conquered by the picturesqueness and charm, and by the magnificent possibilities for development.

"I do not say that it is going to do Newcastle any harm. Newcastle is a great manufacturing centre, and will always continue to be the centre of the exports of coal from the majority of the mines, but even now I understand that vessels have to wait sometimes for weeks in Newcastle before they can get a berth. That means very serious expense to shipowners, which might be prevented if there were another port to give facilities for shipping."

FINANCIAL.

NON-COMMISSION PAYING LIFE OFFICES.

There are three old-established offices in England which do not pay commission, viz., the Metropolitan (established 1835) the London Life Association, Ltd. (1806), and the Equitable (1762). As a result their expense ratios are very small, and as a further result their progress has been painfully slow, notwithstanding the good results to policyholders which they can show. This is clear evidence that people will not assure voluntarily—the persuasive eloquence of the canvasser is essential to bring them to a sense of their responsibilities. The following figures have been extracted from the returns for 1913, and the ordinary branch figures of the Prudential (1848), perhaps the most energetic and well-managed of the commission-paying offices, are given for comparative purposes:—

New Business.	Metropolitan.	London Life.	Equitable.	Prudential.
Policies	224	338	248	71,350
Assuring	£258,665	£314,745	£255,425	£6,849,224
Average per policy	1,155	1,518	1,030	96
Expense rate to prem. inc.	6.06	4.05	6.45	8.25
Claims paid	£112,164	£276,366	£298,378	£3,766,625
Premium income	176,636	464,675	311,297	4,929,518
Funds at Dec. 31, 1913	2,378,991	5,866,971	5,496,900	45,098,489

The Metropolitan and the London Life have in the past distributed bonuses by way of abatement of premiums. The rate in the case of the former varied from 24 per cent. to 79 per cent. of the total premiums received in 1913, according to duration of policy; and in the case of the latter from 53 per cent. to 121 per cent. The old Equitable can boast that "for over a century the claims paid under whole life policies have on the average been more than doubled in amount by addition of bonuses," and "in three cases which became claims during 1913, the sum assured and added bonuses exceeded four times the original sum assured." Notwithstanding these wonderful results, the figures of these three offices are completely overshadowed by those of the Prudential. No doubt the non-commission-paying offices serve a very useful purpose, but there is no question that by far the greater service from the national standpoint is rendered by the offices which compete for business through the agency of canvassers.

A CHEQUE PROBLEM.

"Inquirer" writes:—

Sir,—I have a cheque for £50, given to me as a deposit in part payment of a property. The cheque is crossed, payable to Mary Jones only (bearer crossed out), from whom I received it, and has been endorsed by Mary Jones at the time it was paid to me. My bank manager won't receive the cheque to be collected as a deposit to my account, and the solicitor who gave the cheque to Mary Jones on account of trust moneys due to her, won't give me a new cheque or alter what's done. What am I to do to get the money?

Mary Jones should be asked to give our correspondent her own cheque, and should pay the endorsed cheque into her own account for collection. If she has no account, doubtless she could open one with the cheque in question. Possibly our correspondent's banker could so arrange the matter, and so get him out of the difficulty.

LIFE ASSURANCE WITHOUT MEDICAL EXAMINATION.

The growing demand for schemes of life assurance in which the usual medical examination is dispensed with is made manifest by the new business figures of the companies which make a specialty of such plans. This may be explained in several ways. It may be pure nervousness which makes a man recoil from facing the ordeal of medical examination. It may be unwillingness to waste time, or it may be that persons enjoying good health and believing themselves to be destined for long life do not care to run the risk of having some obscure weakness or malady detected, the discovery of which would destroy their peace of mind. In the case of ladies it is much more easy to understand their unwillingness to go before a strange doctor and submit to examination. One of the reasons why in former years life offices received so few proposals from women was this objection to face the medical officer, and the earliest schemes of assurance without examination did not offer a very attractive alternative. The searching questions to be answered, the references to private friends and other formalities were almost as trying as medical examination itself, and, in addition, it was the practice to deduct a portion of the sum assured if the policyholder died in the early years of the contract. Like all other forms of life assurance, however, this system has been greatly improved in recent years, and it is now a simple matter for any healthy person to obtain a life policy without undergoing medical examination, and without being penalised in any way on account of the evasion of the doctor. The much larger demand for life assurance facilities by women workers nowadays no doubt induces companies to waive any formalities considered objectionable when they can do so with safety, while to the same cause may be attributed the number of useful plans recently brought out suitable to both sexes, but particularly attractive to ladies.

PAID IN ANTICIPATION OF CALLS.

Shareholders often pay money into the coffers of companies in anticipation of calls. An interesting point in this connection recently arose in England, and was disclosed in an action heard before Mr. Justice Joyce in the Chancery Division, in the case London and Northern Steamship Company v the Rev. James Farmer and others. The company was incorporated in 1890. Its capital amounted to £500,000, divided into 40,000 ordinary shares of £10 each and 100,000 preference shares of £1 each. Of the ordinary shares there had been issued 25,000, on each of which £7 had been paid up, and 5000 on each of which £5 had been paid up. On each issue of these shares the shareholders had been given the option of paying the balance due on their respective shares in anticipation of calls, such balances bearing interest of £4 per cent. per annum. Many of the shareholders had accepted this option. The dividends paid by the company on its ordinary shares made an average of £8 14s 2d per cent. per annum, and for 1912-13 the dividend was 15 per cent. In those circumstances several of the shareholders who had paid the balances in anticipation of calls had repeatedly asked the company either (1) to treat the amounts appearing on the company's books in respect of such prepayment of calls as part of the ordinary capital of the company for dividend purposes, or (2) to call up the amounts so prepaid and to set off such calls against such prepayment; or (3) to repay to those of the ordinary shareholders who desired it the amounts prepaid by them respectively. The substantial question raised at the hearing was whether the company had power to repay the amounts paid in anticipation of calls. Mr. J. W. M. Holmes, for the shareholders who wished to be repaid, contended that it was money lent and not capital, and that it could be returned by the company. It could not become part of the capital until the calls were paid up. Mr. Cransfield, for the shareholders who did not wish the money to be repaid, contended that it was capital, and therefore could not be refunded, as such a return would amount to a reduction of capital. Mr. Justice Joyce held that the moneys so paid in anticipation of calls were not loans, and could not be returned by the company.

FLOWERY PROSPECTUSES.

Some of our Australian gold-brick prospectuses are works of art, but in Canada spring poets seem to be entrusted with the writing of prospectuses, if we may judge by two choice specimens quoted from in "The Monetary Times of Canada." The following is from the prospectus of a Calgary oil company:—"To-morrow that magic day may dawn for scores of people who were otherwise doomed to a lifetime of labour and privation, and find that . . . has placed them in a position of absolute independence, with the gracious goddess of Fortune as their patron for all the happy years to come." Such is the afflatus of petroleum, but here is a passage from a fox-farming prospectus:—"Join in this unadulterated rockbottom business proposition, where all investors share alike; join in a deal that is mutual co-operation, friendly. Every feature of it open as the day, and permeated by the sunshine of human kindness and sincerity."

STAMP DUTY PROBLEMS.

FRIENDLY SOCIETIES AND STAMP DUTIES.

Under the Stamp Duties (Amendment) Act, 1914, it is provided that nothing in part II. of that Act shall affect the provisions of section 29 of the Friendly Societies Act, 1899. Under this section it is provided that stamp duty shall not be chargeable upon any of the following documents:—(1) Draft, or order, or receipt, given by or to a registered society or branch in respect of money payable by virtue of its rules or of this Act; (2) letter or power-of-attorney granted by any person as trustee for the transfer of any money of a registered society or branch invested in his name in the public funds; (3) bond given to or on account of a registered society or branch, or by the treasurer or other officer thereof; (4) policy of insurance, or appointment or revocation of appointment of agent, or other document required or authorised by this Act, or by the rules of a registered society or branch; (5) agreement to which a society or branch is a contracting party. Under the English Friendly Societies Act, in which similar exemptions appear, cheques drawn by a friendly society on its banker are regarded by the Inland Revenue Department (an official circular having been issued to this effect) as coming within this exemption.

INTERIM RECEIPTS.

"Cashier" writes:—

In the case of a company with a branch in Melbourne, the branch manager issues interim receipts which are, I understand, required to be stamped under Victorian law. These receipts are marked "Interim receipt only—official receipt to follow." Does the official receipt issued by the head office in Sydney require to bear New South Wales duty stamp? (2) Would the position be altered if the official receipt were headed "Melbourne?"

(1) Yes. (2) No.

STAMPS ON PAY-SHEETS.

Mr. Hy. J. Cock writes:—

If members of a mining staff are in receipt of a salary, and are placed on the usual fortnightly pay-sheet, has a duty stamp to be affixed? If in the affirmative, whose duty is it to do so—the employer (company) or employees?

It depends. If the employees are not exempt as labourers, artificers, or workmen, and the amount they receive is £2 or over, and they sign a receipt, then a 2d duty stamp must be affixed by the employee.

TRANSFERABLE DEPOSIT SLIPS.

There is one phase in banking, write Messrs. Wm. Tilley and Co. in their "Monthly Share List," that we think might well be popularised by the proprietary banks doing business in this State, both to their own and clients' advantage, viz., in the matter of fixed deposits. The general banking practice at present is to accept these for a term of two years. If the client finds it necessary in the meantime to employ his money in business or for any other purpose he can, in most cases, either break his deposit and forfeit the interest or arrange an advance against the deposit at a slightly higher rate. We think it would prove good business to the banks, and, as stated before, popularise the investment, if a simple and expeditious form of transfer could be attached to all fixed deposit receipts. We are of opinion that it would result in more money being deposited, besides providing a first-class Stock Exchange investment, as the depositor wanting to realise would, we feel certain, find a ready market, as it is a form of security that would strongly appeal to trustees and others requiring short-dated investments. We believe the scheme is practical, and would like to see it given a trial.

NEWCASTLE AND COUNTY MUTUAL BUILDING COMPANY.

The annual report of the Newcastle and County Mutual Building, Land, and Investment Co., Ltd., shows that the balance of profit and loss account, after paying all charges, is £3119. This, together with the balance of £4507 brought forward last year, gives a total of £7626. An interim dividend of 5 per cent. paid in February absorbed £640 of this amount, leaving a balance available for distribution of £6985. The directors recommend the payment of a 7 per cent. dividend, which will absorb £1793, leaving a balance of £5823 to be carried forward to next year. The directors' report states that record sales have been made in vacant lands, and that cottage residences erected by the company have been sold at very satisfactory figures.

CITY BANK OF SYDNEY.

The half-yearly report of the above institution, which covers the six months ended June 30, shows a net profit for the period of £14,798, which, with £2649 brought forward, makes £17,448 available for distribution. The board recommends a dividend at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum, absorbing £12,000, adding £2000 to the reserve fund, £1000 to bank premises account, and carrying £2448 forward. HOLDING COMPANIES

RESTRICTIVE LEGISLATION PROPOSED.

A U.S.A. BILL.

Everyone knows what a "holding" company is. A local example is Henry Jones Co-operative Company, Ltd., which does not actually carry on business itself, but holds shares in quite a variety of jam-making concerns. There are many examples of this kind of thing in America.

In this connection it is of interest to learn that the United States Government is to consider a bill introduced by Chairman Clayton, and which is known as the Holding Companies Bill. It is to prohibit unlawful restraint of trade or monopolies, interstate or foreign commerce by corporations through the device of incorporate stock-holding, and the six sections follow:—

Sec. 1.—That it shall be unlawful for one corporation engaged in interstate or foreign commerce to acquire, directly or indirectly, the whole or any part of the stock or other share capital of another corporation engaged also in interstate or foreign commerce, where the effect of such acquisition is to eliminate or lessen competition between the corporation whose stock is so acquired, and the corporation making the acquisition, or to create a monopoly of any line of trade in any section or community.

Sec. 2.—That it shall be unlawful for one corporation to acquire, directly or indirectly, the whole or any part of the stock or other share capital of two or more corporations engaged in interstate or foreign commerce, where the effect of such acquisition or the use of such stock by the voting or granting of proxies, or otherwise, is to eliminate or lessen competition between such corporations, or any or them, whose stock or other share capital is so acquired, or to create a monopoly of any line of trade in any section or community.

Sec. 3.—That this Act shall not apply to corporations purchasing such stock solely for investment, and not using the same by voting or otherwise to bring about or in any way attempting to bring about the lessening of competition.

Sec. 4.—That every violation of this Act shall constitute a misdemeanour punishable by a fine not exceeding 5000 dollars, or imprisonment not exceeding one year, or both; and any individual, who, as officer or director of a corporation, or otherwise, orders, takes action, or participates in carrying out any transaction herein forbidden shall be held and deemed guilty of a misdemeanour under this section.

Sec. 5.—That nothing contained in this Act shall prevent a corporation engaged in interstate or foreign commerce from causing the formation of subsidiary corporations for the actual carrying on of their immediate lawful business, or the natural and legitimate branches thereof, or from owning and holding all or a part of the stock of such subsidiary corporations, when the effect of such formation is not to eliminate or lessen a preexisting competition.

Sec. 6.—That nothing contained in this Act shall be held to affect or impair any right heretofore legally acquired: Provided that nothing in this section shall make legal stock-holding relations between corporations when and under such circumstances that such relations constitute violations of the Act approved July 2, 1890, entitled "An Act to protect trade and commerce against unlawful restraint and monopolies."

COMMERCIAL.

AUSTRALIAN DRIED FRUITS.

At the conference of the Australian Dried Fruits Association, held in Adelaide last week, the report of the secretary showed that the output of members of the association this year was:—Apricots (dried), 467 tons; peaches (dried), 175 tons; lexias (equal to), 3280 tons; currants, 4238 tons; sultanas, 4952 tons. The sales this year are in advance of those of previous years, and it is hoped that with the lower scale of prices which has been adopted the advance will be even more marked as the season progresses. The season's fruits were harvested without any differences between employers and employees.

THE BURMA RICE CROP.

Rice is the staple product of Burma, and in it is done the chief trade of the country. Last year it represented 66 per cent. of the total value of all merchandise exported from the country. The exports last year established a record, and showed an improvement of 17.88 per cent. in quantity and .74 per cent. in value on those of the previous year. Some statements made by the Rangoon correspondent of "Capital" may furnish reasons for the change in the conduct of trade with Rangoon lately noticed by local importers. A great source of weakness in connection with the rice trade, the correspondent declares, has been the shipment of the whole outturn from the various centres as soon as ready, quite regardless of the range of prices in purchasing countries. This has been done to avoid damage by damp and weevils, which are aspects of the monsoon. But the Burman and others are learning wisdom, and now realise that it pays better to ship or sell when prices are good, and so the practice of storage has commenced and is extending. The Chief Collector refers to this new move in these words:—"Whatever the immediate effect on various parties—cultivator, broker, miller, or speculator—the effects of this movement in its present stage, regarding the rice trade as a whole, must be of great economic interest in that this movement may be the first step towards the steadying of the market by equalising shipments throughout the year." Another important move in the rice trade has for its object the obliteration of the broker, on whom it is not always possible to rely with confidence, by the introduction of a system of direct dealing between producer and buyer. This is also a question of great economic importance, as the broker has hitherto been the cock of the walk, and has taken advantage of his position accordingly, but all things have an end.

RUSSIAN COPPER PRODUCTION.

Russia is becoming an increasingly important factor in the world's copper market. A Russian copper syndicate, called the "Mied," one of the most powerful institutions in the country commercially, may be said to represent the whole industry. The production of copper was under the control of the "Mied" in some form or other to the extent of 95.7 per cent. (in 1913) of the total production of the Empire, compared with 93.8 per cent. in 1912. The total production in the Empire in 1913, according to the data provided by the "Mied," amounted to 74,000,000lb, against 74,500,000lb in 1912, and 56,500,000lb in 1911. The report quoted from notes the disappointment in respect to last year's production. It observes that there is an increase compared with the preceding years, which, of course, is quite considerable. The Urals contribution to the total for 1913 was 48.7 per cent., which is somewhat less than the two preceding years, when it was 52.5 and 50.2 respectively. The Caucasus stands second with 30.2, against 28.8 and 31.5 per cent. in the two preceding years respectively. Then follows Siberia, in the third place, with 16.9 per cent., against 15 per cent. and 14.6 per cent. in the two preceding years—same order. What will, perhaps, be of more interest is the anticipated production of 1914, which, according to the settled programmes of the various factories engaged in the industry, as indicated in October last year, will work out at 89,000,000lb, or an improvement of 15,000,000lb on the production of 1913.

AUSTRALIAN SUGAR.

Practically all the sugar production in the Commonwealth comes from Queensland. A little cane sugar is made in New South Wales, while a small quantity of beet sugar is produced in Victoria. The quantities obtained in the three States last year were as follows:—

—	Area under Cultivation.	Area cut or dug for Manufacture.	Yield of cane or beet
	Acres.	Acres.	Tons.
Queensland	147,743	102,803	2,805,585
N.S. Wales	11,609	6,189	185,007
Victoria (beet)	1,083	1,083	7,137

Of the total Australian production of sugar of 266,267 tons, 242,837 tons were manufactured in Queensland, 22,573 tons in New South Wales, and 857 tons of beet sugar in Victoria. Queensland's proportion was, therefore, 91 per cent. of the whole. The average return per acre in Queensland and New South Wales was 2.36 tons and 3.65 tons respectively. Climatic conditions (writes the "Australian Sugar Journal") are all against New South Wales, so that the fine average yield of 3.65 tons is evidence of good cultivation. On the other hand, better average results may always be looked for from a restricted area. The great value of the land on the Northern Rivers of New South Wales—the sole site of sugar production in that State—undoubtedly leads to every portion of each acre being fully utilised.

CO-OPERATION.

SELLING AND INSURANCE.

A VICTORIAN PROPOSITION.

An interesting proposition to enlarge the powers of a co-operative selling company to so extend its business as to include insurance came before Mr. Justice Hodges in the Practice Court in Melbourne last week, and was by him referred to the Full Court for consideration. The application, according to the "Argus," which was made on behalf of the Gippsland and Northern Co-operative Selling Company, was for leave to alter the memorandum of association so as to include in its objects the business of fire, marine, accident, employers' liability, workmen's compensation, fidelity guarantee, third party, burglary or theft, storm, vehicle, plate-glass, live stock, and mortgage or other investment insurance, or any of them, and to transact all or any other kinds of insurance other than any except life insurance.

The company, it was stated in the petition to the Court, was originally incorporated as the Gippsland Butter Factories' Co-operative Produce Association, Ltd., in 1890, and was in 1911 changed to its present name, and it is now proposed to alter it to the Gippsland and Northern Co-operative Selling and Insurance Company. The original capital of £5000 was in 1910 altered to £30,000, and on May 1, 1914, to £250,000. Of these shares 3326 are paid up to £5, 990 to £3, and 739 to £2 each. Its original objects were to deal with dairy, farm, and garden produce. For the year ended April 30 last its turnover was £734,940, and it had distributed to shareholders and suppliers in all £33,347.

Mr. A. H. Davis (instructed by Messrs. Backhouse, Skinner, and Hamilton) appeared for the company.

Mr. Davis explained that the application was for the Court's consent to the alteration of the memorandum of association.

Mr. Justice Hodges: This is something like another application that came before me, which I refused.

Mr. Davis: The company wanted to be able to carry on the business of marine and other insurance with the butter business of the company. There was no opposition, and no question of the credit of the company affected. The company was formed in 1905, and began business in a small way. The capital was increased in 1910 from £5000 to £30,000, and in 1914 from £30,000 to £250,000. Since the resolution to combine insurance, £7000 worth of new shares had been taken up.

Mr. Justice Hodges: And you now want to carry on, among other forms of insurance, fire, marine, workmen's compensation, and fidelity guarantee business? It seems to be about as extensive as could be.

Mr. Davis: This was not a butter factory business. It was a selling company. They had to pay large sums of money for insurance, and the company wanted to do it for itself, and save expense.

Mr. Justice Hodges: And if some big ship went down with a big cargo it might find that the company had no capital with which to pay the insurance. The matter which he had to consider was whether this class of business could be advantageously carried on in conjunction with the other business.

Mr. Davis: It was for the company to say that the insurance could be carried on advantageously to the shareholders. He submitted that the Court would not, in the absence of opposition, too closely scrutinise the proposition.

Mr. Justice Hodges: Are they only going to insure their own ships?

Mr. Davis: What the company wanted was these large powers.

Mr. Justice Hodges thought the matter was so extensive and so important that it would be better to refer it to the Full Court. The question was, should these small companies be allowed to branch out in this way? It had been contended that the Court should see only that the shareholders were properly treated, and that otherwise the business should be left to the company to deal with itself. He would refer the matter to the Full Court.

Mr. Davis: Will you refer it to the Full Court?

Mr. Justice Hodges: Yes.

RAILWAY MARKET.

Very few buyers were present at the railway forage and grain sales on Saturday morning, and, consequently, business was slow. The market for prime qualities was firm, but the unsettled weather seemed to affect buyers.

Wheaten chaff realised 3/8 per cwt, whilst lucerne commanded prices ranging from 4/9 to 6/, the latter being paid for a parcel from Vercoe, of Tamworth.

The lucerne hay present was not of an extra choice quality, and not much of a demand reigned; many lots being passed. One parcel from Ahern, of Nemingha, brought 5/ at auction, whilst others realised from 3/3 to 3/9.

The market for potatoes was again firm, and lots commanded prices a little higher than those of the previous day, 6/ being paid for 87 bags sent by Piper, of Llangothlin, whilst other consignments brought prices ranging from 4/6 to 5/6.

There was an attendance of about 250 people, and bidding for several lots was very keen.

In our report of the sale of the building known as Rickard's-chambers, 30 Castlereagh-street, there were two discrepancies. It was stated that the building is now occupied by the Commonwealth Bank of Australia, but to this should be added "and the Australian Metropolitan Life Assurance Company, Ltd.," while the name of the purchaser is given as the Australian Mutual Assurance Company, instead of the Australian Metropolitan Life Assurance Company.

MINING.

A SLACK WEEK.

LONDON STILL DULL.

LOCAL VALUES EASIER.

In the mining division of the Sydney Stock Exchange the record for the past week was again unsatisfactory. Indeed, the question is whether or not it was worse than its predecessor—if such a thing were possible.

A glance at the daily headings descriptive of the state of the market shows that the cloud of depression still envelops the Stock Exchange here; likewise those of Adelaide and Melbourne; whilst the pivot of them all—the London Stock Exchange—is still in a parlous condition. The daily description of local business was embraced in the following headings:—"A Quiet Market," "Values Steady—Business Slack," "Copper Again Falls—London Quotations Lifeless," "London Easier. Local Values Slack," "London Values Variable—Local Business Limited." Both the sister stock exchanges of Adelaide and Melbourne were similarly affected.

Clearly speculation was greatly restricted by the doubt and uncertainty existing as to the future of metal values. Copper still lacks strength, tin has failed to maintain the recovery started on July 10, whilst a fractional drop in lead is regarded as significant, as indicating a further fall.

The above state of affairs, aided by the undoubted slackness of share values in the London Stock Exchange, fully accounts for the local depression. In no case was the decline in the price of scrip due to unfavourable mine developments. Indeed, they were generally of a very satisfactory nature in the case of copper mines, and silver-lead-zinc properties, whilst the drop in the output of tin oxide from the Tongkah Compound is not to be regarded too seriously, as the tin deposit runs in "leads," and the good dirt must be taken with the bad.

Information to hand from Queensland states that Mr. W. H. Carbould, superintending engineer to the Mount Cuthbert Copper-mining Company, has visited the properties owned by it, and has chosen a site for the smelter, plans of which have been prepared, and tenders for its erection will be called for as soon as the second half of the railway line to the mine has been approved by the Queensland Government and Parliament. It is also reported that the group of mines owned by the company "are showing rich developments at the lower levels, and that smelting promises to start on a very large ore tonnage."

Equally satisfactory news is also to hand in the last report from the manager of the Mammoth Copper Mine. The furnaces were blown in on July 8, and are reported to be working satisfactorily. Good work is also being done by the ore-dressing plant, and as the mines are developing well, it looks as if the company has at last started on a long smelting campaign.

MINING NOTES.

Our Launceston correspondent telegraphs:—Messrs. E. L. and C. Baillieu have decided to have the Hercules Mine inspected by Mr. G. C. Klug, who recently made a detailed examination of the Tasmanian Copper Mine. Mr. Klug expects to be at the mine within 10 days.

BARRIER MINES.

At the B.H. North mine last week the Mullock Pass, from the 1250ft level, was deepened 26ft. The 1400ft cross-cut, in section 11, was taken to 115ft in lode, carrying 16 per cent. ore. A drive northwards off the main crosscut was taken 48ft along the lode, through 16 per cent. ore. The main north foot wall drive on this level was advanced to 155ft.

OCCIDENTAL GOLD-MINING COMPANY.

The report of operations at the above mine for the fortnight ended July 8 shows that work was suspended owing to want of water on Saturday, June 27. The big boiler was cleaned and examined, repairs and overhaul of some of the machinery were undertaken. Rain fell, commencing on June 30, and has given several months' supply of water. The mine was restarted on Monday, July 6.

Ore raised: For the six days worked 1123 trucks of ore (673.8 mine tons) were raised, and sent to battery. Average value, 11dwt 2gr gold per ton.

Stoping.—No. 1 level (gossan lode): S. drive stope is being timbered and level formed, after which ore-breaking will be restarted in the stope, and the level extended to the south. A rise has been put up 30ft above back of north end of stope, and connected to the old workings to the north for the purpose of obtaining air and filling. The other stopes at Nos. 2, 5, and 6 levels have worked for the six days, and produced fair average ore.

Development.—6 level, No. 1 N. drive: Smith's advanced a further 5ft; total, 168ft. Pulled 11 tons of ore, average value 13dwt 13gr gold per ton.

Treatment Plant.—Battery lost 77 shifts owing to the stoppage for water. During the stoppage some overflow battery sands and slimes were recovered from the overflow dams. Concentrates produced estimated at 9.5 tons, containing 91.7oz gold.

Slimes plant treated 1011 tons, containing 280oz gold. Recovered 231oz gold.

Average mine assay, 12dwt 22grs gold per ton; average battery assay, 11dwt 2gr gold per ton. Concentrates produced, 9.5 tons, containing 91.7oz gold.

WHITE CRYSTAL TIN MINE.

The latest report to hand from the manager of the above mine states:—"Main shaft skidded and centred to surface, ready for cages to work. No. 1 level, putting in ore pass shorts. West crosscut extended 3ft, in clean country. Poppett heads, skyshaft, and brace completed. Sand pits under construction."

MAMMOTH COPPER MINE.

The following is a copy of mine manager's progress report for the period ending the first half of July:—

Chieftain Mine.—No. 3 level: South drive advanced 24ft, total 308ft 6in, width ore body exposed 5ft 6in. Assaying 7 per cent. copper, 5oz silver, 1dwt gold per ton. Similar ore still extending into footwall.

North drive: Idle during period. It was necessary to stop drive until the side stoping of the level and the leading stope had been taken off No. 2 level to cross-cut east. Commenced during period to open up northern extension of the body of ore at present being worked at No. 3 level now in 9ft 3in from the shaft.

Stoping has been continued in No. 2 level and No. 3 level producing 100 tons ore daily.

Dressing plant running satisfactorily.

Traction engines have worked regularly.

Furnaces blown in July 8, and also running satisfactorily.

THE LATE MR. W. C. PIGUENIT.

Mr. W. C. Piguenit, who died at Saintonge, Hunter's Hill, on the 17th instant, was one of the best known of our Australian artists; but, owing to his retiring disposition, was personally known to a comparatively few. He was born at Claremont House, an old landmark in Hobart, in August, 1836. His father was the late Frederick Le Geyt Piguenit, who came of a well-known old French family, of which Mr. Piguenit was the last male representative.

He was for 22 years in the Survey Department of Hobart, and resigned in 1872 to follow the profession of an artist. His paintings illustrating the Western Highlands of Tasmania were purchased by the Tasmanian Government by a special act of Parliament, and the works are now in the Hobart Gallery. His oil painting of Mount Kosciusko in the national collection of New South Wales was executed by special commission from the trustees. Mr. Piguenit visited England in 1898 and again in 1900, and made many sketches of Welsh and English scenery. Three of them were purchased by Henry Graves and Co., of Pall Mall, London, who published high-class etchings of them. He also exhibited at the Grafton Gallery, London, at the exhibition of Australian artists in 1898, as well as in the Paris Salon.

Several of his works are in the National Gallery of New South Wales, including "The Flood in the Darling, 1890," "The Upper Nepean," "The Southern Headland of Tasmania," and "Mangroves in the Lane Cove River." He was twice awarded the Wynne prize, and had many gold medals from various exhibitions.

In 1880 Mr. Piguenit settled in Sydney, where he assisted in founding the Royal Art Society, of which he was vice-president for some years.

The funeral took place on Saturday at the Field of Mars Cemetery.

THE LATE MRS. JAMES EWAN.

The interment of the late Mrs. Ewan, widow of Mr. James Ewan, took place on Saturday, the remains being placed in the family mausoleum at Rookwood cemetery. Among those who attended at Glenleigh, Penrith, or Rookwood were Mr. W. M. Ewan, and Mr. O. W. Ewan (sons), Mrs. George Armstrong, Mrs. Cuthbert Hall, Mrs. J. Macdonald Gill, Miss Ewan, and Miss Margaret Ewan (daughters), Masters J. and W. Ewan (grandsons), Dr. George Armstrong, Dr. Cuthbert Hall, Dr. J. Macdonald Gill (sons-in-law), Mrs. J. O. Salmond, and Mrs. Manson (sisters-in-law), Mr. D. Yorke Syme (brother-in-law), Mrs. C. B. Fairfax, Mrs. E. Milford, Mrs. Stuart Osborne, Miss E. Palmer, and Mrs. J. Manning (nieces), Dr. Fred Watson, Mr. Alwyn Reid, Mr. W. Reid, Mr. Stuart Osborne, Mr. J. Manning, Mr. E. Milford, and Mr. G. Ewan (nephews), Mr. J. F. Hoare, Mr. and Mrs. Baker, Mr. T. M. Tinley, Mr. Bartin Haigh, Mr. R. Bradshaw, Mr. Percy Williamson, Mr. C. Strange, Miss Hynes, Mr. Hughes, and Mr. M. D. Mackey. The Rev. James M'Kee was the officiating minister.

THE LATE MR. R. CURTIS.

The funeral of the late Mr. Robert Curtis took place at the Waverley Cemetery on Saturday. The officiating clergyman was the Rev. Canon Wallace Mort, a former pupil of the deceased gentleman. Among those present were: Mr. Louis A. Curtis (son), Mr. L. M. Curtis (grandson), Mr. Justice Ferguson (son-in-law), Messrs. Arthur and Keith Ferguson (grandsons), Rev. W. H. H. Yarrington, Dr. MacIntyre Sinclair, Messrs. G. Sydney Jones, Algernon Peake, E. Blackwell, A. Spahno, A. L. Campbell (representing Mr. Justice Rich), T. G. Wilson, Frank Osborne (representing Norton, Smith, and Co.), G. O. Ellis, Gerald Marr Thompson, Dowell O'Reilly, Victor Couldery, T. Whittell, J. T. Ralston, W. Ridley, and H. S. Fitde.

LATE SUB-INSPECTOR DAVIS.

Sub-Inspector Alfred Davis, who collapsed in his office at the Redfern Police Station on Thursday morning, died in the Sydney Hospital yesterday, never having regained consciousness. The deceased police officer was born in Ireland in 1856. On his arrival in Australia he joined the South Australian police force, and served for three and a half years. He then came to New South Wales, joining the force here in 1885. Deceased was for many years in charge of the prosecutions at the Central Police Court. In 1910 he was promoted to the rank of Sub-Inspector, and placed in charge of No. 7 (Redfern) police district, a position he held at the time of his death. The funeral takes place this afternoon, at the Waverley Cemetery.

Fair fortune in an hour's flight,
May gladness bring to hearts forlorn;
And oft a dark and stormy night,
Is followed by a smiling morn.
Thus, deadly croup, which parents dread,
And anguished children oft endure—
Is in an hour resolved and sped,
By aid of Woods' Great Peppermint Cure.—Advt.

SPORTING.

THE TURF.

Trotting enthusiasts will be catered for to-day by the Richmond Club. A splendid entry has been received, including some of the best metropolitan performers. A special train will leave the Central Railway Station at 9.45 a.m.

The Gosford Racing Club will provide an outing for racegoers to-morrow, and as 117 entries have been received for the half-dozen events, an interesting day's sport should be witnessed. Special trains will leave the Central Railway station at 9.55 (horses), 10.40, and 11 a.m.

The Victoria Park Racing Club is offering £700 prize money for its meeting advertised for Saturday, July 25, each event carrying £100, entries for which close with the secretary, Mr. H. Cobcroft, at 5 p.m. to-day.

Mr. J. Underhill will receive entries up to 5 p.m. to-day for the pony and galloway meeting to be held at Ascot on Wednesday next.

The six events to be decided at Warwick Farm on Saturday, August 1, will require the attention of owners and trainers before 4 p.m. to-day, for at that hour entries close with the secretary, Mr. H. B. Dando.

Horse owners and trainers are reminded that entries close at 4 p.m. to-day for the Bank Holiday meeting to be held at Moorefield on August 3.

The Menangle Park Racing Club is offering £500 prize money for its opening meeting on August 6, £125 being allotted to the Menangle Park Handicap. Entries will be received by the secretary, Mr. H. R. Evans, up to 4 p.m. on Monday, July 27.

Up to 4 p.m. to-day Mr. E. Woodbury will receive entries for the six events to be run at Wyong Park on Tuesday, July 28.

On account of the heavy overnight rains the grass tracks were closed at Randwick on Saturday morning. Most of the regulars were out, but only did useful work on the tan and cinder tracks. The following horses exercised:—Ranello, Malthusian, Palawan, Bimeter, Valhalla, Nenna Cherubini, Camalus, Ventura, Alured, Woorak, Malt Mark, Gigandra, Indiscretion, Imshi, Azoic, Sir Tarka, Taunter, Moving Picture, Hyppolyte, Burri, Ulva's Isle, Aurifer, Aurofodina, Golden Hop, Balranald, Beragoon, Cagou, Feramorz, Secret Service, St. Spasa, and several others.

The Associated Racing Clubs announce in our business columns that jockeys who desire to be registered should send in their applications before noon to-day.

It was unfortunate for the backers of Merimee, in the Nursery Handicap at Rosehill on Saturday, that her pilot, W. Lillyman, came to grief early in the race. The Persian Knight filly was a pronounced favourite, and her connections expected her to give a good account of herself. The race proved a good thing for the Fend, who was rushed to the front at the end of the first furlong, and turned into the straight with a commanding lead. Bazetta, Duke of Wagga, and My Palm gave chase, but their efforts were hopeless, and Fend passed the judge's box an easy winner, the other places going to Bazetta and My Palm. Fend, who is the property of Mr. W. Fletcher, is by En Garde from Plush, by Havoc from Vilvet.

Mr. S. Hordern's imported mare Brunnhilda was made favourite for the Rosehill Handicap on Saturday, being backed from 5 to 2 to even money. There was also a good deal of money for Sir Vive, who started second favourite, and the pair fought out the finish. Thoolomi made most of the running, but when fairly in the straight, was challenged by Brunnhilda and Sir Vive. The lastnamed appeared to have an excellent chance of annexing the prize, but Brunnhilda responded gamely to Barnett's call, and passed the post with an advantage of a length and a half.

Happy Lady had such a commanding lead entering the straight in the Flying Handicap at Rosehill on Saturday that it seemed extremely unlikely that she would be beaten. Spurn, however, who had been her nearest opponent throughout, made a determined run, and, catching her at the half-distance, beat her home. Spurn, who is by Ayr Laddie (imp.) from Scornful, is the property of Mr. R. W. McFadyen, and evidently has a liking for soft going, as this is the third race she has won under these conditions.

The popular jockey, W. Lillyman, met with a serious accident at Rosehill on Saturday. He fell from Merimee at the start of the Nursery Handicap, and while on the ground received a kick on the head. Lillyman, who was in an unconscious condition, was conveyed to the casualty room, where Dr. Kerney found him to be suffering from concussion of the brain and lacerated wounds on the back of the head. On inquiry last night at Parramatta Hospital, where he was subsequently removed, it was learnt that he had regained consciousness, and that his condition was slightly better.

F. J. is informed that Hot Air's starting price in the Flying Handicap at Warwick Farm was 20 to 1 against.

Messrs. William Inglis and Son will offer for sale at their bazaar to-day the racehorses Flavedo, Bother Em, Plantes, Louis Brook, and the well-known New Zealand racing pony, Queenie Soult.

Our Broken Hill correspondent yesterday wired:—The racehorse Speak Out, owned by Mr. W. Morris, died on Friday evening from inflammation of the bowels. Speak Out was by Silent Friend, from a Corrie mare, and since her arrival from Melbourne had won five races in Broken Hill.

VICTORIAN SPORTING NOTES.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

Sheriff Muir, who won the Murrumbeena Handicap at Caulfield yesterday, is in the Epsom Handicap at 7st 7lb, Metropolitan at 7st 3lb, Caulfield Cup at 7st 4lb, including 3lb penalty, and Melbourne Cup at 7st.

What is known as Professor Hobday's operation for roaring was performed on Philio some time ago, and the horse's wind was considerably improved. The win of Philio at Caulfield yesterday was the first since he took the Maribyrnong Plate in 1910. He has not, however, done a great deal of racing, and did not make a single appearance in public last season.

The report of the Victoria Racing Club for the year ended June 30 shows that the expenditure exceeded receipts by £8232, and was caused by extensive improvements, £23,327, and completion of underground sewer, £13,000. Stakes amounting to £74,372 were provided, including £61,600 of added money, being £9562 over those of the previous year. The added money for the racing season was increased by £10,500. The control of racing by the stipendiary stewards had been working satisfactorily, and that the system was finding approval in country districts was evidenced by the fact that on application from various clubs outside the metropolitan area stipendiaries were provided for 106 race meetings. A profit was made on the following meetings:—Grand National, 1913, £753; August, 1913, £872; October, 1913, £557; spring, 1913, £20,677; New Year's Day, 1914, £2457; June, 1914, £2694. The autumn meeting, 1914, showed a loss of £181.

ROSEHILL RACES.

SPURN WINS FLYING HANDICAP.

BRUNNHILDA ROSEHILL HANDICAP.

The weather indications on Saturday were by no means encouraging for the Rosehill July Meeting, for the rain of the previous days was supplemented by intermittent showers. Still, there was a good muster in both reserves, as the horses took the track for the first event. The going, though a trifle holding, was thoroughly sound, as was shown by the satisfactory times recorded. Speculation was brisk, and, as the winners included three first favourites and one second favourite, the results were against the books. The only mishap occurred in the Nursery Handicap, W. Lillyman receiving a nasty fall from Merimee, which necessitated his removal to the Parramatta Hospital. The general arrangements were ably supervised by the secretary, Mr. Rowe. The results of the racing are as follows:—

HURDLE RACE of 150 sovs, second horse 35 sovs, and third 15 sovs from the prize. 2m.

VICTORIA AMATEUR TURF CLUB.

JULY MEETING.

SHERIFF MUIR WINS MURRUMBENA HANDICAP.

WEENOBAH GODFREY WATSON, STEEPLECHASE.

MELBOURNE, Saturday.

The weather was bright and sharp for the V.A.T.C. meeting at Caulfield this afternoon, and the attendance was a very large one.

There were eight starters for the Leamington Hurdle Race. Darrawa was momentarily favourite, and then Capintesta took his place. At one time 2 to 1 was the best price on offer against Capintesta, but he bolted before the start, and as it transpired that his trainer only gave him a fair chance, he receded at the barrier rise to 4 to 1. Still, he started favourite, while Darrawa and Nimrod were next in demand. Capintesta led all the way. He ran out at the last hurdle, yet was able to win easily by half a length from Blind Harry. Capintesta was ridden by F. Burn, who also trains him. Mimmie fell about a mile from home, and fractured one of his elbows. The jockey, J. P. Edwards, was knocked out for a time, but subsequently recovered.

The Lillimur Two-year-old attracted eleven runners, with Adorn best favourite, but she was never dangerous. Sanctity led to the distance, where Linass and Trusty Servant passed her, and after an interesting finish Trusty Servant won by a neck. The success of Trusty Servant was all in favour of the bookmakers, though some of them laid a fair amount against him at long prices.

E. Turner on Lord Grey made a freak race of the Murrumbeena Handicap. As soon as the barrier rose he drove Lord Grey to the front, and rode him hard to get a break. The grey was eight lengths in front at the back, but Marculfus and Sheriff Muir got within striking distance of him at the straight entrance. Lord Grey, however, hung on to the half-distance, where Sheriff Muir was on terms, and he beat him home by a length. Marculfus, who again failed to show any brilliancy in his finish, was a moderate third. This was Sheriff Muir's first win since he took the V.R.C. Sirs' Produce Stakes in March, 1912, and is was only his second victory during his career on the turf.

Pladda was a hot favourite for the Godfrey Watson Steeplechase, with Weenobah next in demand. The backers of Pladda had a poor run for their money, as he failed to get over the first fence. Don Q. tried to lead all the way, but he made a bad jump at the back, and Weenobah, running past him, was never afterwards headed, eventually winning easily by a dozen lengths from Algabohnyah.

Wishing Cap was favourite for the Kambrook Corinthian, and he duly won, but his chance at one time looked anything but good.

The day's racing concluded with the Malvern Welter, which brought out a field of 25. At one time odds of 5 to 1 were offered on the field, but there was a great run on the New Zealander, De Gama, who went out at 9 to 4; while odds of 7 to 1 were on offer bar one. Philio ran to the front at the railway side, cleared right away from the field, and eventually won, with half a dozen lengths to spare from Cairn Wallace; while De Gama, who came fast when he got through the field, was third. Philio was well backed, and at one time touched 8 to 1, but odds of 10 to 1 were available at barrier rise.

G. Foskett will be manager. The team will play South Australia on the 12th and Victoria on the 15th.

WOMEN'S HOCKEY.

ENGLAND BEATS NEW SOUTH WALES.

INTERNATIONAL TOURNAMENT.

Rian fell during nearly the whole of the hockey match between the women players of England and New South Wales at the Rushcutter Bay Oval on Saturday. England won by 7 to 3. The teams were:—

New South Wales.—Goal, N. Warden; backs, B. Walsh, J. Guthrie; halves, P. Clubbe, J. M'Murtrie, A. Lewers; forwards, E. Wallach, R. Lewers, M. Lyall, S. Meares, and N. Meares (captain).

England.—Goal, S. Wetherall; backs, C. Smith, E. Tuke; halves, M. Robinson, C. Gatey, V. Lambley; forwards, B. Tuke, M. Eames, M. Morgan, V. Elwell, and C. Gaskell (captain).

Soon after the bully-off, Miss Wallach, dribbling effectively for about thirty yards, reached England's circle, and a splendid cross-shot gave New South Wales the first goal. After a good battle in the centre of the ground, the local forwards, by good stick work, again reached the opposition goal, with no one to repel them but England's goal. Miss Meares's shot was hard and true, and secured the second goal for her side.

The English women now began to play an uphill game well. A forward rush brought the ball into the New South Wales circle, where a shot for goal went over the net. The whistle blew several times for off-side play on the part of the local ladies. Good defence by Miss Warden several times saved the situation. The play was then transferred to England's territory, where chances of scoring were blocked by goal's good defence. England quickly got the ball to the other end, where from the right corner a hard drive to the circle was hand-stopped by Miss Eames, and the English captain's shoot went hard and true into the net. Score: 2 to 1 in favour of New South Wales.

Encouraged by breaking the ice, England attacked with great vigour, and in a few minutes Miss Morgan scored a capital goal—2 all. The visitors two minutes later scored again by admirable centring to Miss Gaskell, whose shooting was unerring. Just before half-time England got another goal, and led by 4 to 2.

For the rest of the game, the English forwards and halves outplayed the opposition, and four more goals went to the old country's credit. Once New South Wales had a good chance of scoring when in their opponents' circle, but they got in each other's way. The centre of the ground was now under water.

Calls of "Blue, Blue," seemed to rally New South Wales, for Miss Lewers scored a good goal for her side. The final scores were: England 7 goals, New South Wales 3.

The goal-hitters were: England—Miss Gaskell, 3; Miss Morgan 3, Miss Eames 1. New South Wales: Miss Wallach 1, Miss N. Meares 1, Miss Lewers 1.

This game was quite the best of the series. The New South Wales team played much better than in the previous match against England. Their failure may be partly ascribed to slowness in shooting in the circle, and partly to insufficient support from the halves, not that the latter played badly, but they aimed more at stopping England scoring than helping their own forwards to score.

The local players' first two goals were obtained by work of all the forwards, who have improved in the passing game, but are not yet as clever as the English women in giving and taking short passes. Miss N. Meares played a great game, her pace and dash being equal to that of any one in the two teams.

England's forwards worked in complete unison, discarding individual effort, which was in evidence too often on the losers' side.

The umpires were: Mr. F. A. Eastaugh and Mr. N. H. N. Blain.

The matches for to-day are South Australia v Tasmania, 1.30 p.m.; and England v. Victoria, 3.15 p.m.

CROQUET.

BRISBANE, Sunday.

At the interstate croquet tournament on Saturday, the principal events resulted as follow:—Mixed doubles championship: Mrs. Holdsworth and Mr. Gordon beat Mrs. Hall and Mr. Payne by 20 points. Singles championship: Mrs. Holdsworth beat Miss O'Connor by 22 points.

BASEBALL.

COMPETITION GAMES.

Saturday's games were well attended at Waverley, Petersham, and Leichhardt, notwithstanding that the enthusiasts risked a wetting. The results of the district division games do not alter the position of the four leading teams, Waverley being still at the head of affairs, followed by Leichhardt, Petersham, and Paddington, in that order.

In the No. 1 section of the A division Waverley II., by defeating Petersham Junior, take the lead; the latter and St. George being equal in the second position. In the No. 2 section Dulwich Hill retain their substantial lead.

DISTRICT DIVISION.

PETERSHAM v PADDINGTON.

Played at Petersham oval, and won by Paddington, 12-6. Notwithstanding the rain, there was a large attendance. Mr. A. Francis started the pitching for Petersham, but retired in favour of Clarke after the fourth innings. The latter was rather inaccurate, and allowed six bases on balls. He, however, effected six strike outs. Paddington were much the better side on the day, although their safe hits (eight) were fewer than those of Petersham (eleven), and their field errors (seven) more numerous than those of Petersham (five). The difference in the scores is accounted for by the fact that Paddington batted more effectively, and that their pitcher was more accurate. Batteries: Petersham: M. A. Francis and N. Clark (pitchers), H. W. Turner (catcher). Paddington: C. Franks (pitcher) and A. Bragg (catcher). C. Franks pitched well throughout, and was well supported by his catcher. R. Cayee, at short-stop, caught five "fly," two of which were splendid efforts. C. L. Sayle, at second base, also played well. The best batters for the side were C. Vaughan, F. G. Tucker, and R. Cayee, with two safe hits each. For Petersham, E. H. Dean fielded well at centre, likewise V. Donowa at third base. J. Moriaty fielded second bag in place of R. W. Law, the latter being absent in Brisbane. Paddington started their first innings with three runs, and scored five in their fifth when no fewer than eleven batsmen faced the pitcher; this practically settled Petersham's chances of winning. Umpire: Mr. T. J. Proud.

Paddington: 3, 0, 1, 1, 5, 0, 2, 0—12.
Petersham: 0, 3, 1, 2, 1, 0, 2, 0, 0—6.

UNIVERSITY v LANE COVE.

University defeated Lane Cove 9-5 in a game in which the striking of both sides was fairly equal. 'Varsity notched one run in their first innings, and four in their third. This gave them a lead (5-2) which was not overhauled. P. Johnston pitched for Lane Cove to the catching of C. W. Simmonds. F. Farrar pitched well for University, and had good support from his catcher, L. Hunter. C. R. Campling batted well, and caught several flys at centrefield; his base-running also was good. W. Broadbent (Lane Cove) was good at short-stop; and J. Turner was safe at first base. Mr. D. M. Angus umpired.

University ...... 1 0 4 1 0 0 0 2 1—9
Lane Cove ...... 0 2 0 1 0 1 1 0 0—5

WAVERLEY v MOSMAN-NORTH SYDNEY.

Waverley defeated Mosman-North Sydney at Waverley Oval 16-5. Batteries: G. Brown (pitcher) and S. Gresham (catcher), for Waverley; H. Woolcott (pitcher) and W. W. Chapman (catcher), for Mosman-North Sydney. As the early game was abandoned on account of rain, there did not seem much prospect of a start at time set down, but both teams were anxious to play, and a far better game resulted than the scores would seem to indicate. Waverley showed superior batting, base-running, and fielding, Waverley scored in every innings but one. G. Brown pitched more accurately for Waverley than H. Woolcott did for Mosman. The former struck out six, and gave four bases on balls, and the latter four strike-outs, and seven free passes. W. W. Chapman (Mosman) hit a home run in the seventh innings, and tallied four runners. Umpire, Mr. W. Hildebrandt.

Waverley .... 5 4 0 3 2 1 1—16
Mosman-North Sydney 1 0 0 0 0 0 4—5

LEICHHARDT v BURWOOD.

Leichhardt "chicagoed" Burwood, at Leichhardt, the result being 18-0. Batteries: H. Franks (pitcher) and J. Franks (catcher) for Leichhardt; J. Ritchie (pitcher) and V. W. Peterson (catcher) for Burwood. The battery work of Leichhardt was first-class, and practically comprised the whole of the field work; G. Stephens (first base) and T. Bury (second base) were in good form. A. Diamond made his first appearance for Burwood this season, and filled his old position at first base—H. Granger being absent.

Leichhardt, 2, 0, 5, 2, 3, 0, 0, 0, 6—18.
Burwood, 0.

A DIVISION.

No. 1 Section.

Waverley II. defeated Petersham Junior, 10-8. This was the early game at Petersham Park, and proved very interesting. A. Kippax struck out nine for Waverley, and allowed one free pass; A. Panton (Petersham Junior) struck out four, and allowed one free pass. W. Ford and A. Kippax batted well for winners, and Tonkin for losers. Umpire, Mr. G. L. Sayle.

LACROSSE.

MELBOURNE WANDERERS v MANLY WANDERERS.

The Melbourne Wanderers were defeated by Manly Wanderers in the concluding match of their tour, the final scores being 5-4 in favour of the local team. Teams:—

Melbourne Wanderers.—C. H. Johanson, R. E. Summers, S. R. Pook, W. A. Clarke (captain), C. A. Pullman, S. M. Lewis, G. K. Dawes, G. A. Beech, K. Day, E. W. Wilson, S. Clarke, N. Beech.

Manly Wanderers.—R. H. Walker, F. Roberts, M. M'Intosh, R. Vallack, F. Bowker, R. Hawkins, W. Davis, F. M'Mahon, E. Scott, A. Thornell, A. H. Smith, A. S. Farebrother (captain).

When the match commenced the oval was under water. There was a large attendance. The visitors played best during the opening quarter, and led at the bell by 2-1. Immediately after the change S. Clarke again scored for Melbourne, the result of a fine attack movement. Davis, the local centre, added to the Manly score. The visitors were very adept in stickwork and team tactics, but were confronted by a strong defence, Vallack and Roberts being at all times prominent. Half-time scores were:—Melbourne 3, Manly 2.

Clarke scored for the visitors in the third quarter, but a rally by the local players resulted in two goals being scored by Farebrother. The forwards of Manly were not seen to advantage, their passing being below form. Of the two centres, Davis, of Manly, was the better, though his stickwork in the field was weak.

The scores were 4 all when the final quarter commenced. The visitors' defence played too far out, and as a result Smith scored the winning goal for Manly. The Beech brothers again played exceptionally well for Melbourne, but were too closely marked to be dangerous. Summers and Clarke were the backbone of the Melbourne defence. Walker, in goal, was the star man of the local team, other prominent men being M'Mahon and M'Intosh.

COMPETITION MATCHES.

SYDNEY v EASTERN SUBURBS.

Played on the submerged ground at Waverley, No. 2, and resulted in a win for Sydney by 6-2. The match was strenuously contested, but the ground militated against good lacrosse. The game was practically won in the first quarter, when Sydney scored 4 goals to their opponents' 1. Thence onward it was an even though interesting game. Each side scored a goal in the second term, Sydney thus leading at the interval by 5-2. In the third quarter, which was scoreless, the goalkeepers predominated. Of the two, the Sydney man had more work to do, and made no mistakes. The Sydney forwards were not seen to advantage in the final quarter, crowding goal being perceptible. Eastern Suburbs made strenuous but unsuccessful efforts to score. Hopkins added Sydney's sixth goal. All the winners played exceptionally well, but Yuille, in goal, was brilliant. Greenberg, Deane, Dawson, and Thomas were the best of the local team. Mr. Sanderson acted as referee.

BALMAIN v UNIVERSITY.

Played at Birchgrove Oval, and won easily by Balmain by 21-6. The defeated team only played well at intervals. The game was very fast, but the stickwork was moderate. The half-time scores were 10-2 in favour of Balmain. Mr. Fordyce refereed.

PETERSHAM v MANLY.

Played at Manly Oval, and won by the visitors by 14-0. Petersham led at the end of the first quarter by 3-0, and at the second by 7-0. The local team's play, particularly in attack, was weak. Petersham again added 7 goals in the second half, though they were not secured by the best of tactics. Mr. Boone acted as referee.

MOSMAN v ST. GEORGE.

Played on the Domain, and won by the former by 12-2. Mosman led at the first quarter by 4-0, their attack play being exceptionally fine. St. George rallied in the second, but their dash was short-lived. Half-time scores: Mosman 8, St. George 1. The third quarter was the best of the match. Ere the final whistle Mosman added 4 more goals, Moore being prominent. Gurney, Lecchi, and Webb played well for the winners, and L. Moore and Hatfield for the losers.

B GRADE.

SENIOR SECTION.

Balmain defeated Mosman at Moore Park by 6-4.
Petersham Federals beat Petersham II. at Burwood by 8-2.

JUNIOR SECTION.

Y.M.C.A. beat Delewares on the Domain by 4-0. Mosman C beat Moore College at Moore Park by 9-1. Bexley beat Eastern Suburbs on the Domain by 14-1. Alderson, for Bexley, was the best player.

BOXING.

HOLLAND DEFEATS DARCY.

There was a record gathering at the Rushcutter Bay Stadium on Saturday evening to witness the contest between Fritz Holland, of the United States, and Les. Darcy, a Maitland blacksmith, not yet 19 years of age. Darcy is a kind of hero in the Maitland and Newcastle districts, and many hundreds came down by two special trains from these places to witness the match. There was not a vacant seat anywhere, even the passages were blocked, and some thousands had to be turned away.

Great things were expected of Darcy; in fact, too much for one so young in the art. The sympathies of the great crowd were with the boy, and whenever he scored they cheered him to the echo. He opened up well, tired in the middle of the contest, and appeared to have regained his strength towards the finish. But the older man had more ring generalship and experience at his command, and he was able to withstand the onslaughts of the Australian. It was a clean contest from start to finish. Both boxers smiled at each other when one or other either connected or missed, and at one time when Darcy went down, partly to a blow on the neck and partly to slipping, Holland gave him a hand up to his feet again. Darcy possesses great courage, he has wonderful stamina, is a fast two-handed boxer, and he always went after his man. With more experience in ringcraft he should prove a hard man to beat in the middleweight class. He can stand punishment just as well as he can give it. He was good at in-fighting, but misjudged his blows at long-distance range. Holland was puzzled in the opening rounds, but from the third to the eleventh he outpointed his opponent. The thirteenth, fourteenth, and fifteenth were Darcy's, and in the remaining rounds, except in the eighteenth, Holland had a shade the better of it. The referee, Mr. Harald Baker, had no hesitation in giving the decision to Holland. But the crowd did not take kindly to it, and hooted and boohooed for a considerable time.

In a six-round preliminary between George Lane and Clive Cavanagh, the former won on points. The second preliminary, between Artie Powell and Joe Johnston, was extended to 10 rounds, Powell getting the decision. Mr. F. Baker was referee.

AMATEUR TOURNAMENT.

The amateur tournament promoted by the Railway and Tramway Recreation Club was continued at the Olympia Stadium, Newtown, on Friday evening. Mr. Les. Corbett was the referee. Results:—

Bantamweight Division.—Young Davis (Redfern) was too good for N. Shubeck (Paddington), the towel being thrown in from the latter's corner in the second round. W. J. Overton (Riverstone) gained a points decision over G. Cockling (Marrickville) at the end of four one-sided rounds.

Featherweight Division.—Billy Edwards (Dulwich Hill) outpointed J. Burgess (Darlington), and A. Cockling (Marrickville) similarly defeated Jack Hart (Newtown). Jimmy Clabby (Rozelle) proved more than a match for C. A. Walker (Marrickville), the referee stopping the bout in the second round and giving Clabby the decision. Sid. Goodwin (Newtown) received a forfeit from Ray O'Donnell (Darlington).

Lightweight Division.—In the contest between F. Wheeler (Bondi) and G. Thomas (Newtown), the latter was sent to the boards in the second round, and his towel was thrown in. Wheeler was declared the winner. Hugh McKay (Enmore) won on points from G. Kean (Petersham) after four strenuous rounds. J. Belfield (Ashfield) outclassed N. C. Blackford (Erskineville), and after the latter had been knocked down three times in the second round the referee stopped the contest and declared Belfield the winner. Jack Burns (city) forfeited to Snowy Frost (North Sydney), and F. Bull (Botany) to J. McArthur (St. Peters).

Welterweight Division.—L. Jackson (Canterbury) and G. H. Clambuck (Erskineville) put up four lively rounds, the former gaining the decision. F. W. Chalker (Rozelle) beat Jack Davis (Newtown) in the second round, the latter's towel being thrown in. Bert Lake (St. Peters) forfeited to George Wright (Leichhardt).

Middleweight Division.—Dave Knott (Paddington) received a forfeit from Jack Henry (Newtown).

Heavyweight Division.—In the bout between Winkie Burns (Newtown) and F. Deane (Enmore), the former sent Deane to the boards with a right to the jaw in the first round, and while the latter was on his knees Burns rushed in and struck him. Deane consequently got the decision on a foul. F. McCarthy (Newtown) and Ben Roy (Banksia) went the full four rounds, but the referee could not decide the winner. Another round was ordered, and McCarthy gained the verdict.

O'NEILL v WELLING.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

A 20-rounds contest between Sapper O'Neill (Ireland) and Joe Welling (America) at West Melbourne Stadium last night, resulted in a draw.

KING BEATS WILLIAMS.

BRISBANE, Sunday.

The contest between Mick King (Aust.) and Nat Williams (England) at Baker's Stadium on Saturday night culminated in a sensational finish. In the tenth round Williams was rushing in, when King sent him down. At four he jumped up, only to be knocked down again, and he was lying full length when the towel came in from his corner. At that instant Williams jumped up and rushed at King. On the referee declaring King the winner there was some disorder, the seconds crowding into the ring. Calmness was soon restored. King injured his left hand early in the contest.

RUGBY UNION TEST.

NEW ZEALAND DEFEATS AUSTRALIA.

BY 5 POINTS TO NIL.

STIRRING WET-WEATHER GAME.

At the Sports Ground on Saturday New Zealand defeated Australia on a rain-sodden ground by 5 points to nil. This was the first test match of the New Zealanders' tour. Heavy rain fell right up to the commencement, and during the greater part of the first half, and the ball became very greasy.

The attendance was about 10,000, including their Excellencies the Governor-General and the State Governor, and those who braved the elements were rewarded by witnessing one of the most stirring wet-weather games in the history of the Rugby Union game in this State.

The feature of the match was the remarkable dash and skill displayed by the Australian forwards. A week earlier the New South Wales vanguard, five of whom took part in Saturday's engagement, made a gallant attempt to hold their formidable opponents, but superior team tactics and combination prevailed, and New Zealand won by a substantial margin. The Australian pack, strengthened by Williams, who "hooked" so successfully in New Zealand last season, Murphy, and Thompson, from Queensland, were expected to put up a much sturdier game against the "All Blacks," but even the most sanguine Australian supporters did not anticipate such a magnificent bid for forward supremacy as was made by the Australian "eight" on Saturday.

GLORIOUS FORWARDS.

Never did eight better trained men bow their heads in a scrummage, never did eight players go from first to last with greater determination. "Come along, boys!" cried Harold George. "The boys" went along. There was no avoiding their clutches. Each held his man and put him down. The New Zealanders were also a remarkably strong pack, but the Australians were much the better lot. They pushed their opponents off the ball, and when it got into the loose they were simply immense. They would come raging down the field, and the "Black" forwards could not hold them, but E. Roberts, the scrum-half, performed deeds of heroism, and the five-eighths and "threes" dashed in, tackled, and punted for touch, and in this way stalled off the big, raw-boned, heavy, dashing Australian attacks.

SPORTING SPIRIT.

There was a deal at stake in Saturday's game. The New Zealanders had so far only experienced one defeat in a test match in Australia (1910), and once at home (1913), and they were out to secure their hundredth win in all matches played since they commenced coming to Australia just 30 years ago. The great rivalry between the two nations always provokes a keen struggle, but the revival of the Rugby Union game in Sydney this season acted as a further incentive to both teams to give a vigorous and strenuous display. And a hard match did result. Knocks were given—they are expected in Rugby football. Occasionally, however, a little too much warmth was imparted to the play in the first spell, and fists were used in more than one instance. These incidents were the only blots on the game. Illegal tactics and the rough play appear to be a sine qua non in New Zealand football as played in Sydney, but such tactics should be the last to be employed by such expert players. The interstate matches between New South Wales are singularly free from these illegalities.

AUSTRALIA THE MORE AGGRESSIVE.

Taking the trend of play from the moment of Wilson's kick-off till the sounding of Referee Pauling's "no-side" whistle, the Australians were undoubtedly the more aggressive side. In fact, from a territorial viewpoint, the All Blacks were rarely dangerous, although, McNeece scored the only try of the match. Perhaps it will be said that this successful effort on the part of the visiting forwards was the result more of good fortune than meritorious play. However, it would be unfair to the New Zealanders to deduct from the merit of their victory on this score, as the work which led up to McNeece's try was clever. Tasker certainly let his opponents through in attempting to "speculate" from a dribbling rush by Downing, Bruce, and McNeece, but after the Newtown outside half-back was passed the first-mentioned New Zealander gave a delightful exhibition of footwork, and raced the ball to the Australian line, where from the ensuing scramble McNeece scored. Graham goaled by a magnificent kick, and New Zealand led by five points to nil. Two-thirds of the game had expired when this incident happened, and the pace amongst the forwards had been tremendously fast. The Australians now literally hurled themselves into the fray, and again and again their forwards gallantly worked the play to within striking distance of their opponents' line, only to be repulsed.

NEW ZEALAND'S WONDERFUL DEFENCE.

In the opening match of their present tour the New Zealanders gave us an idea of the remarkable pace and combination of the New Zealand rear division, and Saturday's display demonstrated high-class work in another important phase of the game. Rarely have been witnessed such magnificent defensive tactics as were adopted by E. Roberts, Ryan, O'Brien, and R. Roberts, the little scrummage-worker and Ryan in particular showing out. The well-nigh irresistible rushes of the Australian front-line created no fear in the hearts of these two gallant defenders, and their work in the second half, when the side was fighting with all the grit and determination characteristic of the New Zealander, deserved the Victoria Cross of football.

VICTORS' SUPERIOR KICKING AND TACTICS.

As the Australian forwards did so well, and were nursed very ably, especially during the second half, by Dwyer, whose handling, line-kicking, and clearances were excellent, the question arises: Where did the New Zealanders outplay us? It was in the finer points of the game where they showed superiority. E. Roberts and Ryan used the touch line with deadly effectiveness, especially when playing against the wind. Nine out of ten teams possessing such a splendid back division would have attempted the handling game on Saturday, but heady tacticians like E. Roberts and Ryan recognised the futility of such a manoeuvre, and concentrated on the line. The Australian backs were not so successful in piloting the sodden and greasy ball in the desired direction, and their failures were always readily seized upon by the New Zealand pair, and as a consequence their returns rarely missed raising the touch judges' flag, more especially in the second spell, when the wind was behind them. Had the Australian backs kept the ball more in play during the first spell, when they had the wind in their favour, the result might have been different, as the New Zealanders would have been given many opportunities of making mistakes in catching the greasy ball. As it was, the visitors kicked for the line to gain ground, but never when in attacking positions. On the other hand, the Australians tried to find the line on all occasions.

Again, on the line-outs the New Zealanders were enterprising, as the quick throw-out was often responsible for valuable ground being gained. In this respect, they get right away from the orthodox, and when their position justified it, the man forced out threw the ball in without waiting for any line-out. Supports were always handy. On the other hand, the Australians never attempted to get away from the stereotyped throw-out, although late in the game Wallach tried to emulate the New Zealanders' methods on one occasion, but wrongly adjudged his position, and was recalled by the flagman.

PROMINENT NEW ZEALANDERS.

O'Brien, like his vis-a-vis, Dwyer, played a faultless full-back game. His manipulation of the greasy ball was wonderfully accurate. The "threes" rarely if ever attempted the passing game, and confined their energies to supporting their front-line in checking the persistent Australian forward attacks. Of the forwards, Downing, McNeece, and Irvine were about the pick; but, on the whole, the New Zealanders were unequal to their lusty opponents in all departments of the game.

ILLEGAL WING-FORWARD TACTICS.

Graham, the New Zealand wing-forward, no doubt played the game to which he is accustomed in his own country, but according to the strict reading of the off-side rule, he was an illegal "obstructionist" from first to last. Wing-forwards of his stamp are nothing more than aimless off-side jostlers, who do more harm to their side than anything else. Mr. Pauling kept a fairly tight rein on him; nevertheless, he was allowed too much privilege, and on two occasions his glaringly unfair methods led to opponents retaliating with their fists.

In conclusion it might be stated that Wallach appeared to score a try for Australia in the first half. Thompson, the N.S.W. forward, dropped the ball when over the line, and Wallach fell on it and scored. Mr. Pauling adjudged that Thompson threw forward.

THE PLAY.

Australia won the toss, and Wilson's kick-off was well gathered by Francis, and kicked out at midfield. From the line out play became fast and vigorous. Baker and George headed an Australian rush, which looked promising, while E. Roberts found touch. E. Roberts tried at goal from well out, but his kick, though a good one, lacked sufficient force. For a while the bustling tactics of the New Zealanders hemmed the Australians, but clean defence by Tasker and good footwork by George, Watson, and Williams transferred play to neutral territory. A lull followed, and then Dwyer marked a high punt from O'Brien, and Wogan unsuccessfully tried at goal.

At this stage the New Zealand forwards, led by Irvine, were putting in some very effective work in the line-outs, and were coming away in a body, but sterling defence by Francis and Dwyer prevented them becoming really dangerous. After a spell of hard play on the Australian side of half-way, R. Roberts evoked a great burst of cheering by a magnificent line kick. The Australian vanguard were now getting into their stride, and were nipping in the bud the attacks from the line-outs which marked the New Zealanders' opening efforts.

AGGRESSIVE AUSTRALIANS.

George and Williams, at the head of a bunch of forwards, raised the hopes of Australia's supporters by dribbling the ball away from a ruck at midfield. A knock-back to Wood from a line-out sent the little Glebe man off at top pace, but he was grandly tackled by R. Roberts and Ryan. The Australians were working like Trojans, and the excitement was intense. On one occasion George, Thompson, Watson, and Wallach carried the ball over the line, but Mr. Pauling awarded New Zealand a force down, although Wallach grounded the ball. It was a close call for New Zealand. The Australians again crossed the line, but a five-yards scrum was ordered. The Blues returned to the attack for some time, but could not break through. Williams, for Australia, was raking with marked success, and Wood was endeavouring to open up the play for his backs, but Tasker and Wogan were generally in difficulties with the greasy ball, and, as a result, many promising movements went amiss. Judicious line kicking by O'Brien and Roberts gradually lifted the Blue siege, and then New Zealand took a turn at attack. A brilliant bout of passing was effected by E. Roberts, Ryan, and Black, but a magnificent tackle by Flynn grassed the lastnamed; from an ensuing scramble the ball was rushed into touch. Encouraged by this success, the New Zealanders stormed the Australian citadel with great determination, but wonderful defence by Dwyer and Flynn kept them at bay.

EXCITING PLAY.

The game now fairly pulsated with tit-bits of thrilling football; the Australian forwards, led by George and Baker (who dribbled cleverly), were playing grandly. Attack after attack was instituted, but the watchful defence of E. Roberts, O'Brien, and Ryan was too keen. Then Lynch and Ryan, by a snappy exchange of passes, temporarily raised the hopes of New Zealand, but Dwyer hurled himself at the winger just as he was clapping on the pace, and grassed him magnificently. Mr. Pauling here missed several glaring infringements by Graham, although a moment later an extra audacious piece of interference by the wing forward brought Australia a penalty, which Wood made good use of. After this Flynn burst through a ruck of opponents with the ball at toe, but the supporting forwards overran the ball, and O'Brien cleared convincingly. A quick throw-in from touch by New Zealand threatened danger, as it caught the defence napping, but over-anxiousness led to a fumble, and the Australians were saved. The defence of both teams up till this stage had been very good, the work of Dwyer, Flynn, and Wood for Australia, and Ryan, E. Roberts, O'Brien for New Zealand being of a very high class, although the kicking by the three Australians should have been high, and towards mid-field, and not towards the line. Both teams took another turn at attack without appreciable result, and then half-time was called.

SECOND HALF.

Wallach kicked off, and the Australian forwards immediately became assertive. Baker, Watson, and George carrying play right to the visitors' line, where, however, Ryan saved grandly. Play became very fast. On one occasion the alertness of Dwyer nearly led to a score, but the full-back kicked a little too hard after making a splendid opening, and Taylor forced.

HIGHLY EXCITED SPECTATORS.

The enthusiasm of the spectators was reminiscent of the olden days of the Rugby Union code, and such enthusiasm demonstrated that first-class football is full of all the thrills that are so dear to the hearts of all true lovers of good wholesome sport. Close "blind" side strategy by Ryan now set Taylor off at a fast clip, but Dwyer was equal to the occasion, and with the help of Williams and Thompson sent the New Zealanders back to neutral territory.

NEW ZEALAND IN COMBINATION.

The New Zealanders were now making a brave effort to take the play away from the Australian forwards, who were proving masters of both the scrummage and loose play. Ryan set his backs moving from a line-out in dashing style. The handling of the greasy ball was excellent, but the defence of the two Queensland three-quarters was equal to the occasion. Dwyer was playing at the top of his form, and on one occasion he fairly "brought down the house" by diving off the feet of several New Zealand rushers, and cleverly fielding his own kick. The ball literally flew up and down the field, first Wallach, Murphy, Thompson, and George headed an Australian stampede goalwards; and then M'Neece, Irwin, and Francis were equally effective with a fine burst of dribbling from a line-out. O'Brien, for New Zealand, and Flynn, for Australia, were doing a tremendous amount of work in defence during these sorties. Heavy ruck work kept play close for awhile, and then the tension was broken by Wallach breaking away in fine style and passing to Murphy. The service was a little low, however, and the Queenslander manipulated cleverly without attempting to gather the ball. From the line-out, the Australians hurled themselves at the line, and every man in the front line was playing as if his life depended on the result. It was strenuous football of the highest order, and was exhilarating to watch. Gradually Lynch and Ryan worked the ball back, and play hovered at midfield.

OPPORTUNISM SUCCEEDS.

From some ruck work, M'Neece and Downing emerged with the ball at toe, and Tasker, in endeavouring to frustrate them by "speculating," missed badly, and before the Australians realised the seriousness of the position, Downing was racing goalwards with the ball at toe. The big forward covered about 20 yards in fine style. Comrades now joined in, and after a short rally with the Blue defenders right on the latters' line, M'Neece dived over, and scored. Graham added the extras by a superb kick. New Zealand 5 points to nil.

THE NEW ZEALANDERS SPARKLE.

This success instilled great confidence into the visitors, as they immediately resumed the attack, and for fully 10 minutes they gave Ward, Flynn, Francis, and Wogan a parlous time. On two occasions, short, sharp passing bouts nearly succeeded; but Francis gallantly came to the rescue. The Australians, now recognising that they were now "up against it," but steadying themselves, made resolute dashes, and again took a big grip on the game.

THE BLUES BRILLIANT.

A magnificent burst of passing by Wogan, Flynn, and Francis, then back to Flynn, electrified the crowd, but the last-named lost the ball, and a grand opening was lost. The Australians kept up the pressure, but they were unable to break through the impregnable defence of E. Roberts, Ryan, R. Roberts, and O'Brien, and the final whistle was sounded with New Zealand victors after one of the best wet-weather exhibitions of football ever witnessed in Sydney. The teams were:—

Wood (N.S.W., Capt.); forwards, W. T. Walton (N.S.W.), D. Williams (Q.), H. George (N.S.W.), C. Wallach (N.S.W.), P. Murphy (Q.), J. Thompson (Q.), F. Thompson (N.S.W.), H. Baker (N.S.W.).

HANDS CRACKED AND PEELED.

"Coo-ee" Ohirnside-street, Footscray, Vic.—"The affection from which I suffered is, thanks to Cuticura, quite cured. It first appeared around my knuckles and finger joints. I first noticed it by my hands constantly itching. On putting my hands in water the burning feeling would nearly send me distracted. The palms of my hands were all cracked and the skin completely peeled off them, and on awakening during the night the continual itching would keep me awake for hours. I would rub and scratch them until the backs of my hands would look like raw beef. I determined to try the Cuticura Remedies, and having Cuticura Ointment in the house, I bathed my hands with Cuticura Soap and then applied Cuticura Ointment. I suffered with this dreadful affliction for weeks but persevered with Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment and am now quite recovered. I always use Cuticura Soap as a toilet soap and would not be without the Cuticura Ointment." (Signed) Miss C. Florence Daley, October 1912.

Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold throughout the world, a sample of each, with 32-page Skin Book, will be mailed free on application to R. Towns and Co., Dept. T., Sydney, N.S.W.—Advt.

UNSETTLED WEATHER.

HEAVY RAIN.

FURTHER SHOWERS EXPECTED.

The weather during the 48 hours ended at 9 a.m. Saturday was very unsettled and stormy over the south-eastern corner of New South Wales, and moderate to fresh gales raged, with rough seas on the South Coast. These conditions still prevail there, but in a modified degree, but since 9 a.m. on Friday, the Antarctic cyclonic disturbance has intensified over the Tasman Sea, and, with a northward expansion, has caused an extension of the unsettled weather along the coast to beyond Port Macquarie.

Light to heavy rain has been recorded in the SE quarter, but scattered on the slopes, and light to moderate and scattered in the Hunter and Manning districts. On the South Coast, Kiama had 338 points, Sutton Forest 270, Moss Vale 200, Bowral 190, Bateman's 184, Picton 150, Camden 138, Nowra 120, Crookhaven 106, and Bodalla 104.

In the metropolitan area: Marrickville had 137 points, Parramatta 102, Kurrajong 93, Penrith 88, Windsor 86, Riverview 82, Sydney 75, Roseville 62, and Manly 54. In the Hunter and Manning: Clarence Town had 50 points, Raymond Terrace 54, and Newcastle 42; the remainder being all less than the last-mentioned. On the Central Tablelands: Mount Victoria 290 points (250 of which due to melting snow); Blackheath received 184 points, Taralga 130, Katoomba 122, Springwood 105, and Lawson 100. Only light and scattered amounts fell on the central and SW slopes.

At 9 a.m. on Saturday it was cloudy to overcast at many places along the coast and highlands, with showers in coastal parts, south from Port Macquarie; also at Katoomba and Bombala; otherwise, the weather was fine and clear. Many frosts occurred west from the tablelands, and a few fogs.

Moderate to rough seas were running on the South Coast, and they were becoming disturbed and rising on central and northern parts. The winds over coastal districts were equally between SW and SE.

The temperature showed a slight increase on that of Friday morning, the 9 a.m. reading at Queanbeyan being 10 deg. higher. The minimum registrations have also increased, the lowest being 23 deg. at Tenterfield, 25 deg. at Adelong, 27 at Inverell, and 28 each at Cootamundra, Murrumburrah, Bundarra, and Warialda.

Yesterday the centre of the high pressure was still to the west of Tasmania. This is likely to produce more showers on the coast, chiefly north of Sydney, with moderating southerly winds. Rain continued to fall in the city at intervals yesterday. Up to 9 a.m. 15 points were recorded, and from that hour to 9 p.m. last night an additional 18 points fell. Newcastle had 18 points to 6 p.m. on Saturday, and Gabo 48 points to 9 a.m. yesterday.

SNOW IN TASMANIA.

LAUNCESTON.—Heavy falls of snow have twice within the last ten days interfered with work at Mount Bischoff Mine, at Waratah. From July 9 the stoppage was for two days, and on Wednesday last a further visitation caused cessation for one day. Operations are now in full swing.

SNOW IN THE COUNTRY.

DELEGATE.—During the past week the weather in this district has been decidedly wintry. There have been two falls of snow, totalling five inches, and there has also been rain, sleet, and cold winds. These conditions look like continuing. Fortunately, stock in this district are in good condition, and will probably stand the cold snap without trouble.

MILLTHORPE.—A somewhat heavy fall of snow was experienced here on Friday. Commencing about 11 a.m., it fell for a period of about two hours, and when the fall ceased the whole countryside was covered as with a mantle. As, resulting from the continuous wet weather experienced during the past couple of weeks, the earth being saturated, the mere fact of the snow laying showed the heavy nature of the fall. The weather is still unsettled, and the temperature remains very low.

MOUNT VICTORIA.—Following some weeks of extremely severe weather, about nine inches of snow fell on Friday afternoon. The fall seems to have been general throughout the district, as the Mountains around Hampton, Bowenfels, and Jenolan Caves are thickly covered. A large number of excursionists arrived on Saturday, the majority indulging in snow-balling.

ORANGE.—The present is the longest succession of cold days that the district has known since 1909. The weather has been now bitterly cold for eleven days successively, although comparatively little rain has fallen. Snow has passed over the district lightly at frequent intervals, and the Canobolas are thickly covered. The cold is giving a much needed check to the premature budding of the fruit trees. In the Cudal district, wattle was bursting into bloom fully a month before the due time.

WALLERAWANG.—Four inches of snow fell here during Friday night. All the surrounding hills were thickly covered. On Saturday it was bitterly cold.

ARCHBISHOP KELLY AT HURSTVILLE.

Archbishop Kelly held service at St. Michael's Church, Hurstville, yesterday morning, and in the afternoon blessed the new presbytery adjoining the church.

Father Briody stated that the cost of the presbytery was £13[illegible], and other expenses and furnishings cost £2[illegible] 13s. They had also purchased two blocks of land for church extension.

Archbishop Kelly complimented the congregation on the success they had attained. He said that, when Archbishop Vaughan left Australia the total number of Roman Catholics was 33,350 for the State, excepting the dioceses of Maitland, Armidale, Bathurst, and Goulburn. Now there were in the State 286,000 Roman Catholics, which was conclusive evidence that God had given them His blessing.

A collection was taken up, the response being liberal.

EGYPTIAN TOUR.

An interesting tour has been arranged by Messrs. Burns, Philp, and Co., Ltd., for November next. It will be a specially conducted visit to Egypt, the Nile, and the Holy Land. The party will leave Sydney by the R.M.S. Mongolia on November 28, and on arrival at Port Said on December 28 the Egyptian tour, including a trip up the Nile, will be commenced. Visits will be paid to the principal historic towns, mosques, temples, and museums. The Pyramids of Gizah the Assouan Dam, and the Temples of Karnak and Luxor are some of the special objects of interest in this trip. The tourists will proceed from Cairo to Jaffa, and commence the Holy Land tour, in the course of which they will visit, among other places, Jerusalem, Bethlehem, Bethany, Jericho, the Dead Sea, Ford of Jordan, Mount of Olives, Gethsemane, Valley of Jehoshaphat, and Mount Zion. The party will return by the R.M.S. Moldavia, arriving in Sydney on February 18, 1915.

SEASIDE CAMPS.

THE PREMIER'S ATTITUDE.

Recently the Seaside Camp Association wrote to the Premier, asking for a £ for £ subsidy in connection with its scheme for the establishment of a seaside camp at Deewhy, under which women and children in the country needing a holiday would be brought to the metropolis.

In a letter to Miss Grace Burrows, secretary of the Seaside Camp Association, Mr. Holman states that the request will receive careful consideration when the Estimates for the financial year are being framed, though he is personally averse, as a matter of policy, to the expenditure of public funds for the purpose of bringing people—especially young people—to the city for a holiday. He would prefer that other seaside resorts had been determined upon.

THE GOVERNMENT AND CONSUMPTIVES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—As there appears to be a general belief amongst the outside public, and particularly amongst consumptives, that the Labour Government, or the Hon. F. Flowers, representing same, have had a hand in the establishment of the Anti-tuberculosis Dispensary at the corner of Hay and Park streets, Haymarket, and also that the Government is at the present time subsidising the said dispensary, as well as paying the medical officers who attend some salary for their services, I consider it is only fair that I should give those prevailing opinions an absolute denial. Neither the Labour Government nor the Hon. F. Flowers has anything whatever to do with the said dispensary. Neither does any medical officer who attends there receive any salary or honorarium for his services, and the establishing of another dispensary in Surry Hills is to be done by the same committee of citizens who are responsible for the Haymarket Dispensary, and not by the Labour Government at all. As Mr. Flowers has been so much in the public eye lately through his statements of the wonderful work the Labour Government was going to perform on behalf of consumptives, I want the public to know that up to the present all that they have done has been to talk. There is ample room for action on the part of the Government in connection with this scourge of the white race, without the Minister attempting in any way to obtain credit on behalf of his party for what has been done by a committee of public-spirited citizens.

I am etc., PATIENT.

We want you to grasp the real double significance of this special piano offer. It is quite unlike any other piano sale. In this way: The genuine Pianolas—Steck, Steinway, Stroud, and the famous Weber—are more and more replacing the oft-time "silent" piano. Many a home has a splendid instrument that is limited in use to an occasional visitor who can play well. But the Pianola changes that. It goes in while the "silent" instrument comes out. We accept the latter in part payment. That is why—AND ONLY WHY—we have these instruments to sell. Were it not for the desire for the Pianola these pianos would still be in the proud possession of the original owner. In every attribute that makes for Piano perfection they are complete. But they are NOT equipped with the wonderful Pianola. That's all. If you want a high-grade piano at a very low price, this, then, is your opportunity. Many prospective buyers wait for this recurring special sale. The demand for the Pianos will be great. So come early while the choice is so varied. Such makers as Lipp, Steinway, Bechstein, Feurich, Ronisch, Steck, Collard and Collard, Broadwood, are represented in the collection. All the instruments are in splendid condition. The Player-Pianos that we offer have also been accepted in part payment for Pianolas of the most recent model. To examine them will be an eye-opener as regards value.

We accept a down-payment of £5, and easy monthly payments for the balance if you do not care to pay cash.

GOOD NEWS FOR GREY-HAIRED FOLK

To be able to remedy your grey hair by natural means—to bring every grey thread back to precisely the colour it was before greyness crept in—to again have every grey thread its old colour—be it golden brown, red, light brown, flaxen, black, or what not—to have all this, and to gain it without the use of a drop of hair dye, stain, hair tint, or restorer—that is the great, the supreme, the tremendous blessing that Surmanol confers upon you. Surmanol is the recently-discovered remedy for grey hair, which has the extraordinary power of bringing the greyest whitest hair back to its normal colour in a few short weeks. Greyness is caused by a lack of colour oil in the hair. Surmanol strengthens certain glands in the scalp that supply this oil, and thus every grey thread is soon filled with the rich, natural, healthy, pretty colour that was there before. The remarkable feature about Surmanol is that when it has remedied your greyness you leave off using it, for this strange precious colour oil will never—never cease flowing into the hair from the scalp, thus making the return of greyness impossible. Day and night, year in—year out, these colour glands just keep on pumping—pumping colour into the hair, so that soon a grey-haired person will be a stranger in our midst. Surmanol is not a dye. It is 5/ (post free 5/9), from The Edgeworth Laboratories, Hoffnung's-chambers (1st floor), Pitt-street, Sydney (near G.P.O.). Will you call or write for full free information about this extraordinary compound—Surmanol! OPEN FRIDAY NIGHTS.

FOR ALL OUTDOORING,

GREAT!

FOR ALL INDOORING,

GREAT!

Arnott's now-famous "Good Luck" Biscuits are a great treat at any time—anywhere.

Stuff some in your pocket for that long tramp—take a tin on board the yacht on the fishing excursion—throw a dozen in your handbag for that train trip—take a few when you go to the beach.

But when you buy—buy whole tins. Don't accept "Good Lucks" loose from the Grocer—they break and get moist and spoil. It's positively cheaper to buy whole tins—large or small.
